

A photograph showing a drogue parachute deployment. The parachute is a large, white, circular canopy with a smaller, textured, yellowish-brown drogue chute attached to its center. The parachute is suspended by a thick white line that extends from the top right towards the center. Several thinner white lines are also visible, some extending from the parachute towards the bottom left. The background is a dark, almost black sky. At the bottom of the frame, there is a bright, glowing light source, possibly a flare or a searchlight, which creates a lens flare effect. The overall scene is captured from a low angle, looking up at the parachute as it descends.
