As if it is a sin to be born human What you are afraid of, Dear One, is power. And it is no wonder, because, from early on, when you did something "wrong," you were reprimanded by those in positions of authority — parents, school principals, the church, law enforcement, etc. But the Power within you that so much wants to surface is very different from that sort of power. It never punishes. That is because It comes from Me and, unlike those others, I am unconditional. 2022 05 27	Inception Radio Network	https://youtu.be/ZQusbFxaMXM	Navigating the Cosmic Shift with guest, Dale Allen Hoffman	Ancient Insight for the Present Moment Reverend Dale Allen Hoffman is an Ancient Aramaic Wisdom Keeper, mystic and energetic healer revealing long-suppressed ancient secrets and healing modalities. Dale came of age in the 1970s and 80s on the edge of the fabled Pine Barrens of southern New Jersey. The Pines were the ancestral lands of the indigenous Lenape nation as well as an occult hot bed rife with sacrificial cults, the Atlantic City mafia, haunted Revolutionary War battlefields and infamous cryptid The Jersey Devil. Dale's childhood was punctuated by profound experiences of paranormal and natural phenomena, extraterrestrial visitations and spiritual epiphanies. For over 30 years, Dale has been what many call "the teacher behind the teachers". Since coining the term "Aramaic Toning" in the early 1990's, Dale is the frequent "go to" authority for many well-known spiritual teachers, celebrities, business icons, musicians, etc on how to awaken the experiential core of ancient teachings in the most practical ways possible. He is regarded as one of the world's foremost authorities on the incredible transformational power of the ancient Aramaic energetic alchemy teachings of Yeshua and Magdalene in their original 2,000-year-old context. Dale shares a living, breathing vision of this ancient wisdom from the Biblical, Gnostic and Mystery School philosophies as one pure revelation. His work awakens the profound transformational qualities of consciously intoned ancient and indigenous sounds, tones and languages on activating lucid states of alert, ecstatic Presence	Transcript Link

I ask you: How can you break a law — how? 😳 "I don't understand Your question." Since a law is stable and absolute, it cannot be broken. That is what makes it law. If laws could be broken, the universe would shut down. Spiritual law is what maintains universal order and what makes My existence eternal. So many of you are still flouting universal law by following false rulers, thus their false rules — and you have been bending them at that. Can you see how this relates to the trouble you are having? "I'm starting to. Will You show me what spiritual law looks like?" I will do you one better by giving you the Divine Principle, My Law, everything that I am. When you live It — when you let It become anchored within you — Heaven on Earth will be yours. 👉 Feel free to join a powerful, fast, growing movement: http://facebook.com/centeroflightfoundation 📓 "HOMECOMING: Crossing the Bridge To the Soul" 🛒 Purchase here - https://amzn.to/31NFvN1 🌎 www.KeithAnthonyBlanchard.com 🌎 www.YouTube.com/CenterOfLightRadio 💝 You Are Loved Beyond Measure 💝 🙏 YNV 🙏	Transcript Link

As long as one is constantly wanting, one will only fall farther away from the selflessness of Grace into the selfishness of ego. The ego mind is the cloth that veils Consciousness — your wants are its threads. But when you give up your constant wanting, the ego-threads will fall away and the cloth will disappear, revealing your True Nature, the pure, genuine Self that is the Soul. God-realization will happen when you finally free your self from the brain, the senses, the mind — the wanter. Once you break out of your finite little prison of individuality, you will become conscious, enlightened — one with the Cosmic Power. Thus, will you reach God! ALLISON JORNLIN Allison grew up in a small town in southeastern Wisconsin, reading everything in the school library about UFOs, monsters, ghosts, and psychic phenomena and wondering about the mysteries of the big city. When she moved to Milwaukee she dug even deeper into the city's dusty archives and began gathering first hand accounts of encounters with the paranormal. Finally, inspired by Chicago's Richard Crowe, who kick started U.S. ghost tourism in 1973, she founded Milwaukee's first haunted history tour in 2008. When she's not teaching fourth graders at a local elementary school, Allison conducts ghost tours in the Third Ward and down Milwaukee's haunted main street, Wisconsin Avenue. She assists businesses and paranormal investigation teams with in-depth historical research. – www.milwaukeeghosts.com/	Transcript Link

A haunted house or ghosthouse is a house or other building often perceived as being inhabited by disembodied spirits of the deceased who may have been former residents or were familiar with the property. Parapsychologists attribute haunting to the spirits of the dead and the effect of violent or tragic events in the building's past such as murder, accidental death, or suicide. More scientific explanations for the perception that a house is haunted include misinterpreting noises naturally present in structures, waking dreams, suggestibility, and the effect of toxic substances in environments that can cause hallucinations. Black Triangle Sighting in Somerville, Alabama on 2018-01-16 21:09:00 – Triangular shape, 3 lights blinking with 4th red light, low flying, very quiet Synopsis: My girlfriend and i had pulled into her driveway and talked for about 20 minutes. i noticed a very bright flickering light in the southeastern part of the sky fairly far away about 2 miles. we looked at it a little more and we noticed it stopped flickering. it stayed there in the same spot for another minute or two. we got out of the car and continued to look at it. i told my girlfriend i thought it was venus because it was bigger and brighter than anything else in the sky. but, i was confused because i know venus couldn't be that close to the horizon. we continued to look at it more and it started to move in our direction very quickly and like it hasn't moved before. my girlfriend was kind of freaking out. once it got closer it moved in our direction and flew over the neighbor's house right in front of us in a straight path the whole time. we could only see the three lights it had giving it a triangular shape. it had a white and red blinking light as well. it moved very quietly making little sound. the creepiest part about it is how low it flew! it was only maybe 200 feet above us. it flew not very high at all which made the fact that it being so quiet was also very weird. no pilot	Transcript Link

