Maxwell Blue Book | NARA Blue Book | Project Sign | Other Official Microfilm

When Project Blue Book was closed down in January 1970, the original files were transferred to Maxwell AFB where they were made available on request for public viewing until 1975. In 1975 these documents were microfilmed by the Air Force for internal use and then transferred to the National Archives for public release. Before microfilming these documents for public release, however, the Air Force blacked out witness names and other personal information in accord with its policy of protecting the privacy of witnesses despite the fact that the files had been available for copying and inspection for years without these deletions. In 1998 a set of the original unredacted Air Force microfilm was discovered at the National Archives. In addition to witness names and information, it has been confirmed that these rolls contain some pages that are not on the NARA rolls.

- Maxwell Blue Book 1
Contains Project Sign, Grudge, and Blue Book Reports including the Project Twinkle Final Report, Project Stork Status Reports, and Project Blue Book Special Report No. 14.
- Maxwell Blue Book 2
Contains various supplementary data and publication correspondence associated with Project Blue Book Special Report No. 14 as well as Case Files for June and July 1947. An index to all case files is also included.
- Maxwell Blue Book 3
Contains Blue Book Case Files covering August, 1947 through to the end of August, 1948.
- Maxwell Blue Book 4
Contains Blue Book Case Files covering July, 1948 through to the end of December, 1948. Notable cases include the Chiles-Whitted sighting, the Gorman UFO dogfight, and the Green Fireball sightings.
- Maxwell Blue Book 5
Contains Blue Book Case Files covering February, 1949 through to the end of April, 1949.

US Senator persuaded Earth has been "visited by creatures from Outer Space". Says he was told about UFOs with "incredible speeds" by Air Force, Navy and commercial pilots. [1974...] <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/D8KZ0KLV4AAUIdg.jpg>

ENQUIRER

Vol. 48, No. 19, January 6, 1974 LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER IN AMERICA

'I BELIEVE EARTH HAS BEEN VISITED BY CREATURES FROM OUTER SPACE'

Sen. Barry Goldwater is convinced UFOs are real — and that they are operated by space aliens from distant planets.

"I believe the earth has been visited many times by creatures from outer space," declared the Arizona Republican in an exclusive ENQUIRER interview at his home in Washington, D.C.

Speaking with firm conviction, the always outspoken senator said: "I can't believe that in this never-ending universe our planet is the only one with intelligent life. I'm not convinced, after having been around for 65 years, that human beings are the smartest creatures in the universe.

"I certainly believe in aliens in space. They may not look or talk like us, but I have very strong feelings they have advanced past our mental capabilities."

Goldwater, a retired Air Force Reserve Brigadier General and a top-notch pilot with 44 years of flying experience, rejects claims that UFOs are imaginary or natural phenomena. "I've doubted stories from many witnesses, but when qualified pilots and other experts tell me they've seen strange, unexplained flying objects, I have to put faith in their reports.

U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater Convinced UFOs Are Real:

'I Believe Earth Has Been Visited By Creatures From Outer Space'

UFO BELIEVER Senator Barry Goldwater (R.-Ariz.)

"Air Force, Navy and commercial pilots have revealed to me cases when a UFO would fly near them — right off their plane's wing — and then just zoom away at incredible speeds.

"I remember the case in Georgia in the 1950s of a National Guard plane going after a UFO and never returning. And I can recall the case in Franklin, Ky., when four military planes investigated a UFO. One of them exploded in midair and no one knows why."

Although Goldwater admits never seeing a UFO, he said he has heard strange signals apparently from outer space on his ham radio set. "These signals had a cadence or sequence which sounded like a code. It wasn't like any code I'd ever heard before.

"The United States and other countries like Russia have picked up noises from space. But nobody knows where they come from or what they are. I do know that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is doing a lot of research into this."

Goldwater, who in 1964 ran on the Republican national ticket for President, said he's been thwarted in his attempts to see research files at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, where UFO investigations were conducted. "I've never been able to get into the Air Force Research Office at Wright-Patterson.

"I asked Gen. Curtis LeMay, who for years was head of the Strategic Air Command, for permission to check in to the files and he told me: 'Hell no, and don't ask me again.'

"I think some highly secret government UFO investigations are going on that we don't know about — and probably never will unless the Air Force discloses them.

"But someday soon, someone's going to have strong UFO evidence that can't be explained away."

The senator scratched his white-haired head and pushed his glasses back on the bridge of his nose. "I do believe in UFOs. And if my secretary came in one day and said: 'Sen. Goldwater, there's a 3-foot-tall green man with four eyes and an antenna sticking out of his head waiting to see you outside,' I won't think my secretary is nuts. I'll simply say, 'Send him in.'"

THERE ARE SAUCERS —ADMIRAL

From Our NEW YORK Reporter

A RETIRED American admiral claimed yesterday that there were "unidentified flying objects" visiting Earth's atmosphere—and said that the U.S. Air Force had "plenty of evidence of them."

Rear - Admiral Delmer S. Fahrney, who retired from command of the U.S. Navy's guided missiles project in 1950, told me: "I've never seen one of these things myself, but I do have an open mind because friends, who are scientists and trained observers, have seen them.

"And I know the Air Force take them very seriously. They

Just what is this 'black triangle?'

HELLO and welcome once again. This week there's an interesting account of the now famous 'black triangle' this time seen over Shevington.

A woman and her young daughter were travelling home when they spotted the object in the skies above them. When they got home they both drew the object they had seen and their sketches were identical.

The woman says: "I was travelling home from my mother's house and I reached the T-junction at Church Lane, Shevington at 5.35pm. I was waiting to turn left into Broad'oth Lane on my way home to Appley Bridge. As I was waiting, my daughter - who is nine-years-old - asked me what was in the sky. She was very excited so I tried to lean over to see through her window. I couldn't stretch over far enough to see but as I looked up through the sunroof of my car I saw a large triangular shaped craft with a red flashing light at each corner.

In the middle on the underside of the craft was what appeared to be a mass of blue/white flashing light. The craft was at about the height that a helicopter flies at and was not travelling very fast or very slow. Although it was quite dark, it wasn't too dark to see the shape of the craft. I turned left and then stopped the car in the bus stop immediately on the left. I got out of the car, the object was now moving away towards the direction of Heinz. There was no noise from it at all."

The woman finishes by saying: "As you can imagine, at 5.35pm there were a lot of other people about as well. Surely someone else saw it."

One interesting point the woman made was that the craft was flying with a flat edge going forward, not one of its tips.

Did you see this wierd craft. The date was Wednesday, January 15 and the time was 5.35pm.

The meeting was to be held in the History Shop in Rodney Street due to refurbishments at The Orwell but it has now switched back and will be held in The Orwell.

The focus of the meeting is the frequently experienced sense of paralysis featured in many abduction cases.

PARANORMAL: New society to discuss UFO sightings, ghosts and spiritual healing

Flying triangle joins balls of light on roll call of mystery

PARANORMAL investigators are studying a spate of sightings of a mysterious black triangle in the sky.

The triangle craft, and a series of other unexplained balls of light in the sky around Cardigan Bay, have been reported by about 20 people to the newly formed West Wales Paranormal Society.

Now the society is recording all the information it has received onto a new database of UFO sightings in West Wales.

And information is being passed on to similar bodies worldwide through the Internet in the hope they can discover whether the craft is really something out of this world or has a basis in more mundane reality.

"Ultimately we hope to get to the bottom of it all," said the society's organiser Adam Whaley from Newquay.

"But we have no videos, no photos and no multiple witnesses so it's a bit like trying to catch shadows."

He said the black triangle craft, which was first seen in the US around 1988, has since been spotted by hundreds of people worldwide but there has been no official explanation for its existence.

Whether of military or alien origin, it invariably appears in the night sky preceded by a flash of lightning.

Witnesses say it is huge and moves from a stationary hovering position to hundreds of miles an hour within seconds.

It was first spotted in West Wales some months ago.

But on the night of November 21 last year there were around half a dozen separate sightings along with numerous other accounts of mysterious colours lighting up the night sky around Cardigan Bay.

"People definitely saw something," said Mr Whaley.

"There are too many different accounts for it to be merely the work of the imagination.

"My own view is that it is probably some sort of secret military craft which the authorities want to keep quiet."

The investigation into the mysterious black triangle is the first major research project to be undertaken by the paranormal society which meets once a month in Lampeter.

But unexplained UFO sightings is only part of their interest.

The 50-strong group will also discuss any phenomena for which there appears, as yet, to be no scientific explanation, such as ghosts, spiritual healing, ley lines or crop circles.

"We'll look at anything," said Mr Whaley. "Our members range from those deeply committed to spiritual explanation of events to those more like myself who are sceptical and keep an open mind."

A spokesman for the Ministry of Defence dismissed reports of any UFO sighting and said it did not believe there were any real or tangible sightings of UFOs.

"We only investigate occurrences if they have a defence implication," he said.

New riddle as friends spot triangular UFOs

THE mystery surrounding reports of triangular UFOs flying across the West deepened last night with claims of another sighting of the strange craft.

Student Peter Lancaster, aged 26, and friend Mark Kelly, 30, claim to have seen three black, wedge-shaped aircraft sweep across the sky on Wednesday night.

Mr Lancaster, of Marnhull, Dorset and Mr Kelly, of Yeovil, were driving along the Street to Somerton road when they saw the strange craft.

"We were amazed and we both said: 'What the hell was that?', said Peter yesterday.

"We were on our way back to Yeovil from a football match at Glastonbury at about 9.45pm and it was dark but we could make out the shapes.

"They were triangular and much bigger than light aircraft.

"Each had a red and green light and they were travelling in close formation about 100 feet above the ground heading from Glastonbury across towards Bridgwater.

"We had heard a slight whirring sound before but these were not helicopters or Sea Harriers. We were amazed.

"I have got an open mind about UFOs and I think these must have been some kind of stealth plane, a military aircraft."

Royal Naval Air Station Yeovilton, which is just 10 miles from Street, said some of its "normal" aircraft, including Sea Harriers, had been flying last night.

