Gwent group is trying to explain the inexplicable

MILITARY commanders on the Allied side in the Gulf crisis are men from outer space. Flying saucers have landed at Wentlog and the Martians could already be in charge in Westminster and the White House.

Mrs Kerry Blower, 27, a singer who brought a ghost to her house in Glaslyn Court, Croesyceiliog, Cwmbran, when she moved there two years ago.

Husband Tom; also a singer, was there when I called together with Kerry's mum Marilyn Jefferies, Sian Wilcox, a social worker from Southfields, Cwmbran, who the group has never met before and Jan who declines to give her last name preferring to keep a watching brief as the others take their first faltering steps on the road to cosmic awareness.

she wasn't being a freak by sitting on top of mountains waiting for flying saucers or looking down on the earth as though she was a thousand miles away," said Jan.

"I told her these things are quite normal."

That meeting was the beginning of the group. Jan and Kerry realised that there were others out there who had some sort of supernatural experience but were too frightened to talk about it.

"If there's something wrong with you physically you go to a doctor. We are trying to reach the people who have experienced something strange and may be feeling bad about it but don't know what to do."

"I can astrally travel. I can leave my body at will and travel anywhere in the universe," Tom volunteered.

"It became a bit of a hassle when it happened without you meaning it. Sometimes I'd just rest my head in my hands and whewww.... I was away."

"I last astrally travelled a few years ago. I always ended up by the sea."

Sian has seen quite a few ghosts. Several years ago she shared a flat in Corporation Road with three other mortals and a couple from another dimension.

"They seemed to be from the 1930s or at least we thought so from their dress. They didn't take any notice of us. It was as Although fascinated by UFOs Kerry admits her only strange experience so far has been the household ghost.

"I don't know who it is or what it is. At first Tom and I thought it was the pipes. It starts banging at about 10 o'clock almost every night. We've sort of got used to it now."

Kerry went to see Jan about some problems she was having during which the subject of the ghost came up.

"I told her she wasn't going crazy and that
