

Flying jelly flops

The traffic-control tower at the Canberra Airport and the Australian Federal Police were swamped by reports of sightings of an unidentified flying object over Canberra and Queanbeyan at about 8.30 last night. The object, however, was not a piece of space junk, but a light aircraft advertising Aeroplane Jelly and other products. The aircraft was using an electronic advertising-circuit board under its belly, which gave the impression of a revolving object.