Several sightings of 'triangular, orange UFO'

A MAN in Howard Road, Walthamstow, claims to have seen a mysterious craft in the sky at 2.40am on Friday, the same night as the eclipse of the moon.

He described the unidentified flying object as 'triangular and orange in colour'.

Roy Lake, a London UFO specialist to whom the man reported the sighting, says the description bears out other sightings across the capital over the last few weeks.

"In September last year we had only three reports of UFOs. This year, we have had 40. They include several of this triangular object with green lights which has now been seen in Walthamstow and Chingford.

"There is definitely something big happening," he said.

Mr Lake wants to hear from anyone else who has seen the UFO. All phone calls will be treated in complete confidence.

Call Mr Lake on 270 9919 or his colleague on 0171 684 0775.

Dear Mr. [REDACTED]

This is in response to your letter of Jan. 30. The two men were checked over by Geiger counter for radiation and when the check for radiation showed negative results, they were released. They were never admitted to the hospital so there was no written report made or required. The radiation check was made at the request of the Sheriff's Department in Pascagoula and verbal notification of the results was given a representative of the department.

As noted in my previous letter, the Air Force discontinued Project Blue Book, the Air Force UFO investigation program in 1969.

Dear Mr. [REDACTED]

This is in response to your letter of January 7, 1975 concerning the incident of October 11, 1973 in Pascagoula, to which you refer.

The two men mentioned in your letter, Calvin Parker and Charles Hickson, were brought to the USAF Medical Center, Keesler, the afternoon of October 12, 1973, for an examination at the request of civil authorities. The examination showed they had no signs of radiation and they were released.

Any conversation with the men during their brief stay at the medical center would have been on an informal and unofficial basis since Project Blue Book, the Air Force program for the investigation of UFOs was discontinued December 17, 1969. This policy was in effect at the time of the Pascagoula incident.

File copies of Project Blue Book are at the Albert F. Simpson Historical Research Center, Maxwell AFB, Ala. 36112, where they are available to the public for review. Although the Center does not have the reproduction capability to provide duplicate copies of Project Blue Book reports (some 26 standard file drawers of material), the complete University of Colorado report is available in paperback form at a nominal cost from Bantam Book Company.

Sincerely

Dr J Allen Hynek - More photos of him from his files. Copies of most appeared in newspaper stories and UFO magazines [and were presumably taken for them and/or as publicity shots], but I think these are better copies. I still prefer the Star Wars themed photo...

@JackFrostvc I can't even remember posting in public any collection of material about Westall. :) I'll have a look. I only have a vague recollection of a brusque message telling me that I shouldn't be posting about Westall as I wasn't Australian (and I can only remember that it wasn't Keith).

in P.N.G. (Port Moresby) of August 1953. The then Minister for Air, W. McMahon, admitted that the RAAF sent the film to the United States Airforce for evaluation. Was the film returned from the United States, if not, why not.

7. Regarding the UFO landing of 6.4.1966 near Westall High School, Clayton, Victoria: Why did the RAAF burn the grass in the area to destroy the 'landing nest'.
8. Regarding the airplane with nine passengers aboard that vanished on 22.10.78 (12 hours after Valentich) over the Solomon Islands. An intensive search by the RAAF allegedly failed to find trace of the place or bodies. Can you advise relevant details of the investigations.

9. Re Valentich Case:

@UFOmabz Believe it or not, there is a rather fun novel about communicating with aliens via dance. :) Of course, this novel isn't even mentioned in the UAP Task Force report (along with many other interesting fictional, and non-fiction, material...)

@ilfakiro1 I don't think Mega will work for this collaboration. Forms combined with Google Drive looks promising (see the video below) - although I find it hard to believe that there isn't a better off-the-shelf solution for public collaboration. https://youtu.be/unaDRVKy_uA

@ilfakiro1 Okay, thanks I'll try Mega. I've created an account, made a folder and added a few files. I can see how to email someone to collaborate but can't see how that folder can be made public so that _anyone_ can post to that folder without having to get my approval or a password.

"Annals of the Enquiring" magazine was published in the 1990s. In addition to UFO articles, it covered wide range of Fortean, Earth Mysteries, Cryptozoology, the paranormal and "bizarrerie". The editor was Gerry Lovell. 22 issues are now online.

"Flying Saucers are dead". UFOs are "no longer news". (Arthur C Clarke, in the Daily Mail newspaper, 6 July 1971). http://pbs.twimg.com/media/EXIFom_WkAlyE2g.jpg

As ever, the Mail gets the top names

Whatever happened to Flying Saucers?

by ARTHUR C. CLARKE

AUTHOR OF '2001'

THE other night, as I was standing outside my house in Colombo, Ceylon, I saw the finest of the six or seven Flying Saucers I've encountered during the last ten years.

It was a brilliant light, moving slowly and rapidly in a dead straight line across the starry sky.

I would have taken it for an artificial satellite, or a high-flying aircraft, were it not for the fact that its brightness pulsed and fluctuated in a most peculiar manner. Like all good Unidentified Flying Objects, it sent a little shiver running up and down my spine, and made me wonder if, perhaps, this time, . . .

SPACE Mysteries

But the next morning, again like all the others, it turned out to have an absurdly simple explanation. (No, I'll let you worry about it for a while.) However, it started me thinking about the rise and fall of the UFO's, and I believe that some useful lessons can be learned from this peculiar episode in our recent history.

Of course, people still see UFO's, for the simple reason that there are so many of them around: if you have never seen one, it means that you don't keep your eyes open. But the public is no longer worried by them, and the subject is no longer news.

The hysterical credulity of the late '40s has been replaced—except in the minds of the few surviving cultists—by a realization of the fact that the heavens are full of extraordinary sights (astronomical, meteorological and electrical) which the average man may encounter only once or twice in his lifetime. (What would you make of a rainbow, if you'd never seen it before?)

Colonel Glenn's 'beefies,' for example. But again—no Flying Saucers.

Today, nearby space is combed by the Ballistic Missile warning systems, whirring every second of the night and day for a threat which we know exists. Their radar beams can, quite literally, detect single nuts and bolts and broken fragments of satellites. Nothing bigger than a football moves for long over major areas of this planet without being detected; at this moment, about five hundred orbiting objects are being tracked as they circle the Earth.

Knowledge reduces the opportunity for genuine mistakes, and also dispels fear and dread. We will hear no more of encounters with 'little green men' from Venus; now that Mariner has shown that the surface of that planet is sealed in utter darkness beneath a poisonous atmosphere seven or eight times denser than our own—and at a temperature hot enough to melt some metals. In the unlikely event that things do live on Venus, they may well be green and little; but they won't be men.

No—Flying Saucers are dead—yet by a strange paradox, the idea associated with them has never been more alive than at this moment. Fifteen years ago, scarcely any reputable scientist cared to speculate about life on other worlds; today, this is fast becoming one of the central problems of astronomy.

Until recently, scientists staid away from life-in-space discussions for a very good reason. They have to get involved in questions that cannot be answered, preferring to leave them to the philosophers and the theologians.

SPACE Messages

But, within the past decade, it has become obvious that this great question can be answered, either by direct rocket probing and exploration, or by improvements in telecommunications which seemed completely impossible only a few years ago.

commonsense, and that there must be billions of more-or-less Earth-like worlds.

At the same time, biologists have developed highly plausible theories to account for the origin of life from non-living materials and believe that this is an inevitable and natural process on all heavenly bodies where certain suitable conditions are obeyed. (And perhaps on others where they are not; but we can only speculate profitably about the types of life we know here on Earth.)

There is no longer an unbridgeable gap between dead rock and living cell, as there was 20 years ago; in the history of this enormous Universe that gulf must have been crossed millions of times.

And what of the perhaps equally great gulf between life and consciousness—between consciousness and intelligence—between intelligence and the technology that can conquer space? How often are these crossed? We do not know, but we guess that it must have happened many times. If science has taught us anything it is that we and our world are in no way unique.

SPACE Visitors

So here we have this ironic situation. At the very moment when we are starting to understand the many strange apparitions in the skies, and no longer rush to explain them as visitors from space, scientists are asking in tones of increasing perplexity: 'Well—why aren't there any visitors from space? Where is everybody?'

There are many answers to this quite baffling question—all of them unsatisfactory. (Some examples: space is just too big for intelligent races to meet, except by pure luck; we're too unimportant to warrant more than one visit every few million years; we're quarantined as infectious—etc., etc.) The truth is that we simply don't know, but we may be able to make some intelligent guesses when our first deep-space probes start reporting back.

but my legs wouldn't obey me. Finally, the beam of light went out. I then recovered the use of my muscles and ran."

Sept. 17, 1954, Cenon, France. M. Yves David was bicycling on a dark night when he felt a strange sensation of discomfort—a sort of prickling or itching all over his body. The sensation continued and before long he was paralyzed. It was then he noticed the dark object parked in the road ahead. From it came a small creature which touched him on the shoulder and uttered a sound, then returned to his UFO and sped away. At the same time, M. David recovered the use of his limbs.

Oct. 16, 1954, near Dieppe, France. Dr. Henri Robert was driving his car when he spied four discs flying in formation in the sky. One of them peeled off and came swooping low over his car.

Dr. Robert says he felt a kind of electric shock and at the same time his engine died and his headlights went out. Dr. Robert then became paralyzed and could not move, as the UFO landed on the road and a little creature he thought to be 3 ft. tall shone a light at him. When the tiny man and UFO left moments later, Dr. Robert was able to move and start his car.

Scientific corroboration for these EM effects abounds. Naval studies in the U.S. prove that beyond skin burns, EM suffered radiation burns but there was no permanent damage. The rash on her arms and legs might be from shock at what she had seen, the doctor suggested.

All of these physical effects on humans seem to be comparatively mild and temporary—but now we come to something more subtle and serious. John Keel, noted UFO investigator, who has interviewed hundreds of witnesses, says that in many cases friends and relatives describe the UFO-observers as "changed persons." They tend to act detached, as if shaken to the roots of their beings, he says.

