

Sydney Australia

Hacker loses appeal

A British computer expert accused by Washington of the "biggest military hack of all time" lost an appeal yesterday against plans to extradite him to the US to stand trial. Gary McKinnon, whose hacking name was Solo, was arrested in 2002 following charges by US prosecutors that he illegally accessed 97 government computers - including Pentagon, US army, navy and NASA systems - causing $US700,000 worth of damage.
- Reuters

John Palazzi

Sydney Morning Herald
4 April 2007