Next lecture is on aliens

UFO studies should become a mainstream university subject, says a US professor.

New York anthropology professor Philip Haseley said students should be able to take classes in the subject because of all the sightings each year.

"It's about time we looked into this as a worthy area of study," he said.

Haseley, head of UFO research group the Western New York Mutual UFO Network, said he investigated up to 50 sightings a month in the region.