One of the most publicized recent victims of EM radiation was a horse named Snippy, who was found dead in mysterious circumstances at a point near Alamosa, Colo. Rancher Harry King, having missed the animal for a couple of days, went looking for him. He found him a quarter-mile from the ranch house. All the flesh had been stripped from his head and neck and nearby there were what seemed to be 15 circular exhaust marks on the ground amid crushed-down brush. A Denver pathologist, called in to investigate, found that the animal's brain, abdominal and spinal cavities were empty. Signs of radiation were present. Mrs. Burl Lewis, owner of the horse, found an object, presumably a tool of some sort, near the carcass. It was covered with horse hair. When she picked it up her hand turned red and began to burn; it continued to do so until she washed her hands. Later the pathologist and other members of the investigating party saw two UFOs pass over the ranch house.

Elsewhere farmers and pet-owners are complaining of cases in which saucermen have apparently killed and sometimes dissected their animals. William Watson, Gallipolis, Ohio, found his German shepherd crushed flat inside a perfectly circular imprint. There was no blood. A registered nurse in the same area, having seen saucers above pastures on her farm, ran out with a shotgun one night to chase a man in white cover- [Continued on page 136]

How Flying Saucers Can Injure You

radiation goes deeper and affects the brain and muscles, causing slowed reactions and partial loss of motor ability.

Another EM research discovery is that eye tissue is particularly sensitive to EM radiation. The following UFO sighting experience is, therefore, especially interesting.

Nov. 10, 1957, Madison, Ohio. Mrs. Leita Kuhn saw an acorn shape, as big as a house, over her garage. She stared in a trance for 30 minutes at the dazzling bright object, her eyes hurting. A few days later, a rash developed on her body and her vision was impaired. Her doctor said her eyes looked as though they had

How Flying Saucers Can Injure You

By O. O. Binder

ITAIPU, Brazil, Nov. 4, 1957—It is 2:30 a.m. on a quiet, moonless night. The garrison of the Itaipu fort is peacefully asleep when two sentries see a new "star" burst suddenly into life over the Atlantic. They watch with detached interest until they realize it is not a star but a luminous flying object coming straight toward the fort. It hovers 120 to 180 ft. above the highest turret. The object is the size of a big airliner but disc-shape and encircled by an eerie orange glow. The two men hear a humming sound—then the nightmare. An intolerable wave of heat strikes them.

One sentry staggers, blacks out. The other has the horrible feeling that his clothes are on fire. He begins to scream and stumble about desperately. His cries awake the garrison. Inside the installation everything is confusion. . .

After the UFO left, it was found that both sentries had first- and second-degree burns on more than 10 per cent of their bodies. The sentry who could talk later was in deep shock.

This account, corroborated by other men at the fort and checked out by UFO investigators, is the most dramatic reported instance of physiological electromagnetic (EM) effects caused by UFOs on the human body.

EM effects are widely reported phenomena, often encountered when a low-level flying saucer is observed. Some sort of field of energy—perhaps related to an electromagnetic propulsion system of a UFO—surrounds each saucer for a distance of 50-200 ft.

EM effects are credited with killing car motors, blacking-out radio, interfering with TV reception, affecting comalls. He leaped over a high fence and disappeared. Nearby were cow carcasses, expertly butchered. Near Twin Falls, Idaho, three men saw a saucer come down and make off with a steer they took into their machine. Similar accounts deal with the complete disappearance of calves, pigs, dogs and rabbits; these reports come from various places in the States and from as far away as South America and Italy.

AMERICAN

An Italian scientist named Cazzamalli has found that people subjected to EM fields tend to develop hallucinations. Soviet scientists list other adverse effects—memory loss, migraine headaches, insomnia, dizziness, irritability, chest pains and hand tremors.

Obviously it would be wise to follow the instructions of Michael J. Campione, a UFOlogist who has studied the harmful effects of saucer EM fields. He advises in a booklet (Modern Manual of UFO Truth) the following precautions:

Auto and Truck Drivers: Should UFO get too close and your engine conk out, get out of vehicle and keep it between you and UFO as protective barrier.

Pedestrians: If in wooded area, get behind a large protective tree trunk. If near building, enter it. If no shelter available, lie on back on ground and cover head, face, neck, arms and hands beneath clothing.

One last observation—it has not yet been proven that UFOs deliberately cause human harm or aim rays at people. The unfortunate results seem to be purely accidental when humans happen to be within passes, stopping electric clocks, magnetizing wristwatches, jamming radar in planes and blacking-out electric power systems. UFOlogists believe that the great Northeastern power blackout of Nov. 9, 1965, might have been caused by the 23 saucers sighted at the time, from Canada down to New Jersey.

JANUARY 1968

DEAD HORSE on King ranch, near Alamosa, Colo., is tested for radiation. Indication of radiation was found. Flesh was stripped from head and neck and belly, brain and spinal cavities were empty.

But the physiological effects on humans are more frightening. The burning skin of those Brazilian guards is not, however, some out-of-this-world effect. Researchers both in the U.S.S.R. and the U.S. show that high-power radar beams cause thermal effects on the skin. But the ray burn is only one of the many weird effects of the UFO's ultra-powerful EM-field. A more serious effect is highlighted in the following reports.

At 1 a.m., Mar. 8, 1967, Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace of Leominster, Mass., saw a large white light hovering over a cemetery. Mr. Wallace stopped his car, leaving the motor running, and got out. The car engine stalled, the radio went off, the lights went out; Mr. Williams stood paralyzed for an estimated 30 seconds. Then the UFO moved away, picking up speed and emitting a humming sound. It was 15 to 20 minutes before Mr. Williams recovered full coordination, according to his own testimony.

Sept. 10, 1954, Quarouble, France. Marius DeWilde saw a dark shape on a railroad track, from which emerged two small creatures in "diving suits." Then, he says, "I was no more than six feet from the two forms when I was blinded by an extremely powerful light, like a magnesium flare. . . I closed my eyes and tried to yell but I couldn't. It was just as if I had been paralyzed. I tried to move

UFO Detectors

Kenneth Mosser of Clarissa, Minnesota, has invented many things in his 55 years, ranging from a fish attractor to a generator that converts buoyancy energy to electrical power. In the 1980s, he invented a UFO Field Detector. Having seen a few UFOs himself, he had given the phenomenon a lot of thought, and he came up with a piece of equipment that he says harnesses the Earth's electromagnetic field. When a UFO passes through that field, disturbing it, the UFO detector lets the operator know.

Mosser's UFO detector and his pyramid energy devices earned him a fleeting moment of fame when he was invited to appear on the television program Real People. Now he has made the cover of a new book, One-Minute Superstars, by Sondra Farrell Bazrod.

Kenneth Mosser demonstrates his pyramid-power hat.

"The Weird Desk"?

by Gary » Fri Jul 23, 2010 1:46 am

I found this account by Maccabee in an old email from the 1990s (I don't know if it is still on line):

HOW DID RON PANDOLFI AT THE CIA COME TO BE INVOLVED IN UFO INVESTIGATIONS IN 1984

Well, Kit Green, whom I had met in 1978 when I went to the CIA to talk about the New Zealand sightings, I went there with some fear and trepidation without knowing what the heck was going on. I knew they had radar experts and I thought maybe they could help me with some of the radar and if there was anything TOP SECRET that happened to be flying around in New Zealand at the time. But basically, what it amounted to was that I gave them a lot of information and they gave me nothing.

But I did meet this guy, Kit Green... There was an intersection point between remote viewing and UFOs... But there was this intersection point where the psychics started zeroing in on UFOs and the people in the paranormal side were saying, 'This can't be. UFOs aren't real.'

So they had to start investigating what was going on in the UFO community. Green, as the head of the weird desk at the CIA, was aware of all this in the paranormal and remote viewing and he was part of the intersection with UFOs.

Kit Green left the CIA in the early 1980s and Ron Pandolfi took over what Kit Green was doing. Pandolfi is a very smart guy and he ended up doing a lot of different research. Being in charge of the weird desk was only part of it. But also he was worried about the laser zapping gap which is why he contacted me in the first place back in 1984.

He started talking to me about UFO stuff. In 1987, we had the MUFON symposium at American University in 1987 and there was a lot of publicity about it. So, Ron Pandolfi invited me to give a talk at the CIA about UFOs. It was to be an open talk, that is in the sense that anybody at the agency could show up from secretaries, case workers and so on. And he told me that the room it was in was the Director's Conference Room. There was a big long table in it and so many people showed up all the chairs in the room were taken up. People were standing around the outside. And guess what I told them? I told them about their own CIA files.

I went through all the stuff we knew about the CIA and sightings and Pandolfi told me afterward that I created a lot of spies in the agency. People who were trying to dig up stuff that might be buried here and there.

That's sort of how he got involved in this stuff.

Moore showed some of Doty's reports during a documentary on UFOs produced by Ron Lakis, and later Barry Greenwood and Larry Fawcett of CAUS captured one of them on video tape freeze-frame, then submitted FOIA requests for the documents. Doty responded to the request by forwarding several "reports," which were dutifully reprinted in 'Clear Intent', Greenwood and Fawcett's book. This process legitimized the "documents" and convinced even skeptical UFO advocates that Bennewitz had stumbled onto something important.

Note that after critical review the document appears to cleverly tap dance around the issue (neither confirming or denying Bennewitz's alien spaceships) so that it could be interpreted either way... without necessarily getting Doty (and perhaps more importantly for Doty, Miller) in trouble. 😊

Just sayin'...

Hopefully sexism has reduced in publications relating to UFOs since the 1950-1960s. Back then, it was fairly common for UFO articles to be published in magazines such as "Sir!", which had the tagline "A Magazine For Males".

Looking into UFO detection projects, so far I've found 40 recent/current projects. Many of those involved are apparently unaware of most of the other projects. Have I mentioned my concern about inefficiency within ufology and time/energy wasted reinventing the wheel? :)

made by using this costly original as a mold.

Like a prism, a diffraction grating breaks up light into its component colors. The fine slits in the grating bend the light rays as they pass through—separating them into bands that range from the violet end of the spectrum through the blue, green, yellow and orange sections to the red end of the spectrum. The way in which these bands are projected onto the film reveals the nature of the light source.

