

NASA'S SPACEX CREW-1 LAUNCH

1
00:00:00,800 --> 00:00:03,920
Here's our first live look inside the suit-up room.

2
00:00:03,920 --> 00:00:09,280
Wow, it is so exciting to see this.
Each astronaut has an assigned crew team

3
00:00:09,280 --> 00:00:14,800 member essentially responsible for communicating any feedback that everything is fitting well and 4

00:00:14,800 --> 00:00:17,360
is comfortable.
Here they come!

5
00:00:17,360 --> 00:00:23,440
The Crew-1 astronauts now beginning their journey to the launch pad ahead of this historic mission

6
00:00:23,440 --> 00:00:28,320
to the International Space Station.
Outside the O+C building, we have 7

00:00:28,320 --> 00:00:28,820
friends and family gathered there for final goodbyes prior to liftoff.

8
00:00:28,820 --> 00:00:37,802
This is CORE for countdown one for timeline.
The crew is departing for the pad on schedule.

9
00:00:37,802 --> 00:00:48,405

10
00:00:48,560 --> 00:00:51,200
Resilience is power to recover,

11
00:00:52,000 --> 00:01:00,640

will to restore and we strive to survive. Our mission is for everyone. All for one. One for all.

12

00:01:00,640 --> 00:01:03,059

3, 2, 1, 0

13

00:01:03,059 --> 00:01:04,467

15

00:01:08,880 --> 00:01:16,000

And Resilience rises! Not even gravity contains humanity when we explore as one for all.

00:01:25,121 --> 00:01:30,240

Crew-1 is scheduled for a six-month research mission aboard the station

18

00:01:30,240 --> 00:01:34,080

Welcome to the ISS Resilience.
And there they are. First across 19

00:01:34,080 --> 00:01:39,840

the hatch, Mike Hopkins and here is Victor Glover.

20

00:01:42,000 --> 00:01:48,080

There's Shannon Walker and finally,
Soichi Noguchi bringing up the rear.

21

00:01:48,640 --> 00:01:54,400

Four new members bringing the total expedition 64 crew to a total of seven.

22

00:01:55,600 --> 00:02:01,040

It was an amazing ride. I can't tell you how excited we were when that rocket lifted up the\h\h
