

IN BRIEF

Woman says
she saw angel

WELLINGTON: A pregnant woman who fell 2m when a deck collapsed yesterday at a house in Hutt Valley, near Wellington in New Zealand, believes an angel cushioned her fall. Peppi Cavanagh, 24, was one of five people taken to Hutt Hospital after the deck separated from a two-storey house.

After the fall, Ms Cavanagh ended up lying partly in the garage and was briefly knocked out. She said she woke up confused, but with a vivid memory. "I remember feeling like I was falling and flying backwards. I could have sworn I saw an angel standing there — a big tall man. It was white all over," she said.