Light Source May Be Solid or Gaseous

For example, the light from a Mazda bulb produces an unbroken or continuous spectrum, indicating a solid light source—the heated tungsten wire. On the other hand, a fluorescent tube projects a number of separated bands of light—a discontinuous spectrum—indicating a gaseous light source.

It is not necessary to use color film. The Air Force itself is using black and white. It is the arrangement and intensity of the light bands on the film that provide the information the scientists want.

Suppose you send the Air Force two saucer pictures photographed through a diffraction grating. The first shows a continuous spectrum of greatest intensity at the red end, the second a discontinuous spectrum most intense in the area which would be green on color film.

The trained analyst will interpret the light source in the first photo as a solid (continuous spectrum) of relatively low temperature (greatest intensity in red area) and conclude that your first saucer is probably a reflection of a Mazda light source on the ground—a car headlight perhaps. Your second photo, indicating gaseous matter at high heat as the light source, will most likely be set down as a meteor—the well known “green fireball” saucer.

Of course if the Air Force discovers that your negative indicates the existence of an element not found on this planet, you and your camera will go down in history.

Diffraction Gratings Have Other Uses

Like the photographic technician, astronomers, criminologists and industrial scientists use diffraction gratings to analyze unknown materials. The astronomer shoots a new star through a grating to discover its composition. The FBI agent puts a bit of the dead man's cuff in the crater of an arc light and studies its spectrum.

You don't need a Videon Stereo camera to

How to Expose Flying Saucers

You're invited to join the Air Force's new project for studying saucers by photographing them through a diffraction grating—a device that reveals the chemical composition of a source of light.

By Ralph Steiner

THE U.S. Air Force has set a new squad of 200 detectives on the trail of the flying-saucer mystery. These sleuths are photographers armed with cameras specially equipped to take pictures that may reveal the source of strange lights in the sky. Because similar equipment is available to anybody, you, too, can join the hunt.

And even if you never get a chance to shoot a flying saucer, you can still have a lot of fun with a homemade version of the saucer camera with which the Air Force hopes to separate hoax and hallucination from scientific reality.

The camera the Air Force will use is the Videon Stereo with twin matched lenses of 35-mm. focal length and a maximum aperture of $f/3.5$. It takes standard 35-mm. film cartridges. A stereo camera was chosen, not because it takes stereoscopic pictures, but because it offers a convenient means of taking two pictures at the same time.

One lens will shoot a conventional picture. The other—and here we come to the gimmick the Air Force is pinning its hopes on—will be covered by a diffraction grating. This is a glass or plastic plate ruled with extremely fine lines—as many as 15,000 to the inch—scratched on the surface with a diamond point. The original grating is created on a special “ruling machine”—an instrument so sensitive that the heat of an approaching human body can upset its accuracy. Reasonably priced replicas are join the saucer hunt. Any stereo camera will do. In fact, when I phoned the Pentagon to inquire whether the Air Force would be interested in photos taken with single-lens cameras, I was assured that any shot of a flying saucer made through a diffraction grating—even with a box Brownie—would be more than welcome.

You can get replica gratings from the Central Scientific Co., 441 Clinton Avenue, Newark, N. J. For a small lens with front opening no greater than 20 mm., order their grating number 86705, with a ruled area 20 mm. by 22 mm. on a two-inch-square glass. It costs $3.53. For larger lenses, they have grating number 86706, with a ruled area of 60 mm. by 70 mm. on a 82-mm. by 100-mm. glass, for $12.83. The pictures show you how to mount your grating.

A few general suggestions. First off, remember a flying saucer won't wait. Have your camera loaded and ready, tripod-mounted if possible, focused at infinity. Use panchromatic film. The highest shutter speed consistent with good exposure will help freeze your saucer.

Experiment to Get Exposure

The problem of what exposure to use is tricky. It is impossible to give a general prescription suitable for both a dark object in a cloudy sky and a shining fireball at night. Perhaps the best idea is to experiment with such readily available light sources as the moon, Venus, neon lights, sodium arcs, incandescent and fluorescent lamps. (Just for fun, try a few color shots.)

In daylight hours, set your camera for prevailing weather conditions. At night the lens should be wide open and the shutter at 1/25 second. If your saucer is brilliant, you can stop down your lens and speed up your shutter in a hurry.

It will help the Air Force to determine the size and elevation of the saucer if you can manage to include a landmark such as a tree, house or telegraph pole in the picture. After shooting, mark the spot where you stood, or measure it off in two directions and write down the measurements.

Don't develop the film. Make a note of the lens and shutter speed, describe the conditions under which you shot the picture and mail this data and film to:

UFO DETECTOR NETWORK IN THE UNITED KINGDOM

by Dan Lloyd

SINCE I first raised the possibility in the REVIEW of forming a UFO detector network, some 200 McCarthy detectors have been despatched to various parts of the world. Over 100 have been distributed throughout the United Kingdom, but of these only 85 have gone to households possessing a telephone. I have accordingly drawn up a regional list of detector owners with a phone and this is being published so that anyone whose detector operates can quickly get in touch with another detector owner in the same area, to check whether the alarm can be confirmed by his neighbour.

In the January/February issue of the REVIEW I reported that my own detector had operated six times within a period of several weeks. Since then I have had several other reports from detector owners stating that their instruments had been triggered off. The first report was from the Chesterfield area of Derbyshire. Some time between midnight and 8.30 a.m. on December 12, the buzzer operated.

A more specific time cannot be given as the owner has no idea how long the detector had been buzzing when she awoke. The second report came from Portugal. The owner had taken his detector to Urguriça for the weekend of December 9-10 and he awoke at 6 a.m. one morning to the sound of the buzzer operating. On both occasions, unfortunately, nothing was seen.

A further report is being investigated by Colin McCarthy. He has been informed that at the time of a sighting, one of his detectors was reported to have gone off. Full details of this incident are awaited and will be published as soon as we have the story.

In order to obtain prompt information about such alarms, and to see if a pattern emerges from the details, detector owners are requested to send me as soon as possible after their detectors have operated a report giving details of time, place, weather conditions, etc. Sightings that tie in with these reports will, of course, be published in the REVIEW.

It has been suggested that it seems that UFOs deliberately choose unfavourable weather conditions to traverse large populated areas such as cities and towns in order to escape detection. It would certainly lend weight to this theory if our detectors were continually to operate when the sky was overcast, and this possibility will therefore be borne in mind when we see what the general picture is.

It is hoped to publish a map showing the location of detector owners when we have a complete list. It should, however, be remembered that those owners not on the phone will swell this general coverage and it can be seen at a glance that this network has an excellent opportunity of tracking the activities of UFOs operating within those areas where the detectors are most concentrated.

The REVIEW has high hopes that this network will help to put on a practical footing the study of an enigma that has been pooh-poohed for far too long.

A further report will be published as soon as a study has been made of the information that comes in.

"UFO DETECTOR" STUDY CONDUCTED AT EXETER

Can a series of sensitive magnetometers detect the presence of UFOs? This question remains essentially unanswered despite exhaustive efforts by NICAP member John Oswald during a 20-month period near Exeter, N.H.

Oswald, intrigued by the numerous sightings reported around Exeter during 1965-66, set out in late 1970 to establish and monitor a "UFO detector" network surrounding this famous New England town.

The timing for the experiment, Nov. 1970 through Sept. 1972, proved excellent, according to Oswald, who noted in a report to NICAP "that significant UFO activity occurred within the test area during the period covered."

The test results, however, were not as encouraging. Oswald reported, "Although it would appear that UFOs may have been detected on two occasions and that it is actually not possible to say that some other detector alarms were not caused by UFOs, it is clear that most of the hundreds of detector alarms recorded were caused by geomagnetic storm activity."

Difficulties Encountered

One of the difficulties encountered by Oswald during the course of his experiment was the extreme sensitivity of the detectors he had designed. "When I started building the detector network in New Hampshire, I did not think that the instruments were sensitive enough to detect sunspot-related geomagnetic storms."

Despite this problem, the experiment yielded two instances in which UFO sightings by witnesses were simultaneously detected by Oswald's magnetometers.

According to Oswald, on Jan. 13, 1971, at 7:30 p.m. at least two witnesses near Exeter observed three or four lights making strange maneuvers near power lines. Simultaneously, according to Oswald, one of his 13 detectors sounded its alarm.

On another occasion, Nov. 23, 1971, at 1:55 a.m., a large, fast-moving oval white light was observed by a single witness. According to Oswald's report, two of his detectors sounded their alarms within seconds of the sighting.

The Detector

All 13 detectors used by Oswald during the 20-month period followed the same basic principle in design and construction (see Photo #1).

In each detector, a bar magnet was suspended on a fine cotton thread "such that the magnet would rotate in a horizontal plane and come to rest with its poles oriented toward the magnetic poles of the earth."

A delicate copper needle was attached to the magnet and extended from one

Photograph 1

Photograph 2
Complete Detector System

pole. The needle was made to protrude through a small loop of heavier copper wire several inches away.

The needle and loop were incorporated into an electrical circuit which was completed when magnetic deflection caused the needle to touch the loop. The circuit was powered by a battery and incorporated a small alarm bell.

The device, as designed by Oswald, contained a lock-on device which caused the alarm bell to ring continuously once it started until the circuit was broken manually.

The supporting structure for the magnet and needle was made of a heavy copper or aluminum wire which in turn was mounted on a square of three-quarter-inch plywood. The entire device, excluding battery and bell, was protected from the elements and air currents through the use of an inverted glass jar securely fastened to the plywood base (see Photo #2).

Visual Sightings

During the course of his experiment, Oswald investigated more than 70 UFO sightings reported in the Exeter area. To assist him in later correlation of sightings and detector alarms, Oswald classified UFO reports into three basic categories: A—Unknowns; B—Likely Unknowns; C—Possible Unknowns. Of the 70-odd cases, Oswald classified only 12 in category A, or those having the strongest likelihood of being "true UFOs."

The two sightings recorded simultaneously by a detector and witnesses were among the 12 cases investigated by Oswald and listed in category A.