Most people like to think that anything can be figured out or solved… but that’s just not true. Take these 7 mysteries, for example. They have been mysteries for decades (if not longer). No matter how many experts have examined the cases, they are still shrouded in mystery. 1.) The Aluminum Wedge of Aiud In 1974, this is a wedge-shaped object found 1.2 miles east of Aiud, Romania. It was discovered on the banks of the Mures River. It was reportedly unearthed 35 feet under sand and alongside two mastodon bones. It looks like the head of a hammer and is made of an alloy of aluminum encased in a thin layer of oxide. It’s strange because aluminum was not discovered until 1808 and not produced in quantity until 1885. Since it was found in the same layer as mastodon bones, it would indicate that this wedge was at least 11,000 years old. Many people believe that this wedge is evidence that aliens visited earth, since there is no way that humans created	Transcript Link

They need "parts" for their experiments, especially souls. Does this account for the missing people from our National Parks? and for the young men missing from University locations, who's bodies turn up in water with no real cause of death? Are we secretly under siege by an alien force? Is this the government's biggest Alien secret? NIGEL KERNER Nigel Kerner is an author and freelance journalist. Cannabis is a truly ancient plant, an inhabitant of planet Earth long before the appearance of us "two-leggeds" and since our arrival a close companion with a great variety of gifts for humanity, from the most tangible and material to the most intangible and spiritual. After a period of misunderstanding, neglect, and suppression of this remarkable plant, we are now seeing a renaissance of knowledge and respect for our ancient friend and ally. But as cannabis becomes increasingly normalized and legalized, and as so many more of us develop a beneficial relationship with it, one of cannabis' greatest gifts—some would say its most powerful capability—has not yet received much attention and understanding in this era of renewal. - http://www.stephengrayvision.com STEPHEN GRAY	Transcript Link

Xaviant Haze shares his personal research into the idea that biblical stories of the Old Testament and New Testament can be tied to Ancient Aliens. Ancient Aliens In The Bible Saturday, November 25th, 2017 at 11 pm ET, Join Paranormal Now's host Alan B. Smith for a renewed take on the Ancient Aliens theory as he welcomes author Xaviant Haze's personal understanding and research into the idea that biblical stories of the Old Testament and New Testament can be interpreted from the perspective that the ancient gods, God, angels and nephilim (giants) had existed as ancient astronauts who came to earth for self serving reasons. He also offers alternative thoughts on who Jesus was and how he could possibly have such powers. As others have done, Xaviant uses the story of Gilgamesh and the ancient Sumerian history tales as supportive evidence for how to properly interpret the Bible. Xaviant does not mince words in his defiance of traditional interpretations by using a both scientized and creative approach to reading into these fantastic stories of old. XAVIANT HAZE Xaviant Haze is an independent researcher of ancient manuscripts and alternative history, exploring and documenting his findings on lost cities and the myths of the pre-diluvian world. LUCIFER: Who Is He? Where Is He? The latest information from Portal Expert Patrice Chaplin Wednesday, November 15th, 2017 at 7:30 pm ET, join Supernatural Girlz host Patricia Baker and co-host PK as they peak with their incredible guest, Patrice Chaplin, about the remarkable material she has discovered about the true identity of the archangel Lucifer. According to ancient scripture, Lucifer was cast out of heaven as a result of his disobedience, gaining freedom for mankind in the process. In Spain, local legends tell that the fallen archangel appeared in an earthly body, thousands of years ago. As the Child of Light, he was rocked on a mysterious stone cradle by a woman from the East. Seeking to uncover secrets held for centuries, Patrice Chaplin's research into her book The Stone Cradle evolved naturally into Lucifer by Moonlight. From the material she discovered, the rebellious archangel surfaced into the modern day – treading his way down dark streets, forever trying to make sense of his destiny. PATRICE CHAPLIN Patrice's journey into the Grail mystery first began at 15 when she happened upon the Spanish city of Gerona in 1955. She fell in love	Transcript Link

The moon has returned to the evening sky now, and you're likely to see this little moon this weekend, or in the coming week. Some people think a moon visible in the west after sunset is a rising moon. But it's not; it's a setting moon. All objects in our sky rise in the east and set in the west, due to Earth's spin under the sky. When you see a waxing crescent, you know the Earth, moon and sun are located nearly on a line in space. If they were more precisely on a line, as they are at new moon, we wouldn't see the moon. The moon would travel across the sky during the day, lost in the sun's glare. Smith and fellow IRN host of Just Energy Radio, Dr. Rita Louise in a chat about the long history of evidence to support the ancient aliens theory. Author and researcher, Dr. Rita Louise, offers refreshing clues to support the longtime visitation of these "gods" to our planet, what their intentions may have been and considers just how many "alien" races there may be. Assuming that there are a multitude of alien races visiting Earth, Dr. Louise proposes her own interpretation of the Star Trek conception of a "Prime Directive" and how it may have and still does apply to these beings own interactions amongst themselves. Have these intergalactic guidelines lead to conflicts or have they prevented conflict and kept us safe. What we do know from our mythologies and known history, is that drama is not the sole property of human beings. Put your thinking caps and for this delightful discussion! DR. Highlights include: The Sizzle Reel, Rob Beckhusen on the new SR-72 spy plane, his love-life and naming his cat "Puddles." Juan-Juan sings "Mack the Knife." The return of the Black-Eyed Kid. Plus, two Switchblade Steve segments: the Mystery of the Men in Lead Masks and the bizarre story of the Van Meter Monster. Surprise guest: Mrs. Cobra. The UFO Connection to the Mysterious Lead Masks Case There are multiple theories that have been proposed to explain this case, ranging from foul play to UFOs. One theory revolves around the testimony of a friend of the two men, who claimed that they were members of a group of "scientific spiritualists". The men were apparently attempting to contact extraterrestrials or spirits using psychedelic drugs. Believing that such an encounter would be accompanied by blinding light, the men cut metal masks to shield their eyes and may have died of drug overdoses. This account is corroborated by the esoteric diary entry found at the scene and by mask-making materials and literature concerning	Transcript Link

