

1

00:00:00,820 --> 00:00:04,290

\h George Diller/STS-129 Launch

Commentator: This is Shuttle Launch Control, T-3 hours and holding,

2

00:00:04,290 --> 00:00:08,830

\h where we've entered the suit-up room.

3

00:00:08,830 --> 00:00:14,600

\h And we see our commander, Charlie

Hobaugh, an astronaut since 1996 and a

4

00:00:14,600 --> 00:00:27,770

\h veteran of two space shuttle flights -- STS-104 and STS-118.

5

00:00:27,770 --> 00:00:32,480

\h And Pilot Butch Wilmore, he's making his first flight.

6

00:00:32,480 --> 00:00:39,280

\h He's served here at Kennedy Space Center on the astronaut support team at KSC in launch and landing

7

00:00:39,280 --> 00:00:52,410

\h He was selected as an astronaut in 2000. And Mission Specialist Mike Foreman,

8

00:00:52,410 --> 00:01:00,230

\h veteran of STS-123 in March 2008 -- and he has 378 hours in space,

9

00:01:00,230 --> 00:01:10,740

\h including over 19 hours in EVA time in three spacewalks.

10

00:01:10,740 --> 00:01:29,780

\h And Dr. Robert Satcher, Bobby Satcher, selected as an astronaut in 2006. He's now making his first flight

11

00:01:29,780 --> 00:01:34,380

\h And it's Mission Specialist Randy Bresnik, making his first flight and also serving

12

00:01:34,380 --> 00:01:46,680

\h as an EVA crew member on mission STS-129 aboard Atlantis.

13

00:01:46,680 --> 00:02:08,570

\h And Leland Melvin, having flown on STS-122 in 2008 -- and he has logged over 306 hours in space.

14

00:02:08,570 --> 00:02:13,280

\h The Astrovan is awaiting right outside the door, and there are numerous Kennedy Space Center