Town Turns Out To Watch UFO

A saucer-shaped UFO "as big as a school bus" has been observed by more than one hundred residents of Lexington, Ala., during recent weeks.

According to one NICAP member living in the area, scores of individuals have been gathering each night around the town in hopes of spotting the UFO.

Most of the sightings have occurred between 8 and 9 p.m., and while descriptions differ in minor details, most describe the object as saucer-shaped and reddish or bluish in color.

One of the most recent sightings occurred Sunday, Feb. 4, 1973, when two young men driving in Lexington spotted a low-flying object and followed it at 50 mph as it headed towards Rogersville and then on to Wheeler Dam. As the witnesses approached the dam, they said the UFO appeared to hover over the lake and then move off towards Huntsville. A TVA worker employed at the Wheeler Dam also said he saw it.

One Lexington resident, describing his town as a quiet town where the "old values" still count, said "there has never been anything like this to stir up a town — I don't know what or why it is bugging us, but I hope we find out."

Maneuvering Lights Seen in Rhode Island

At least a dozen residents of Wood River Junction, R.I., have been watching a circular UFO with "bright white lights" maneuver above their town in recent weeks, according to local newspaper accounts.

The object has been spotted at least twice in recent weeks, with the most ing than a few very sensitive devices. The distance from which one is able to detect a UFO is not proportional to the sensitivity of the detector. If a detector can detect a UFO at 1 km, it is not certain that a device 100 times more sensitive could detect the same UFO at 10 km.

The prototype described achieves an excellent balance of sensitivity, easy construction, adjustment, low price, durability, stability of functions, etc. to permit the establishment of a detection network.

An infra-red light-emitting diode (LED) and an infra-red sensitive photo transistor are suggested as alternate detection elements. Radio Shack stores have these for around $1 each.

Instead of dismantling a door latch, one can obtain a suitable magnet from a hobby shop or from the Miami Magnet Company, 7846 West 2nd Court, Hialeah, Florida 33014. (Write for catalogue.)

Another point: If, in the K-1 detector, the return wire from the alarm bell is connected to the opposite side of the diode D through a normally closed (NC) push button, the detector will "latch" when triggered and the alarm will sound continuously until the button is pushed.

In this way, triggerings of an unattended detector will not be missed.

Following Mr. Niemtzow's suggestion, APRO has undertaken the task of expanding the detector work in the Americas.

Klein, the K-1 detector from French to English.

Richard Niemtzw
Mortpellier, France"

DETECTOR K-1

By Christiano R. Klein

Introduction

The principle of this detector is identical to that of the model designed by the late Dr. Rene Hardy which appeared in "Lumieres Dans la Nuit," No. 118, June 1972. This review is published by Mr. R. Veillith, Les Pins, 43400 Le Chambon-Sur-Lignon, France. Originally, Dr. Hardy used a compass pointer and then a ferrite rod as the magnetic detector element.

Mr. Klein proposes an original solution for the realization of the magnetic element. Thus, the reader finds detailed mechanical and electronic schematics along with the results of the sensitivity measurements obtained with the laboratory prototype.

System Analysis

The miniature light bulb L is permanently illuminated. The detector is oriented in such a fashion that the window slit F is in the shadow of the Screen E (see Figure 1). The magnetic block J is oriented in a north-south direction like that of a compass needle. One must orient the detector in such a manner that the Screen E completely masks the window slit F. The distance between E and F should not exceed one millimeter.

When the screen is properly oriented, there is no light in the interior of Tube G. Consequently the photo cell in Tube G is at its maximum resistance. In other words, in this position the instrument is active but in rest-state.

If the local magnetic field is modified (by the passage of a UFO), the magnetic block J which links the screen E by a small stiff wire changes its orientation and exposes the window slit F to the light L of the lamp. The penetrating light reaches the photo cell. The photo cell circuit reacts with an increase of current due to the decreased resistance and the thyristor (SCR) is triggered. The SCR provides a current to drive the alarm system (i.e. a door buzzer).

The Electronic Circuit (Figures 3 and 4)

The SCR is the controlling element of current to the alarm. When light does not reach the photo cell its resistance is very high—about 1 megohm. Therefore a very feeble current travels through the photocell circuit and also through that of the electrode control G of the SCR. Under these conditions the SCR is at rest-state of non-conduction.

When the photo cell is exposed to light due to the displacement of the screen E, its resistance falls to several hundred ohms, the SCR conducts, and the alarm functions. The alarm system stops functioning when the cell is no longer illuminated because the SCR is powered by A.C. current.

Practical Details

To obtain the maximum sensitivity, the screen E, the two pieces B, the interior of tube G and even the cover C should be blackened and non-reflecting. The length of the slit should be approximately equal to the diameter of the useful region of the photo cell. In the case of the model LDR 03, it should be 8mm in length and 1mm in width. The screen E should have the dimension of 1.5mm for the width and 10mm for the length.

It is not easy to make a slit 8 x 1mm without special equipment. One should therefore make a round hole of 8mm in diameter and then cover this hole with black paper to reduce the circular form to a slit 8mm x 1mm (see Figure 1).

No iron or magnetic parts should be placed within one meter of the magnet J. A minimum distance of three meters must separate the magnet J and the buzzer (alarm) system to avoid magnetic interaction with the ferrite J.

The pivot I is composed by the use of a sewing needle point. A phonograph needle may be substituted but this has not been experimented with by the author.

The support D is brass with a round dented circle which receives the pivot I.

One must not heat J to accelerate the hardening of the glue because the heat will demagnetize J. The same precaution holds for the photo cell. One must wait 48 hours for the epoxy glue to dry. Other types of glue may be used, but have not been tried with the prototype.

R1 is selected in such a fashion that the lamp voltage will be slightly reduced. This prolongs the life of the bulb and the viability of the detector.

On the prototype the components have been mounted on a piece of wood. The electronic position (Figure 3) has been realized in the same fashion.

Notice that the entire instrument actually consists of two separate units. One contains the electronic components, output for alarm system, and input for AC voltage sector. The second unit contains the mechanical elements consisting of the magnet J and its pivot system along with the bulb L and photo cell assembly. Four insulated non-shielded wires connect the two units: two wires for lamp connection and two for the photo cell. Remember that the buzzer system should be at least three meters from the magnet J.

The wood mounting technique is very solid, easy and inexpensive. It gives total satisfaction concerning reliability. One uses spade terminals for supports (Figure 5). These terminals are fixed by screws in the electrical unit and must not be of iron in the magnetic unit. The components are soldered on the terminals. For the electrical unit one may use printed circuit techniques.

The vibration of the buzzer serves to actuate a detector memory when the owner is absent. One bends and glues a paper clip in such a manner that a rubber washer or bead displaces and falls during an alarm (Figure 4). A ping-pong ball could be used too.

One may desire a more sophisticated electronic memory system. An electronic diagram is indicated in Figure 13.

The magnetic unit must be placed in a closed box, non-transparent and non-magnetic. Plastic or cardboard is indicated. Without a protective box, the smallest displacement of air or the smallest insect touching the magnetic system will trigger a false detection.

This K-1 detector is simple and its function very reliable. Anyone able to handle a solder gun and willing to follow the directions can easily accomplish the construction.

The Magnetic Piece J

J is a ferrite magnetic block retrieved from a magnetic latch used on many types of placard doors to keep them closed. These latches can be found at a very low price in hardware stores, etc. The exterior aspect is that of a small plastic box with a base for fixation C (Figure 7).

The ferrite bloc which interests us is found in the interior between two iron KLASS—I feel that they have done it as a publicity gimmick because they like to carry UFO stories. But I am delighted that they did it, and for this reason: I have devoted a good deal of my life to investigating cases, seemingly unexplainable cases about which people have said, "This is the best case" or "This one can't be explained away," and as soon as I spend weeks or months—sometimes it takes half a year—and I explain the case and publish my explanation in one of my little "white papers," then people say, "Oh well, you picked an easy case." And frankly, in the last eight years I have devoted probably 90 percent of my spare time to this activity. So I am delighted that the National Enquirer has picked this distinguished panel of experienced ufologists—Dr. Hynek, Dr. Harder, Dr. Salisbury, and others—who have spent a lot of time studying UFOs. Now, when they pick a case and say this is the "Best Case of 1973," then I can go to work on it, and when I explain that case, as I do in my book with their "Bests" of 1972 and 1973, no one can accuse me of picking an easy case.

EARLEY—Then you plan to wait until each "Best Case" or "completely unexplainable case" is put forth by the ufologists and then you'll solve it?

KLASS—Exactly!

We ended our discussion at that point. It is clear that Klass is convinced that if he waits to investigate and solve the ufologists' "Best Cases," he thereby demonstrates that all other sightings are cases of "illusion, delusion, or hoax." Only time will tell if his view, or that of the ufologists who believe in, or lean towards, the extra-terrestrial visitation theory, will prove correct. But one thing is certain. If you produce a UFO report that is generally thought to be convincing, Phil Klass, the "Sherlock Holmes of Ufology," will come calling with his solution to your mystery. ● plates. The exterior exposure of these two iron plates is shown by the arrows in Figure 7 (see also Figure 10b).

Important

During dismantling of these latches it is necessary to locate the "faces" of the ferrite block which are in contact with the iron plates. These are the magnetic poles.

60 OFFICIAL UFO / November, 1975

The reader must realize the importance of locating these two faces. All of this is for a simple reason: these faces must be mounted in the vertical position as in Figure 8b. In this mounting one of the faces will turn spontaneously toward the earth's magnetic north and the opposite face to the south.

It is very important to assemble the magnetic block correctly. A block mounted by error with the magnetic pole in an up-and-down position like Figure 8a does not permit the normal functioning of the detector.

One should assemble the block as demonstrated in Figure 8b without the "arm" supporting the screen. Determine experimentally the spontaneous orientation of the block and then finish the construction by assembling the "arm." Remember that this arm consists of rigid thin copper wire. This arm is represented by a line in Figure 1, but it should be curved.