He demonstrates the importance of resolving the binding paradox by pointing to the negative consequences of the separation and concomitant anxiety, implicit in dualism, that really affects us in our ordinary lives. Titus introduces a new concept that is proposed to bridge the divide and provide us a pair of corrective lens so that we may see and understand our reality more clearly. The beauty that comes out of this is in how the science and spirituality become one. TITUS JOSEPH Titus Joseph is author of two books on metaphysics entitled, "Our Curious World of Mirror Images," and, "I AM 'Mind,' I AM 'Consciousness'" (titusjoseph.com). These books introduce a new idea to us called, "Positional Symmetry - Requisite Mirror Image." PSRMI is conceived as the arche—the fundamental principle that explains how existing things come into being, as evidenced by the curious symmetries we see throughout nature and mirrored in the laws of science. Over the years, we've seen lots of informal uses of the term Harvest Moon. Some people (in the Northern Hemisphere) call the full moons of September and October by that name. And that's fine. For the few months around the autumn equinox – both September and October for us in the Northern Hemisphere – the time of moonrise is close to the time of sunset for several evenings in a row, around the time of full moon. The moon is now in a waning gibbous phase, rising in the east later and later each evening. That means you can catch the moon over your western horizon after sunrise this weekend. When is the best time to see the moon in the sky during daylight hours? The answer is that the daytime moon is up there much of the time, but, because it's pale against the blue sky, it's not as noticeable as the moon at night. The most noticeable moon at night is a full moon. The recent full moon was on October 5 at 18:40 Universal Time; translate to your time zone. You can use the Big Dipper to find Polaris, which is also known as the North Star. Notice that a line from the two outermost stars in the bowl of the Big Dipper points to Polaris. And notice that Polaris marks the tip of the handle of the Little Dipper. Headline #2: Close-Up On Cassiopeia The Queen Synopsis: Tonight – or any autumn evening – Cassiopeia the Queen can be found in the northeast after sunset. This constellation has the distinctive shape of a W, or M, depending on the time of night you see it. The shape of this constellation makes Cassiopeia's stars very noticeable. Look for the Queen, starting at nightfall or early evening. Cassiopeia represents an ancient queen of Ethiopia. The entire constellation is sometimes also called Cassiopeia's Chair, and some old star maps depict the queen sitting on the chair, marked by the five brightest stars of this constellation. MMMXFiles national correspondent Switchblade Steve Ward re-visits some of his greatest stories, including the first ever report of the Men-in-Black and the day UFOs were seen over Loch Ness. Who are the Men in Black? In popular culture and UFO conspiracy theories, men in black (MIB) are supposed men dressed in black suits who claim to be government agents who harass or threaten UFO witnesses to keep them quiet about what they have seen. It is sometimes implied that they may be aliens themselves. The term is also frequently used to describe mysterious men working for unknown organizations, as well as various branches of government allegedly designed to protect secrets or perform other strange activities. The term is generic, used for any unusual, threatening or strangely behaved individual whose appearance on the scene can be linked in some fashion with a UFO sighting. Several alleged encounters with the men in black have been reported by UFO researchers and enthusiasts.	Transcript Link

