

Sydney Australia
Far, far, far away ...

Astronomers at the California Institute of Technology say they have spotted the six most distant galaxies ever seen - existing 13.2 billion years ago, when the universe was only 500 million years old. Said the astronomer Richard Ellis: "We think we may be detecting traces of the magic moment when the earliest generation of stars switched on."
The New York Times

Sydney Morning Herald
19 July 2007
John Palazzi