The distance D (Figure 9a) measured in a straight line between the vertical defined by the pivot I and that defined by its (arm and screen E) sweeping through the axis of tube G influences sensitivity. The orientation of the slit is important. Figure 9a shows the correct orientation for maximum sensitivity. This sensitivity is less in an orientation shown in Figure 9b. The maximum sensitivity of the assembly is not affected by the fact that the arm which supports the screen E is curved.

The distance between the lamp and the slit is not very critical—about 10mm in the prototype. But the screen should be as close to the slit as possible. The construction should be very precise and the final bending regulation is accompanied by the arm supporting the screen or by regulating the height of tube G.

The Sensitivity (Figure 11)

The geometry of the magnetic block and the magnetic direction varies according to the fabrication of the latch. Each producer presents a latch with different sizes. Finally, the same block can be mounted in two different manners. See Figures 11a & b.

The problem of the sensitivity presents two more or less distinct aspects:

1) What is the smallest field \overline{BC} capable of overcoming the resistance of the pivot to turn the block?

2) What is the smallest angle θ capable of detection by the electronic system?

During the trials, the smallest field

\overline{BC} used was a milligauss. At this value, the pivot functioned in an ideal manner without resistance to rotation. Consequently, the sensitivity depends only on the second question.

In the prototype, the alarm sounds without fail for a field \overline{BC} of 5 milligauss. This sensitivity can be increased in several manners:

1) Elongating the support arm of the screen E.

2) Increasing the intensity of the lamp.

Nevertheless, for urban utilization it is futile to increase this sensitivity for the reason that many false alerts will occur. It is equally futile to descend below the natural terrestrial field which is about 100 to 200 gammas (1 gauss = 100,000 gammas). For increased sensitivity, the adjustment will be most difficult and the system will be disturbed by vibrations.

A study has been made with a support arm of 15 centimeters. As anticipated, the sensitivity increased, but the adjustment was very difficult. Another problem, in this case, is that one cannot use a plastic box to house the components. The electrostatic charges in the plastic have been noticed to give false alerts.

It seems that the sensitivity indicated in this project is already excellent. To increase it would require the use of other systems of detection, pivot, etc.

The field is open to experimentation. One is able, for example, to assemble a small mirror on block J, an optic system focusing a light ray on the mirror. The ray is reflected on a photo cell at a distance of several meters. The sensitivity would be enormous. The stability of the assembly would have to be perfect to avoid false alerts.

Another project: The screen E should be metallic (aluminum foil); its movement would change the capacitance of a capacitor. The variation of capacitance would change the frequency of an oscillator. An electronic system would be constructed to give an alert when the frequency of the oscillator changes. This system would be fantastically sensitive.

Other projects can be proposed. Mr. Klein would enjoy corresponding with interested people.

Nevertheless, understand that the hypersensitive detector will always have a delicate problem of construction to solve: adjustment, location, stability, freedom from parasites, price, etc.

For research, a dense network of acceptable detectors is more interest-

Jim Lorenzen of APRO (and others) wrote in "Official UFO" magazine in 1975 about building a UFO detector, seeking a balance of sensitivity, easy construction, adjustment, low price, durability, stability of functions, etc. to permit the establishment of a UFO detection network.

THE MAGNETIC DETECTION OF UFOs

By Jim Lorenzen, Director of the Aerial Phenomenon Research
Organization (APRO)

■ Since many UFO case reports over the years indicate magnetic effects such as, for example, a momentary change in compass deviation, many have felt that it is feasible to detect many otherwise unobserved UFOs utilizing this fact. The Bob Allen (Achzehner) detector distributed by APRO in the 1960s is an example. This detector used a magnetic pendulum terminating in a vertical contact surrounded by a metallic ring. When these two elements touched, an electrical circuit was completed which sounded an alarm. John Oswald has taken the similar concept of a compass needle and contact ring and added the feature of a coil which is energized on contact, locking the detector in the detection mode. This allows awareness of detections when no observer is present.

The main problem with these detectors is that the metal contacts become oxidized and resistive and the sensitivity is thereby greatly reduced.

HOW TO BUILD A UFO DETECTOR

(A solution to this problem is presented later in this article.)

Richard Gerdes, President of Optical Electronics, Inc. and a member of the Board of Directors of APRO, Inc., initiated the design of a magnetic-type UFO detector using readily available electronic components. The author made some modifications and the plans were made available to APRO members as shown in the diagram, drawn by Vance Dewey and incorporating some additional improvements.

Wido Hoville, APRO Field Investigator in Canada, has independently produced a design similar in concept.

Eventually, this basic design was developed and refined by a technically based group in San Diego calling themselves Precision Monitoring Systems (PMS). PMS produced a battery-powered field version for a field research trip sponsored by the National Enquirer. In this model, automation has been added to the extent that when a detection occurs a tape recorder is turned on which records the detector output (and the output of a spin field detector designed by APRO Research Director Dr. James A. Harder) through voltage-controlled oscillators.

A subsequent version of this design was furnished to Dr. Poher of France, Director of the High Altitude Sounding Rockets Division of the French National Center for Space Studies, for his use, and a still later version was purchased by Project Starlight International (PSI) Incorporated of Austin, Texas, and is currently in use at their monitoring site.

However, the cost and complexity of this class of detector places it beyond the reach of the average citizen, and since, in any case, detection is limited by normal fluctuations in the earth's magnetic field, it is felt by many theorists that a large distribution or network of single detectors would be a more effective research tool.

A letter received from APRO's representative in France expresses this idea:

"When I accepted the position of French representative of the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization, Inc. 3910 East Kleindale Road, Tucson, Arizona 85712, U.S.A., I had the wonderful experience of collaborating with the late Dr. Rene Hardy, APRO's consultant in physics and well-known European authority on UFOs.

"It became quite evident that the establishment of an international detector network would achieve a wealth of information dealing with this phenomenon.

"Dr. Hardy suggested several designs for UFO detectors. Just prior to Dr. Hardy's death, I met Mr. Christiano Klein, who is keenly interested in the detection problem. At my suggestion there was an exchange of information between these two individuals. The result was Mr. Klein's original solution to the detector Dr. Hardy had suggested in 'Lumieres Dans la Nuit,' No. 118, June 1972, published by Mr. R. Veillith, Les Pins, 43400 Le Chambon-Sur-Lignon, France.

"In France, progress did not stop. In memory of Dr. Hardy, a network named after him was organized by Mr. Jean Chasseigne using the name 'Association Pour la Detection et l'Etude des Phenomenes Spatiaux,'

24 OFFICIAL UFO / November, 1975

Villa Arpy, Lotissement des Aloes, 06600-Antibes, in collaboration with 'Lumieres Dans la Nuit.'

"Many UFO detectors exist based on magnetic field changes due to UFOs. Mr. Klein's detector approaches the limit of sensitivity which can be used by the amateur. Its construction cost should not exceed $20. A more sensitive device would present too many false alerts and would require an electronic system too sophisticated and expensive for our goal to be satisfactory.

"It is our strong hope that an APRO international network be organized. The K-1 is an excellent detector for its utilization. Such a network would gather information relative to UFO sightings and magnetic field changes. Most important, the amateur would be alerted and photographs could be obtained along with other parametric studies. All of this data would be pooled and correlated. A computer study could be attempted. A typical catalogue would indicate time of detection and observations.

"In this spirit I was very happy to translate for my friend, Mr. Christiano

"...UFO Watch ... The world's first scientific effort to search the skies for [UFOs] with sensors more reliable than human eyes ..." [April 1974]

CALLS ENCOURAGED

Scientists Establish UFO Watch

By CLIFF SMITH
Science Writer
The San Diego Union

The world's first scientific effort to search the skies for unidentified flying objects (UFOs) with sensors more reliable than human eyes is to begin here in two weeks.

A group of 35 scientists and engineers will start the hunt with 15 magnetometers scattered from Poway to Imperial Beach and Alpine to the coast.

Meanwhile, an organization of 120 "stable, objective" adult volunteers has been formed to coordinate an intensive visual sky watch in which residents will be encouraged to report UFO sightings that may be correlated with the instrument data.

Anyone phoning an answering service — the number is 286-0868 — will get a prompt call back from one of the trained volunteers. If the reporter and his information seem credible, two investigators will be sent to the caller's home to conduct a detailed interview. Meticulous safeguards against pranksters will be exercised.

Sensitive Devices

J.F. Herr, a research psychologist and spokesman for the scientific group, said any one of the magnetometers made for the study is capable of sensing a UFO at least 15 miles distant.

Herr explained that it is well established that at least some UFOs emit extremely powerful magnetic fields.

The evidence for this includes the deflection of compass needles up to two miles from observed UFOs, the magnetization of time pieces, the tripping of burglar and freezer alarms and power outages traced to magnetic disturbance of relays.

"The strength of UFO-generated magnetic fields are estimated to range from 1 to 2 million gauss," Herr said in an interview. "By comparison, airplanes would generate less than 100 gammas."

There are 100,000 gammas in one gauss. Only the most powerful man-made electrical machinery create magnetic fluxes exceeding a million gauss. Herr said a few laboratories have superconducting devices that can create forces on the order of 5 million gauss.

Herr said the magnetometers constructed for the study are sensitive enough to detect .05 gamma. He said the instruments also are designed to provide the "magnetic signature" of many man-made machines that otherwise might be confused with UFOs.

An automobile, for example, can be detected up to a mile away by the way it disturbs the earth's magnetic field.

Already In Operation

Herr said one of the magnetometers, effectively a UFO detector, has been in operation in the Poway area for about two weeks without picking up any suspicious recordings.

He said a 16th instrument will be shipped to a UFO investigator, Richard Niemtow, in Marseilles, France, because that is where numerous UFO sightings have been taking place.

Herr said all of the magnetometers in the detection array here will be equipped to operate automatically around the clock, recording their measurements on magnetic tape.

All the stations will be at the homes or offices of scientists and engineers in the study group.

Most of the group members have requested anonymity to avoid ridicule, possibly even censure in their professions.

"But I can tell you that all of our people are well established and highly regarded in their fields," Herr said. "The institutions at which they work include UCSD, San Diego State University, the Naval Electronics Laboratory, the Naval Undersea Center, General Dynamics Electronics Division and Gulf General Atomic."

