

shITE

The worst of the Web

Web Mission 10.0:

This week's mission was to find the most esoteric search engine or directory on the internet. Here are the winners.

SEARCH ENGINES

Not Infoseek, Ufoseek
www.ufoseek.com

Chaser reader Eve found this site, which calls itselfg 'The Paranormal and UFO Search Engine.'

Unfortunately the folks at UFOSeek lost all their links recently, a disaster they of all people attribute to an people attribute to a "computer glitch."

The logo for 'ufoseek' is displayed in a bold, lowercase, sans-serif font. The letters are white with a black outline, set against a dark, textured rectangular background.

What a pedestrian explanation from a site that offers 43 links to alien abduction pages and 13 links to pages on the Philadelphia Experiment. Surely their system crashed because of ectoplasm or extraterrestrial breast-manipulation.

Obviously

www.esoterism.com/links

www.yeeeoww.com/yecch/home.html

www.geocities.com/Athens/Agora/6095

Eve also came up with the clear winner of the current Web Mission: The Esotericism Search Engine. I'd say its most esoteric category is 'Darkness', for which there are 50 sites.

Try the link to Ingrid's Translation Services, a company that specialises in translating esoteric and occult texts from German to English or back.

Or visit www.geocities.com/Athens/Agora/6095, where you'll find a Spanish bloke's pages about his experiences meeting Italian author Frank G. Ripel, who is in fact the Antichrist. Juan Francisco Delgado interviewed Ripel - an excerpt follows:

D: In your books you identify yourself as the Great Beast 666 and then, in the initiation process, as the Great Scarlet Dragon (the Eight-Headed and Thirteen-Horned Wild Beast), the Antichrist.

R: Yes, that's correct. I am the King of the World, The Antichrist of historical Christians. Soon the Earth will change and a New Dawn shall rise.

[end of interview.]

Reader Marek Rygielski recommends the directory Yecch!, a fine take of piss on Yahoo! Find it at www.yeeeoww.com/yecch/home.html

Landover Baptist Church

www.landoverbaptist.org

These people have a site at www.landoverbaptist.org which mercilessly satirises Christians for page after excellent page. Hurry for their current offer, "Convert to Christ before Jan 1st 2000, and receive free PCS digital phone!"

Thanks, Jason, for this.

Voluntary Human Extinction Movement

www.vhemt.org

Reader Ben B. told us about the net home of VHEMT (pronounced 'vehement'). They believe the human race should render itself extinct for the sake of the rest of the planet.

They are serious about their plans, but friendly too. "Many see humor in The Movement and think we can't be serious about voluntary human extinction, but in spite of the seriousness of both situation and movement, there's room for humor. In fact, without humor, Earth's condition gets unbearably depressing -- a little levity eases the gravity."

Suicide is not in order for the VHEMT, they simply recommend you don't have children. Hours of philosophy is here to read. This site will be a winning entry if we ever run a 'Find the most depressing website' Web Mission.

Convert To Christ Before
Jan 1st 2000,
And Receive
Free PCS Digital Phone!

Compliments of Sprint, and the Landover Baptist Church. No fixed fees, no roaming charges, absolutely no hidden costs!

Full Details>>

Enter Web Mission 11 0

Enter Web Mission 11.0

Find the most ignorant comment by an American on the Web. To enter, click on the webmission button at www.chaser.com.au