Although Uranus will remain within Pisces' borders for the rest of this year, the moon will leave Pisces after a day or two. Around the world, the moon and Uranus will rise over the eastern horizon by around mid-evening, you can find out a more specific time from an astronomical almanac. Headline #2: Giant Sunspots and Solar Flares: Aurora Alert! Synopsis: Sure, we're headed toward solar minimum, but that didn't keep the sun from acting up this week. Since last weekend, two gigantic sunspots – AR2673 and its pal AR2674 – have been seen from around the world by those using safe solar filters. They've been seen even with the (safely filtered) eye alone, making their way across the sun's face. These Active Regions on the sun spawned multiple moderate (M-class) flares on September 4 and 5. "I just hope everyone survived," Gov. Rick Scott said. He said boats were cast ashore, water, sewers and electricity were knocked out, and "I don't think I saw one trailer park where almost everything wasn't overturned." Authorities also struggled to clear the single highway connecting the string of islands to the mainland. The Keys felt Irma's full fury when the storm blew ashore as a Category 4 hurricane Sunday morning with 130 mph (209 kph) winds. How many people in the dangerously exposed, low-lying islands defied evacuation orders and stayed behind was unclear. Maybe you've already seen a Perseid or two streaking across the summer sky. If not, try looking late at night on August 12, hopefully before moonrise. More meteors should be flying closer to dawn on August 13, but then the moon's light will be interfering. Do try to minimize the moon to optimize the Perseid meteor shower. All in all, this should be a decent night to watch for meteors! Be sure to avoid city lights. While out there peering into dark skies, try looking for the Perseid's radiant point. You don't need to find the radiant to enjoy the meteors, but it's fun to find, and, in this case, relatively easy. Headline #2: Total Solar Eclipse: New Mexico's Chaco Canyon Rock Art Shows Ancient Eclipse Synopsis: It turns out that nearly 1,000 years ago our ancestors were just as keen to share news about a solar eclipse, but in the absence of smartphones or computers they used more primitive means to depict the stunning solar event: rock art. Smith as we time slip with the authors of the book, Beyond The Bermuda Triangle: Beyond the Bermuda Triangle: True Encounters with Electronic Fog, Missing Aircraft, and Time Warps. Pilot and author, Bruce Gernon and co-author Rob MacGregor take us on a journey through the Bermuda Triangle to share a first hand account of what it is like to be caught in the grip of the mysterious phenomenon that has been reported by pilots for many years. Bruce is convinced that the strange cloud formations seen, navigation controls going awry and shifts in time are all related to space time being warped by some unknown process of which they do have a working theory for. BRUCE GERNON & ROB MACGREGOR Bruce Gernon is a certified seaplane flight instructor and a master captain with a Coast Guard license. Synopsis: This weekend – August 11-12 and August 12-13, 2017 – are the peak nights of the 2017 Perseid meteor shower. Watch from late evening until dawn on both nights. The greatest number of meteors typically fall in the wee hours before dawn, and on a moonless night, you can often spot 50 or more meteors per hour. But this year is far from moon-free. In 2017, a bright waning gibbous moon lights up the sky after midnight. Still, the Perseids are well worth watching. A good percentage of these meteors should be bright enough to overcome moonlit glare. Plus, you can minimize the moon to maximize your enjoyment of the meteor shower. Headline #2: Solar Eclipse Facts From NASA Scientists Synopsis: After months of waiting and planning, the solar eclipse is finally almost here! August 7 was the full moon, and a full moon rises at sunset. So the August 8 moon rises in the east within an hour after sunset. And it will rise later and later each evening, although not late enough to leave skies moon-free for the 2017 Perseid meteor shower, which peaks this week, on the mornings of August 12 and 13. However, you can catch the daytime moon over your western horizon after sunrise in the next few mornings. Woot! Headline #2: Why No Eclipse Every Full and New Moon? Synopsis: A lunar eclipse happens when the Earth, sun and moon align in space, with Earth in between the sun and moon. At such times, Earth's shadow falls on the full moon, causing a lunar eclipse. A solar eclipse happens at the opposite phase of the moon – new moon – when the moon passes between the sun and Earth. Why aren't there eclipses at every full and new moon? The moon takes about a month to orbit around the Earth. If the moon orbited in the same plane as the ecliptic – Earth's orbital plane – we would have two eclipses every month. They always point to Polaris, the North Star. And Polaris is part of the Little Dipper. See these two famous star patterns tonight! To find the Dipper at this time of year, look toward the northwest in the evening. The Big Dipper consists of seven moderately-bright stars, so it's often visible on a moonlit night or from a light-polluted city. If you have a dark night free of moonlight – like those coming up – you can see the eighth star of the Big Dipper. Look carefully at the second star from the end of the Dipper's handle. With a dark sky and good eyesight, you'll see that this star, Mizar, has a nearby companion, called Alcor. As with any lunar eclipse, the moon will sweep through the Earth's shadow from west to east, even as the moon travels across our sky from east to west. Any lunar eclipse can only happen at full moon, when the moon is opposite, or nearly opposite, the sun in Earth's sky. That's the only time that it's possible for the moon to sail through the Earth's shadow. August 6, 2017 – the moon may look full and round in your sky. Yet this August full moon falls tomorrow, on August 7 at 18:11 UTC, which is during the daylight hours on August 7 for us in the Americas. Normally, it's not vital whether the crest of the moon's full phase falls in daylight or darkness for your part of the globe. The coming full moon is a bit different, however, because it will undergo a shallow partial lunar eclipse. We in the Americas will miss it because the full moon crests in daylight, for us. And a full moon is always opposite the sun, up all night. Thus the moon will be below our horizon when the eclipse takes place. Headline #2: An Earth-like Atmosphere For Proxima b ? Synopsis: In August 2016, when scientists announced the discovery of a planet orbiting the nearest known star, Proxima Centauri, people got excited. That's largely because it's not just any planet: it's a planet similar in size to Earth, orbiting in its star's habitable zone. At 4.2 light-years or 25 trillion miles from Earth, Proxima b is vastly too far away to be explored in our lifetimes, although that	Transcript Link

Tuesday, August 1st, 2017 at 9 pm EDT, Kevin Cook of The Kevin Cook Show along with co-host Heidi Hollis invites paranormal adventurers Paul and Ben Eno to help us learn about the rare monsters that lurk in the woods at night and the reasons why we should absolutely avoid them at all cost. PAUL & BEN ENO Paul & Ben Eno are best known as the father-son co-hosts of the CBS Radio and WOON 1240 Boston/Worcester/Providence Sunday destination show Behind the Paranormal, with an estimated three million listeners. They have nearly 60 years of combined experience as paranormal researchers and adventurers. This is the second book they have written together. Paul was one of the first paranormal investigators of the early 1970s, beginning while he was studying for the priesthood. His early mentors included parapsychology pioneer Dr. Louisa Rhine, Fr. John J. Nicola S.J. (technical advisor for the film The Exorcist) and legendary, first-generation “ghost hunters” Ed & Lorraine Warren. He graduated from two seminaries, but was expelled from a third because of his paranormal work with less than two years to go before ordination.	Transcript Link

The half-lit first quarter moon just happened on Sunday, July 30. Waxing means we're seeing more and more of the moon's illuminated side, or day side. Gibbous means the moon's disk appears to us now as more than 50% lit by sunshine. On July 31, the moon is barely more than 50% illuminated, but the moon will be appearing bigger and brighter each evening this week. Full moon will come August 7 or 8, 2017, depending on your time zone. And thus, in 2017, the moon will all but obliterate the annual Perseid meteor shower. At the same time, the moon is now edging toward a lunar eclipse, then a solar eclipse. Headline #2: People Are Calling This NASA Statement a "Warning" – Read It For Yourself Synopsis: People have been calling NASA's latest statement about the upcoming total solar eclipse a "warning," but the agency simply refers to the suggestions as "safety tips." Come to know it, and you will see why. Vega is easily recognizable for its brilliance and blue-white color. You can also easily pick out its constellation Lyra, which is small and compact, and consists primarily of Vega and four fainter stars in the form of a parallelogram. The little constellation Lyra has some interesting features. Near Vega is Epsilon Lyrae, the famed “double-double” star. Between the Gamma and Beta stars is the famous Ring Nebula, visible in small telescopes. Headline #2: Space Agencies Prepare For Communications Drop Out as Mars Is Cut Off From Earth Synopsis: NASA and other space agencies are preparing for some down time this week as communications with the planet Mars are cut off or seriously degraded. On July 27 at 01:17 GMT, the Red Planet will be in conjunction with the Sun. This means that between July 22 to August 1 there will be so much radio interference from the solar corona that it will not be possible to safely transmit orders to any of the Mars spacecraft. By definition, a supernatural or paranormal phenomenon is an event that defies explanation in terms of the typical human experience. In other words, it is something that science can't explain; at least not yet. Examples of paranormal phenomena include ghosts, cryptids, telekinesis, and other forms of psychic powers or supernatural entities.	Transcript Link