"The scientists and engineers in the group have reached no conclusion as to the nature of UFOs," Herr emphasized. "Although reports of unidentified flying objects continue to come in from around the world, often from highly qualified observers, quantitative data on the character of the objects is scant."

"To make possible the collection of hard data which correlates with UFO sightings, a series of instruments capable of detecting and measuring certain effects reportedly produced by the objects is being developed."

"We believe that our study and the detection system are the first of their kind."

Herr said the most urgent need of the study group at present is for good circuit design engineers to aid in the development of devices to be added to the detection array.

Prober Reports New Source For Vaughan Data 'FLYING SAUCERS' FOUND IN MD.

Vaughan Data Source Said To Be 'Close To White House'

Washington, Aug. 19 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R., Wis.) said today that Senate "five persons" have figures are critical information about the activities of Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan "from sources very close to the President."

Vaughan is President Truman's army aide.

McCarthy is a member of the special Senate subcommittee checking on whether improper influence has figured in the handling of Government business.

Wants To Know Motive

Mundt told reporters that the testimony given the Senate investigation committee secretly on Monday and since made public, begins to disclose a suspicion of a motive of what is behind the gifts of deep freezers.

He referred to freezers paid for by the Albert H. Verley Perfume Company which were sent to Mrs. Harry S. Truman, General Vaughan and four other Administration officials during the Summer of 1945 and the Winter of 1945-46.

Made Trip At Difficult Time

Three representatives of the Verley company made the Paris trip on an army transport plane in July, 1945, at a time, Mundt said, "when business men just couldn't get there."

Anne Arundel Shed Yields Machines; Inventor Gone

Two contraptions corresponding to the popular conception of the "flying saucer" have been found in an abandoned tobacco-drying shed in Anne Arundel county.

Made in the Baltimore-Washington area and at the county farm site during the two-year span of 1937-38, the "flying saucers" were turned up during a lengthy investigation led by Federal agents. The inventor, described as Jonathan K. Caldwell, disappeared with his wife and only son from the farm during a winter night in 1941 and his whereabouts are said to be unknown.

Two Maryland State policemen who had been working with investigators of the Office of Special Investigation, United States Air Force, took possession of the "saucers" this afternoon.

In Washington, air force intelligence officials said they had received no word on the disks. Col. William Turner, executive officer of the Office of Special Investigation, inspector general of the Air Force, said that no information had yet been received there.

"Any phenomenon like that," Colonel Turner said, "is investigated from our counterintelligence viewpoint. But I don't know anything about this instance."

In 1968, the US Air Force wrote a brief booklet entitled "Aids to Identification of Flying Objects". Anyone that wants to be able to address basic explanations from skeptics or official authorities for UFO sightings should be familiar with it.

Obviously, if I included cuttings that describe triangle UFOs then there would be many more than these ones where the headline mentions them. (I've already uploaded hundreds of the former and will be uploading a collection tomorrow that includes hundreds more...).

SOUTH WALES ECHO CARDIFF JAN 24 1983

That triangle is no 'plane—expert

THE MYSTERIOUS flying triangle that has been haunting South Wales skies this week, could not be an aircraft known to British aviation, according to a former RAF aircraft engineer.

Mr Joe Toland, aged 40, an engineer with the RAF for 15 years, was coaching Llantwit Major under 12's soccer team when he saw the object.

"We stopped playing to watch it," he said. "I couldn't fathom out why the lights were so far apart. It was close perhaps 600-1,000 feet up.

"It must have been 300 feet across, so it could not be an aircraft. The thing I really don't understand is that it made no noise."

Mr Toland, of Ham Lane East, Llantwit Major, has applied all his experience in aviation to solve the mystery.

Mr Toland who is now an insurance agent, at first thought that what he was seeing was an aeroplane being refuelled mid flight. But he admitted this operation was never done over built-up areas, and two aircraft would create a lot of noise.

"The lights were not

IN trying to bring UFOs down to earth Paul Devereaux is in danger of suffering a similar fate. His theory is that unidentified flying objects emanate not from space but from beneath the surface of our own planet.

He presents a mass of evidence which, he says, shows that UFO activity is commonest where four factors coincide. These are: where there are geological faults, where the earth's surface is particularly rich in certain minerals, where there are megalithic sites such as Stonehenge and where there is low thunderstorm activity.

What Carole saw over Cardiff...

usual aircraft lights, though it was in the flight path from Rhoose Airport," he said.

UFO expert Mr Bill Rich, aged 36, of Llandough Castle Flats, Llandough, is convinced the triangle is a visitor from space.

"I have spent an awful lot of time looking at stars ever since I spotted a very strange UFO in Australia," he said.

"It most definitely is not a meteor as some people have claimed—I saw plenty of meteoric activity in Australia, and this was nothing like it.

"I am in the process of writing a book on sightings in Wales—I've been making notes for about a year now. I wouldn't say I'm a UFO freak, my interest is mainly scientific."

● THE sketch and headline that appeared with the report in Thursday's South Wales Echo.

Mr Rich, who is an artist, watched the object fly past his house last Wednesday night.

"What they are doing, who knows?" he said. "We have got to take this seriously.

"One imagines they are taking samples from a fertile earth while it is still fertile.

"There have been a lot of close encounters of the third nature in Wales. I believe they will soon make themselves known to us."

Looking inwards

COVENTRY EVENING TELEGRAPH JAN 21 1983

In Earth Lights (Turnstone Press, £9.95) he explains why he finds the relationships so convincing. He believes that UFO aerofoms and their "occupants" are created from a new category of phenomena which he calls proto-entities.

These materialise in response to geological movements, and electromagnetic events beneath the earth's surface, intersecting simultaneously with the psycho-kinetic abilities of the human brain.

All in the mind, so to speak.

'Flying triangle'

report

THE second UFO sighting in Nottingham this week has been reported by a West Bridgford woman.

Mr. Robert Morrell, chairman of Nottingham UFO Investigation Society, said the woman described seeing a large triangular-shaped object, which had a reddish orange glow, over the Embankment at The Meadows.

It was moving up and down but after two or three minutes it gathered speed, climbed rapidly and disappeared.

Mr. Morrell added that earlier this week, a fleet of triangular objects was seen in the Ashby area by a group of boys playing football.

He is now appealing for anyone who saw the objects to ring the Society on Nottingham 874615.

DRAWING of UFO spotted by police officers over Memphis. "What I saw was some aircraft not of this earth," said one. It had white glow about its silhouette.

Members of Police S.W.A.T. Team See ...
Triangular UFO Big As Football Field

An awesome triangular UFO, big as a football field and lighted "like a flying Christmas tree," was observed soaring over Memphis by five police officers, all members of that city's elite S.W.A.T. squad.

The tactical squad officers, specially chosen for their intelligence, coolness and their skills with weapons, watched the gigantic metallic craft for up to three minutes before it blazed across the clear night sky at astounding speed and disappeared.

"It was approximately as long as a football field and 50 to 75 yards wide," Patrolman Troy L. Todd, 29, told The ENQUIRER.

"I believe what I saw was some aircraft not of this earth," he added with obvious awe.

Todd first spotted the eerie UFO about 3:30 a.m. May 17, hovering over some high-tension wires. Moments later he and his partner, Patrolman Jerry W. Jeter, observed it hovering 500 feet above a golf course.

They got out of their van and watched it for "two to three minutes."

"It was a triangular-shaped object with white, red and green lights, and a white glow about the silhouette itself," said Todd.

Added Jeter: "We were not directly under it, but at a slight angle, about two blocks away, and we could see the whole belly of the craft. "It had red and green lights flashing alternately with either portholes or real dim lights along the sides.

By BOB PRATT

"We had a rifle with a telescopic sight in the police van, but by the time I got it out and up to my shoulder, this craft turned slightly, two red lights came on at the rear and it just shot out of sight, at such speed it was unbelievable."

Todd said the huge craft made no noise as it zipped across the sky and vanished over the horizon. He added: "Weather conditions were extremely clear that night.

"Visibility was about 15-20 miles."

As soon as they reported what they had seen to the police radio dispatcher, Patrolman Michael L. Davidson asked them by radio if the object they had seen was triangular and had multicolored lights.

Then Davidson reported that he and two other S.W.A.T. patrolmen, John R. Birdsong and Forrest E. Bartlett, had seen the same object 4½ hours earlier, while they were in a police substation parking lot.

According to Birdsong, when Bartlett first sighted the strange object he exclaimed: "It looks like a flying Christmas tree!"

Davidson said they thought it might be some type of aircraft from the Millington Naval Air Station, which is eight miles north of the police substation.

But a Navy spokesman there said, "There is no flight training here, no experimental craft . . . this is a training base for people who work on airplanes."

Ed Becton, a supervisor at the Federal Aviation Administration control tower at Memphis International Airport, told The ENQUIRER:

"We checked with all the air traffic controllers who were on duty at the time and they had nothing on radar in that area, and they saw nothing visually."

Capt. O.B. Holcomb, commander of the Memphis Tactical Squad, said the five officers who reported seeing the UFO are "responsible men.

"They're not the type to make up stories," he emphasized.

 Sheriff's deputies were called to a home on Woodland Dr., Bedford Township, late Wednesday when a woman there reported seeing an unidentified flying object. The woman told police that she was looking out her bedroom window when she saw this "flying saucer"-type object about 300 feet off the ground northeast of her home. The object had white lights on the side and a red one on the top. It was moving northeast, she said.

@ericwojo @Tsoukalos Thanks. I think the information in those pages reinforces my understanding that @Tsoukalos did not take over the Ancient Astronaut Society but instead founded a new organisation. Of course, this makes it harder to identify the permission(s) needed to upload AAS's Ancient Skies.

January 9, 1953

We expect that our analysis will show that certain areas in the United States have had an abnormally high number of reported incidents of unidentified flying objects. Assuming that, from our analysis, several definite areas productive of reports can be selected, we recommend that one or two of these areas be set up as experimental areas. This area, or areas, should have observations posts with complete visual skywatch, with radar and photographic coverage, plus all other instruments necessary or helpful in obtaining positive and reliable data on everything in the air over the area. A very complete record of the weather should also be kept during the time of the experiment. Coverage should be so complete that any object in the air could be tracked, and information as to its altitude, velocity, size, shape, color, time of day, etc. could be recorded. All balloon releases or known balloon paths, aircraft flights, and flights of rockets in the test area should be known to those in charge of the experiment. "any different types of aerial activity should be secretly and purposefully scheduled in the area."

