

Capillary Flow

The results of CFE aim to improve current computer models that are used by designers of low gravity fluid systems and may improve fluid transfer systems for water and fuel on future spacecraft.