

1

00:00:00,420 --> 00:00:06,160

Mike Curie/NASA Launch Commentator: This is Falcon Launch Control . . . from Cape Canaveral

2

00:00:06,160 --> 00:00:09,000

Air Station in Florida.

3

00:00:09,000 --> 00:00:13,820

We were standing by for the launch today of the SpaceX-3 mission, a Falcon 9 rocket with the Dragon spacecraft.

4

00:00:13,820 --> 00:00:15,139

5

00:00:15,139 --> 00:00:22,199

However, at 3:39 p.m. Eastern time, SpaceX Launch Director Ricky Lim made the announcement on the Countdown Net that we are scrubbing launch for today.

6

00:00:22,199 --> 00:00:25,850

7

00:00:25,850 --> 00:00:28,480

We will play back that audio for you now.

8

00:00:28,480 --> 00:00:35,389

Ricky Lim/SpaceX Launch Director: This is LD on Countdown One.

9

00:00:35,389 --> 00:00:40,710

As you folks heard on the anomaly net, we have encountered an issue that will result

10

00:00:40,710 --> 00:00:43,239

in our scrubbing today's 4/14 launch attempt.

11

00:00:43,239 --> 00:00:50,109

The team here will start to safe the vehicle, offload propellants and then work on the details

12

00:00:50,109 --> 00:00:51,309
the next few days forward.

13

00:00:51,309 --> 00:00:54,760
So for now, launch is scrubbed.

14

00:00:54,760 --> 00:00:57,890
Propellants upload will be commencing here shortly.

15

00:00:57,890 --> 00:01:01,260
Mike Curie/NASA Launch Commentator: So we will stand by for more information on the 16

00:01:01,260 --> 00:01:04,260
next launch attempt of the SpaceX-3 mission.

17

00:01:04,260 --> 00:01:13,820
The next opportunity is Friday, April 18, with a T-0 of 3:25 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

18

00:01:13,820 --> 00:01:20,909
And we'll keep you apprised of information via normal NASA Public Affairs channels to