Synopsis: Tonight – July 27, 2017 – and in the coming nights, treat yourself to one of nature's spectacles. Every year, people look forward to the August Perseid meteor shower. And it's wonderful, with regular rates of about 60 meteors per hour at its peak. The Perseids are gearing up even now, so if you go outside between midnight and dawn tonight or this weekend, you might see some. But there's another meteor shower happening now, too. It's the Delta Aquarid meteor shower. The Delta Aquarids don't have as definite a peak as the Perseids. Instead, the shower produces a steady supply of meteors for some weeks in late July and early August. Tonight – or this weekend – are good times to watch because the moon is in a waxing crescent phase. That means the moon now sets in early evening. In other words, we have deliciously dark skies for watching the Delta Aquarids, which are at their best in dark hours before dawn. It's a little over eight years since the flights of Gagarin and Shepard, followed quickly by President Kennedy's challenge to put a man on the moon before the decade is out. It is only seven months since NASA's made a bold decision to send Apollo 8 all the way to the moon on the first manned flight of the massive Saturn V rocket. Now, on the morning of July 16, Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins sit atop another Saturn V at Launch Complex 39A at the Kennedy Space Center. The three-stage 363-foot rocket will use its 7.5 million pounds of thrust to propel them into space and into history. At 9:32 a.m. EDT, the engines fire and Apollo 11 clears the tower. About 12 minutes later, the crew is in Earth orbit. Headline #2: Perseid Meteor Shower Starts Now Synopsis: The Perseid meteor shower, one of the brightest and most active meteor showers of the year, began Monday, July 17. That means the Earth has moved into a trail of debris left in the wake of the comet Swift-Tuttle. Or if you're up before dawn, say an hour or two before sunrise, then let the predawn darkness show you the star Aldebaran and the Pleiades star cluster as well. Although Aldebaran ranks as a 1st-magnitude star – and the Pleiades is highly recognizable for its dipper-like shape – both pale next dazzling Venus. Thus the light of the coming dawn can drown them from view. Venus – the most brilliant planet – ranks as the third-brightest celestial body to light up the heavens, after the sun and moon. Venus shines nearly 100 times more brilliantly than Aldebaran, the brightest star in the constellation Taurus the Bull. Headline #2: Future Space Colony? This star is the brightest in the constellation Tarurus the Bull. It represents the Bull's fiery Eye. The July 19 morning moon is also in the vicinity of the Pleiades star cluster, aka the Seven Sisters, also in Taurus. If you go outside too close to the sunrise, you might not see Aldebaran or the Pleiades; your sky might already be too bright. But you'll easily spot the moon and Venus, both of which are shining in front of Taurus the Bull right now. Headline #2: Citizen Scientists Discover New Brown Dwarf Synopsis: Astronomers' inventory of brown dwarfs is growing thanks to the diligent work of citizen scientists. As part of the NASA-funded Backyard Worlds: Planet 9 project, four citizen scientists helped identify a new brown dwarf, WISEA J110125.95+540052.8, which was detailed this week in the Astrophysical Journal Letters. Today, notice the star Deneb, the northernmost star in the Summer Triangle. Its constellation is Cygnus the Swan. In a dark country sky, you can see that Cygnus is flying along the starlit trail of the summer Milky Way. If it's darker out, you might recognize the Summer Triangle by noticing that there is a cross within the Triangle. The constellation Cygnus is that cross. In fact, the constellation Cygnus is sometimes called the Northern Cross. Just remember, the constellation Cygnus the Swan contains the Northern Cross. The Cross is – more or less – just another way to see the Swan. The Northern Cross is what's called an asterism, or recognizable pattern within a constellation. In this case, the pattern is the whole constellation, pretty much. From the Northern Hemisphere, look southward at mid-to-late evening in July. From the Southern Hemisphere, look around this same time, but overhead. From all parts of Earth in the month of July, Ophiuchus crosses the sky westward as Earth spins under the sky, and as evening deepens into late night. Ophiuchus is sometimes called the 13th or forgotten constellation of the zodiac. The sun passes in front of Ophiuchus from about November 29 to December 17. And yet no one ever says they're born when the sun is in Ophiuchus. That's because Ophiuchus is a constellation – not a sign – of the zodiac. If you can find the Summer Triangle, you can use it to locate three of the sky's smallest constellations: Vulpecula the Fox, Delphinus the Dolphin and Sagitta the Arrow. All three would be impossible to see from the city. If you're up for a binocular challenge, try finding the Coathanger asterism in Vulpecula. On the other hand, the little constellations Delphinus and Sagitta are very distinctive. They're easy to see in a dark country sky, because both actually look somewhat like the objects/creatures for which they're named. Delphinus is supposed to be the Dolphin that carried a Greek poet – Arion – safely away from his enemies. Sagitta is sometimes considered to be an arrow shot from the bow of Hercules. Will you see the planet Saturn just south of tonight's moon? Probably, if you look, and if clouds don't hide them. If not, try covering the moon with your finger to gaze at nearby Saturn. Although the supergiant red star Antares is not as bright as Saturn, it might be easier to see since it's farther from the moon's glare. Follow the links to find out more about the two celestial lights that are in the moon's vicinity on July 6, 2017. Headline #2: Juno To Buzz Jupiter's Great Red Spot Synopsis: NASA said the Juno spacecraft – which, as of today, has been in orbit around the giant planet Jupiter for one year – will fly directly over Jupiter's famous Great Red Spot on July 10, 2017, probing for the Spot's roots in the depths of the planet's cloud layers. It'll be part of Perijove 7, one of Juno's periodic science flybys over Jupiter in the course of the spacecraft's highly elliptical orbit. We expect both Antares and Saturn to be bright enough to overcome tonight's lunar glare. Although we draw in the stick figure of the constellation Scorpius the Scorpion, you might have some difficulty making out its fishhook-shape tonight. But the moon will drop out of the evening sky by mid-month, enabling you to see this constellation in all its starlit glory, For now, use the moon to find Antares and Saturn, and then let Antares and Saturn serve your guides to the constellation Scorpius once the moon has moved onward. Both Antares and Saturn are of 1st-magnitude brightness, so they are still pretty easy to see on a moonlit night. We reach this point on July 3, 2017 at 20:11 UTC. That's 15:11 (3:11 p.m.) Central Daylight Time in the U.S. Translate to your time zone. Is it hot outside for you on your part of Earth right now? Or cold out? Earth's aphelion comes in the midst of Northern Hemisphere summer and Southern Hemisphere winter. That should tell you