I'm reading "Hassle". Turns out there are plenty of balloons available with that word, in the context of graduation celebration.

this video by Daniel Wagner looks like

2
00:00:06,349 --> 00:00:04,380
it shows a weird-shaped UFO shoot past

3
00:00:07,849 --> 00:00:06,359
his glider a lot of people said it looks

4
00:00:10,310 --> 00:00:07,859
like a balloon but what kind of balloon

5
00:00:12,049 --> 00:00:10,320
and why the weird shape I brightened it

6
00:00:13,610 --> 00:00:12,059
up isolated the frames and made an 7

00:00:15,709 --> 00:00:13,620
animation so you could see the shape and 8

00:00:17,029 --> 00:00:15,719
the design better you can make out a 9

00:00:18,529 --> 00:00:17,039
little bit of what looks like a word

10
00:00:20,210 --> 00:00:18,539
starting with h

11
00:00:22,609 --> 00:00:20,220
then I put out the call on Twitter and

00:00:24,290 --> 00:00:22,619
on metabung Sky identify Forum we will 13

00:00:25,910 --> 00:00:24,300

briefly sidetrack thinking it was the

00:00:28,490 --> 00:00:25,920

Washington Huskies maybe in the form of

00:00:30,410 --> 00:00:28,500

a shirt but then Oswald Hager suggested

00:00:32,089 --> 00:00:30,420

the word was Hassle and that it was a

00:00:32,990 --> 00:00:32,099

graduation balloon so the hunt was on 18

00:00:35,690 --> 00:00:33,000

again

19

00:00:37,610 --> 00:00:35,700

a few hours later Deidre of metabunk

20

00:00:39,470 --> 00:00:37,620

found the actual matching balloon for

00:00:42,530 --> 00:00:39,480

sale in an Oregon flower shop and there

00:00:44,889 --> 00:00:42,540

it was a hundred percent case closed yet
