WHEN a UFO spotter sent a TV station his film of strange spacecraft whizzing above Denver, Colorado, they sent their own camera crew out to prove it was a hoax. But after a few hours of filming from the exact same spot, the team captured footage that, far from debunking the strange sighting, appears to confirm it. The KDVR crew had no explanation for the series of dark objects flying at high speed in and out of clouds, even after drafting in an aviation expert in a final bid to disprove the phenomenon.