that our distance from the sun doesn't cause the seasons. The fact is that Earth's orbit is almost, but not quite, circular. So our distance from the sun doesn't change much. Today, we're about 3 million miles (5 million km) farther from the sun than we will be six months from now. That's in contrast to our average distance from the sun of about 93 million miles (150 million km). The word aphelion, by the way, comes from the Greek words apo meaning away, off, apart and helios, for the Greek god of the sun. Apart from the sun. That's us, today. For years, Deborah Byrd has glanced up in the north at this time of year and spied the two stars marked on today's chart, Rastaban and Eltanin in the constellation Draco. They're noticeable because they're relatively bright and near each other. There's always that split-second when she asks herself with some excitement "What two stars are those?" It's then that her eyes drift to blue-white Vega nearby . . . and she knows, by Vega's nearness, that they are the stars Rastaban and Eltanin. Headline #2: Red Dwarf Flares Leave Question Mark Over Exoplanet Habitability Synopsis: There are billions of red dwarf stars, leading some scientists to believe they may provide the energy needed to foster habitable planets. The recent discoveries of planets in the habitable zones of the TRAPPIST-1 and LHS 1140 systems have lent force to this hypothesis. But now, researchers are asking if these dwarfs are really as hospitable as they seem, or whether the intense flares that erupt from their surface might make life on any orbiting planet impossible. "What if planets are constantly bathed by these smaller, but still significant, flares?" asks Scott Fleming of the Space Telescope Science Institute (STScI) in Baltimore. We've heard it called the micro-moon or mini-moon. That bright starlike object near tonight's moon isn't a true star; it's the planet Saturn. This June full moon occurs less than one day after reaching lunar apogee, the moon's farthest point in its monthly orbit. The near alignment of full moon and lunar apogee team up to give us the farthest and smallest full moon of the year. One fortnight (or approximately two weeks) before this June 9 micro-moon, it was the closest new moon of the year on May 25, 2017. On that date, the new moon paired up quite closely with perigee, the moon's nearest point in its monthly orbit. And thus we had the closest new moon – and closest supermoon – of 2017. What a sight! The moon and Jupiter pop out first thing at dusk, and they'll be fun to spot in the darkening sky. A bright star nearby, Spica in the constellation Virgo, will come into view to the east of the moon and Jupiter as night deepens. Headline #2: Expedition 51 Crew Back on Earth After 196 Days Synopsis: After spending 196 days in space, Expedition 51 crew members Oleg Novitskiy of Roscosmos and Thomas Pesquet of ESA (European Space Agency) landed their Soyuz MS-03 spacecraft in Kazakhstan at approximately 10:10 a.m. EDT. The planet will be at its greatest western elongation, or greatest angular distance west of the sun on our sky's dome. Watch for Venus to blaze mightily in the east this weekend, as dawn climbs into the sky. At this elongation, Venus swings 46o west of the sun. After June 3, Venus will slowly but surely fall sunward (toward sunrise) and ultimately pass behind the sun (at superior conjunction) on January 9, 2018. That's when this world will transition out of the morning sky and into the evening sky. Being able to visualize it from your favorite spot to observe the heavens is helpful, because the moon always moves approximately along this path, and so do the planets. Once you get a sense of it, you'll know to look for certain bright stars and planets along this nighttime pathway. And indeed, on these June 2017 evenings, three bright stars and two planets – and, on June 1, the moon – can help you visualize the ecliptic crossing your sky. Headline #2: SpaceX Set To Reuse Dragon Cargo Spacecraft in Launch Synopsis: Barely two months ago, SpaceX made history by becoming the first company ever to reuse an orbital rocket booster. Now the company is going one step further by attempting to reuse one of their Dragon spacecraft. Reusable rockets make a lot of sense. An asterism isn't a constellation. It's just a recognizable group of stars. This one is made of three bright stars in three different constellations. Now notice the star Deneb, one of the three Summer Triangle stars. When you gaze at Deneb, you're gazing across a great distance of space. The exact distance to Deneb is not known for certain, but the currently accepted distance of around 2,600 light-years. That makes Deneb one of the most distant stars we can see with the eye alone. Although our sky chart at the top if this post is specifically designed for mid-northern latitudes in North America, nearly everyone worldwide can use the moon to find the star Regulus tonight. Just look for the moon in the evening sky. The bright star nearby will be Regulus. Headline #2: Weekend Auroras At The South Pole Synopsis: On Saturday, May 27, 2017, a coronal mass ejection or CME arrived at Earth from the sun, sparking a strong G3-class geomagnetic storm that peaked on May 28. According to spaceweather.com, auroras were sighted in more than 20 U.S. states (and no doubt at similar latitudes in the Northern Hemisphere). That's why those who see green flashes most often see them over a sea horizon. You also must be looking just at sunset, at the last moment before the sun disappears below the horizon. And you have to be careful not to look too soon. Wait until just the thinnest rim of the sun appears above the horizon. If you look too soon, the light of the sunset will dazzle (or damage) your eyes, and you'll miss your green flash chance that day. Headline #2: Two Big Asteroids To Pass Safely Synopsis: A pair of space rocks, each with a size of about a third of a mile (half a kilometer), will safely pass by Earth, the first on Monday, May 29, 2017 and the second on June 1. Although both asteroids will pass at very safe distances, they will offer good opportunities for astronomers to study these space rocks by using radar. Forbidden Archeology documented a massive amount of evidence showing that humans have existed on earth for hundreds of millions of years. Such anomalous evidence, contradicting Darwinian evolution, catalyzed a global inquiry, "If we did not evolve from apes, then where did we come from?" Human Devolution is author Michael A. Cremo's definitive answer to this question. "We did not evolve up from matter; instead we devolved, or came down, from the realm of pure consciousness, spirit," says Cremo. He bases his response on modern science and the world's great wisdom traditions, including the Vedic philosophy of ancient India. Cremo proposes that before we ask the question, "Where did human beings come from? we should first contemplate, "What is a human being?" Cremo asserts that humans are a combination of matter, mind, and consciousness (or spirit). ========== MICHAEL CREMO Michael Cremo is a member of the History of Science Society, the World Archeological Congress, the Philosophy of Science Association, the European Association of Archaeologists and a research associate in history and philosophy of science for the	Transcript Link

