

The engine section is the last of five elements that are needed to join the Space Launch System's (SLS) core stage as one structure.