Synopsis: Before dawn this month of May look very low in the east – very shortly before sunrise – for the extremely thin waning crescent moon and elusive planet Mercury. Will they be as close together as the 2016 photo of the moon and Mercury shown at the top of this post? No. The moon will sweep 1.6 degrees south of Mercury this month; that's about three moon diameters. Still, if you manage to catch them, they will be beautiful in the dawn light. Headline #2: Which Moon Phase Is Best For Stargazing? Synopsis: And the answer is … it depends on what you want to do. Some people enjoy watching the moon itself, as it waxes and wanes in our sky. Some enjoy the fact that the moon appears near bright stars and planets at certain times of the month. For instance, over the past several mornings, we've seen the moon slipping down toward the sunrise, edging toward the next new moon on May 25, passing the planets Venus and Mercury in turn. Douglas Dietrich on just energy radio, power by inception radioOn Thursday, July 30th, 2015 at 8 pm EDT, the charismatic Dr. Rita Louise of Just Energy Radio relies on the expertise of researchers John Ward and Carmen Boulter to explain the reality behind the history of ancient Egypt. DR. JOHN WARD is renowned for his investigations of ancient Egyptian architecture and symbolism. The Knights Templar of Britannia has sponsored him to conduct several archaeological and historical surveys and expeditions. Dr. Ward currently works the quarries of Gebel el Silsila, south of Luxor on the Nile, officially cataloging their epigraphic surveys. DR. CARMEN BOULTER will bring us exciting news from Egypt where she will discuss a site that was rediscovered using space archeology. How old could this site be? It’s not known at this point but Dr. Boulter references Calendar of Catastrophes and recalls the historic prophecy “when the head of the crab hits the heart of the lion.” This implies a processional cycle. Ancient texts reveal that Atlantis had 3 major catastrophes. One 13,600 years ago, another 17, 500 BC, and the first one, the date is unknown. TRAVIS WALTON was one of a group of loggers who recklessly left the safety of his truck to take a closer look at shinning lights in the woods. What happened next sent his companions fleeing in fear. When Travis failed to reappear, the men were suspected of murder. For five days authorities mounted a massive manhunt in search of Walton or his body. Walton eventually reappeared, disoriented and initially unable to tell the details of his terrifying encounter. His book Fire in the Sky provides an account of his experience. A major motion picture was also made with the same name. THOMAS REED and his family – Brother Matthew, mother Nancy, and grandmother have a documented history of multi-generational abductions that would span over fifty years, and five states. In this case, most of the family members share the same blood type, O Rh negative, and A Rh negative. Before, during, and after these abductions, neither Thomas nor his family members would have their memories fully blocked, they were wide awake, aware of what was happening, and allowed to recall almost all of what took place during the abductions. JEREMY RAY was only 20 when he found himself among the NATO forces fighting in the Kosovo War in 1999, at the time just about the most dangerous spot on the planet. Ray's job of protecting ethnic Albanians against Yugoslav forces who tried to practice "ethnic cleansing" led him to Kosovo's capital city of Pristina, and that's where he saw them. Four balls of red light hovered over the city, then swooshed away at high speed. Ray's unit commander, a lieutenant, had him fill out a report of the sighting. "They took it very seriously," he said. And that wasn't Ray's first sighting. Three years earlier, when he was a high school student in his hometown of Victoria, he and several of his neighbors witnessed a bright light hovering over the rooftops. "The grownups were all freaking out,"he said. After that sighting, Ray said he "had my nose in books all the time" to further his knowledge about the UFO phenomenon. "I'd known something was going on," he said. But it was his later experience in Kosovo that made him realize his future would involve the investigation of whatever was up there. His favorite subjects in school were science and physics, and through them he searched for the scientific explanation of the energy he was experiencing – but there were no explanations to be found until 1994 when he met the distinguished physicist, Dr. William Levengood of Grass Lake, Michigan. Dr. Levengood was able to measure and quantify Edd's energy output in his laboratory. For several years Edd worked on laboratory experiments with Dr. Levengood, as well as with Dr. John Gedye and Charles Pyler. He learned how to increase his energy output, to turn the energy output off completely, to control the switch of the polarity of the energy from positive to negative, and to affect the lab equipment from a great distance (even thousands of miles). Edd and the scientists designed and carried out countless experiments, with Edd's measurable output of energy continually increasing. At the same time, control of his energy became more precise. Later in the show, Dr. Rita learns about the agenda of the alien race from researcher Jordan Hofer. MARSHALL BARNES is a research and development engineer and conceptual theorist, with a specialty in theoretical physics and cognition related to creativity and technologically induced modes of perception. He is a member of the Philosophy of Time Society, National STEM Foundation and the NineSigma open innovation organization. In Jun 14, 2012, he was named Edutopia.org Featured Member of the Week and was accepted as a member of the 1,000 Scientists in 1,000 Days program by Scientific American magazine that same month. Marshall is currently promoting a STEAM (Science Technology Engineering Arts Math) agenda. JORDAN HOFER is a MUFON Research Specialist in Anthropology and author. Though Jordan has never seen a UFO himself, he has many friends who have, and he believes the evidence for UFOs and the Grays compelling enough to accept their existence. Jordan Hofer taught human evolution at university for seven years before the recession forced budget cuts in his department and he was laid off due to lack of funds. In addition to being a ufologist, Jordan is also an evolutionist and strict classical Darwinist.	Transcript Link

Tague return with researcher Mike Campbell along with producer Richard Spink, to update listeners on the myths and absurd theories on the plight of Amelia Earthart's infamous voyage. MIKE CAMPBELL, formerly was a journalist in the Navy and, later, a civilian public affairs officer. He retired from federal service in 2008. After meeting Thomas E. Devine, author of the 1987 classic,Eyewitness: The Amelia Earhart Incident, the two began a 14-year correspondence that culminated in their collaborative book, With Our Own Eyes: Eyewitnesses to the Final Days of Amelia Earhart. This was the first book to present the first-person accounts of 26 Saipan veterans whose experiences in the summer of 1944 corroborated Devine's own, firmly establishing the prewar presence and deaths of Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan, her navigator, in Japanese captivity on Saipan.  Join forces with IRN and dig deeper. http://inceptionradionetwork.com/membership-account/membership-levels/	Transcript Link

LARRY HOLCOMBE VA near the Richmond Army Air Base, a training base for P-47 pilots. My earliest memories are of life in a small town that was really a functioning part of the military as many families in the community rented rooms to service men and their wives stationed at the air base. Post WWII was a simple and lovely time in Sandston; a Norman Rockwell small town of tree lined streets with white frame houses. A new car or someone getting a television created a wave of excitement, but it was also a time when great change was just beginning to occur. It is truly fascinating to look back as witnesses to the extraordinary changes that have taken place from that simple time to the present, and it is part of who I am today.  Join forces with IRN and dig deeper. http://inceptionradionetwork.com/membership-account/membership-levels/	Transcript Link

Mark Zaskey has been an active Crypto-Zoologist and investigative journalist for over 15 years. He has spent tens of thousands of hours in the field on “expeditions” and “incursions” into the territories of the unknown, investigating both Sasquatch and other unidentified species. He has interviewed hundreds of Bigfoot eyewitnesses on four different continents and had several encounters of his own. In 2001 he began an investigation into the possibility that the existence of the species is being covered up by multiple Government agencies and authoritative scientific organizations . After considerable time and effort, he recently released his findings and conclusions in a report entitled; “Who Decides what is real?”The report and all the information contained in it points to a “scientific monarchy,” that has thus far managed to contain and suppress any and all physical evidence that has been obtained and found to be from an unknown species of human-type being… including D.N.A.He uses common sense and simple deductive reasoning to promote a look at the subject of Bigfoot from the outside-in, and shows that there are many more important questions that should be asked about the subject, like Who Should be looking into this? and why aren’t they? Or Are they?	Transcript Link

Later in the show, Dr. Rita cracks the secrets of the ancient giants in the Midwest with researcher Mary Sutherland. About Keith Blanchard Best selling author and composer, Keith Blanchard, was born on November 30, 1963, in Houma, Louisiana, and had a typical middle class Catholic upbringing. In his early teens, he often entertained himself by pondering the big questions about God and the universe. Little did he know that the day would come when those questions would form the spiritual foundation upon which he would build the rest of his life. In his late twenties, Keith went through a crisis that stripped him of everything he held dear and left him with no choice but to turn inward for answers. This he did, but the peace and stability he so wanted still eluded him. When he was thirty-two, celestial beings began to appear to him, sharing glimpses of his future and the world's. Not only did they enlighten and guide him, they instructed him to pass their message on to others so that they, too, could learn a higher way of living. Now in his forties and living a peaceful, stable life, Keith continues to pursue his passion to both learn and teach about Truth. Keith's credo: Why choose to believe when you can know! 2015 03 10	Inception Radio Network	https://youtu.be/qFRrkc7g74I	Peter Moon - NightVision Radio	IRN's resolute seeker of truth, René Barnett of NightVision Radio fishes through acclaimed author Peter Moon‘s research notes for clues on the Montauk Project which was believed to “hold secret United States government projects of psychological warfare and time travel”. Peter Moon is a native Californian who early on became interested in creative writing, science fiction, and science during his high school years. His exploration into these fields, during the 1960s, led to an interest in Eastern Religion and Western Occultism which culminated in a unique career and association that centered around the private concerns of L. Ron Hubbard. Peter later forged an association with scientist Preston Nichols, one of the world’s foremost experts on electromagnetic phenomena who had been involved in strange experiments at the Montauk Air Force Station on Long Island which included the manipulation of time. Their collaboration in “The Montauk Project: Experiments in Time” and its subsequent sequels have now reached legendary proportions. Peter is a co-author of several books and his own “The Black Sun: Montauk’s Nazi-Tibetan Connection“  Join Forces with IRN, and explore all the fun we have on our network. http://inceptionradionetwork.com/membership-account/membership-checkout/?level=1	Transcript Link

2015 03 09	Inception Radio Network	https://youtu.be/_wP__3fSZeM	Noe Torres & Ruben Uriate - Del Rio UFO Festival 2015 (4 of 7)	Texas author Noe Torres and veteran California UFO researcher Ruben Uriarte stunned the UFO world in 2008 with the publication of their book The Other Roswell: UFO Crash on the Texas-Mexico Border, in which first-hand witness Colonel Robert Burton Willingham said he visited the crash site of a UFO near Del Rio (in Langtry). The authors have spoken about the case on numerous TV and radio shows, and world-renowned UFO investigator Dr. Bruce Maccabee called it “One of the world’s most interesting UFO crash retrieval stories.” Noe and Ruben brought the latest information on this remarkable story to the 2015 Del Rio UFO Festival. Did you know that before airplanes were invented, before anything but birds flew in the sky, before science-fiction stories were written … metallic disks were seen blazing through the skies of North America? Did you know that REAL cowboys actually met REAL aliens? This is not Hollywood – these are actual, documented cases of UFO encounters in the 1800s. UFO researcher Stephen Andrasko brought these amazing stories during the Del Rio UFO Festival.