We recognize that this proposed experiment would amount to a large-scale military maneuver, or operation, and that it would require extensive preparation and fine coordination, plus maximum security. Although it would be a major operation, and expensive, there are many extra benefits to be derived besides data on unidentified aerial objects.

The question of just what would be accomplished by the proposed experiment occurs. Just how could the problem of these unidentified objects be solved? From this test area, during the time of the experiment, it can be assumed that there would be a steady flow of reports from ordinary civilian observers, in addition to those by military or other official observers. It should be possible by such a controlled experiment to prove the identify of all objects reported, or to determine positively that there were objects present of unknown identity. Any hoaxes under a set-up such as this could almost certainly be exposed, perhaps not publicly, but at least to the military.

In addition, by having resulting data from the controlled experiment, reports for the last five years could be re-evaluated, in the light of similar but positive information. This should make possible reasonably certain conclusions concerning the problem of "flying saucers".

Results of an experiment such as described could assist the Air Force to determine how much attention to pay to future situations when, as in the past summer, there were thousands of sightings reported. In the future, then, the Air Force should be able to make positive statements, reassuring to the public, and to the effect that everything is well under control.

Very truly yours,

H. C. Cross.

Mr. Miles E. Goll
Box 9575
Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio

Attention Capt. Edward J. Ruppelt

Dear Mr. Goll:

This letter concerns a preliminary recommendation to ATIC on future methods of handling the problem of unidentified flying objects. This recommendation is based on our experience to date in analysing several thousands of reports on this subject. We regard the recommendation as preliminary because our analysis is not yet complete, and we are not able to document it where we feel it should be supported by facts from the analysis.

We are making this recommendation prematurely because of a CIA-sponsored meeting of a scientific panel, meeting in Washington, D. C., January 14, 15, and 16, 1953, to consider the problem of "flying saucers". The CIA-sponsored meeting is being held subsequent to a meeting of CIA, ATIC, and our representatives held at ATIC on December 12, 1952. At the December 12 meeting our representatives strongly recommended that a scientific panel not be set up until the results of our analysis of the sighting-reports collected by ATIC were available. Since a meeting of the panel is now definitely scheduled we feel that agreement between Project Stork and ATIC should be reached as to what can and what cannot be discussed at the meeting in Washington on January 14-16 concerning our preliminary recommendation to ATIC.

Experience to date on our study of unidentified flying objects shows that there is a distinct lack of reliable data with which to work. Even the best-documented reports are frequently lacking in critical information that makes it impossible to arrive at a positive identification, i.e. even in a well-documented report there is always an element of doubt about the data, either because the observer had no means of getting the required data, or was not prepared to utilize the means at his disposal. Therefore, we recommend that a controlled experiment be set up by which reliable physical data can be obtained. A tentative preliminary plan by which the experiment could be designed and carried out is discussed in the following paragraphs.

Based on experience so far, it is expected that certain conclusions will be reached as a result of our analysis will make obvious the need for an effort to obtain reliable data from competent observers using the necessary equipment. Until reliable data are available, no positive answers to the problem will be possible.

If anyone memories of any favourite UFO websites that are no longer archive, let me know and I'll try to get permission to resurrect them. (I'll post a couple of examples soon, building on my recent successful initial test involving the <http://realityuncovered.com> forum).

It turns out there's a whole bunch of ways to use the Wayback Machine that I had been unaware of (and never seen anyone mention). I think these commands can be combined with some batch archiving tricks I've previously used, to resurrect a lot of UFO stuff.

@ObserveByProxy7 It's good to see people digging into details and maps regarding the 1994 incident at Ariel school, Ruwa. Unfortunately, the map posted above is in relation to the wrong school. @Go_Kick_Rocks88 @TheUfoJoe No, they are different. Richard Doty was connected with a "Jerry Miller" and the document on the left refers to him. The Miller associated with the "Wilson Docs" is Commander Willard Miller - a different person, with different connections to ufology and a different service.

@TylerGreenfield @invivoexvivo @CryptoLoren (I'll send Ben a DM with more background on my scanning project).

@TylerGreenfield @invivoexvivo @CryptoLoren If Ben gives permission, I'd be happy to get high quality scans done (in the next week or so) of most issues of the "Cryptozoology Review" and make them freely available in the online archive I've been co-ordinating during the last few years. (I can expand on this if Ben wants).

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570852104843177984>

@CrypticInquiry @nallejacobsson @pidg @Echo Or I could create a list of URLs with sequential page numbers (using, say, Excel) then paste them into a file and use the batch file in the comments below to save all the URLs listed in that file as PDFs [or combine the batch file with the loop above]: <https://stackoverflow.com/questions/71242093/batch-file-for-generating-automatic-local-pdf-file-names-with-wkhtmltopdf>

2022-09-16T19:01:35+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570850403646074881>

@CrypticInquiry @nallejacobsson @pidg @Echo Basically, if I modify the loop to seek two inputs (a thread number and the last page number in the thread [as a counter for a loop] it should be easy to get the batch file to save all of pages a thread such as this one I wrote (but also those by others): <https://www.abovetopsecret.com/forum/thread942661/pg1>

2022-09-16T18:58:39+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570849663485640704>

@CrypticInquiry @nallejacobsson @pidg @Echo Yes, much easier than I feared too. :) That's what makes me think it should be easy to combine regular expressions in batch file and wkhtmltopdf to also, for example, save as a single PDF all the pages in a long thread on UFO discussion forum such as <http://AboveTopSecret.com...>

2022-09-16T15:57:26+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570804059694833664>

@CrypticInquiry @nallejacobsson @pidg Sure. The real work is done by the (free) wkhtmltopdf software. This batch file just cycles through the files: [start batchfile] @echo off for %%i in (E:\temp\htmlfiles*.htm) do "C:\Program Files\wkhtmltopdf\bin\wkhtmltopdf.exe" "%%i" "E:\temp\pdfsfromhtml\%%~ni.pdf" [end]

2022-09-16T13:38:21+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570769056575418369>

@nallejacobsson @pidg The current item of about 500,000 pages of PDFs is a large defunct UFO website/forum, called Open Minds Forum. I'll be posting some background about it with a html archive and a PDF archive in the next few days. (About 10% of this is in the Wayback Machine's Internet Archive).

2022-09-16T13:05:48+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570760868048302080>

@nallejacobsson @pidg Also, the batch file I'm now using to make wkhtmltopdf rapidly convert a folder of UFO html files into about 500,000 pages of PDFs can - I think - be modified fairly easily for another (bigger) UFO archiving project. I'll be uploading the initial batch soon.

2022-09-16T12:53:24+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570757744248127488>

@nallejacobsson @pidg Yeah, the Acrobat Pro conversions are better - but in this particular instance I can live with the loss of 10% of the text on a small percentage of pages. Based on an initial sample, I'd estimate a loss of about 10% of a page in about 5% of files - so less than 1% loss.

2022-09-16T12:42:58+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570755121285574656>

@nallejacobsson Thanks. Since @pidg mentioned wkhtmltopdf earlier, I've tried it out. A sample of a few hundred pages were completed about 10 times faster than Adobe Acrobat's html conversions. Not bad at all. :) (One downside is that about 10% of a few pages were converted into gibberish).

2022-09-16T11:24:23+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570735342181023744>

@pidg Cheers. That certainly looks like it's worth trying. I'll try it out. Speed is now the main issue. (Adobe Acrobat works fine, but I'd rather not wait a month for it to finish...).

2022-09-16T11:18:47+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570733935688286209>

@nallejacobsson I'm using Adobe Acrobat Pro at the moment, using the "Create from files" option for batch creation. 2,000 html files took 24 hours on one computer (but I could set up another 3+ computers). I have very modest programming skills (basically able to adjust existing Python code).

2022-09-16T11:05:18+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570730542471184385>

@FullStackLogan Thanks Logan, but I think I really need a fast automated/batch process. Creating the 500,000+ pages of PDFs using a "save as pdf" option for each individual page would take, well, quite a while. I'll keep looking. :)

2022-09-16T10:51:46+00:00

<https://twitter.com/isaackoi/status/1570727133655478288>

Anyone able to recommend a fast means of html to PDF conversion? I'm using Adobe Acrobat to create about 500,000 pages of UFO material from html files, but at the current rate this will take 25 days. (Printing as PDFs will not do, as I want the links in the html files to work).

@dizzy_vizion Oh, I wouldn't want anyone to go to any effort to find further such claims. I hoped that some on UFO Twitter might be able to give an extra reference without any effort (e.g. from the recent podcasts discussing the Ariel case - which I'll now simply watch/transcribe).

@pidg I have a few different PDF scans of Ronald Story's various books, including 2 or 3 scans of this book. I tend to note PDF references for the first version found in my search results - but also note the page numbers from the physical book for exactly this reason. :)

@BrantronPrime Cheers @BrandonPrime, that's very kind - but it turns out that the free software recommended by others above [wkhtmltopdf] converts html pretty fast - between 5x and 10x faster than Adobe Acrobat Pro. So, I'll hopefully finish this particular mini-project today

anyway. :)

@ilfakiro1 Mmm.I didn't really think of the "Journal of Scientific Exploration" because of its scope. Perhaps I'm too uptight when I worry about some other topics it covers. You're right that the JSE has some peer review - and it is made freely available online. <https://www.scientificexploration.org/journal-library>

Peer review in ufology : I think all UFO journals that used to have some formal pre-publication peer review process have closed. If so, to improve standards/credibility, how (if at all) should any UFO article be reviewed before publication? Who would you consult, if anyone?

@k3lston @LtTimMcMillan @IvanBuchanJanus By the way, I didn't (and don't) claim to have the definitive answer. @k3lston @LtTimMcMillan @IvanBuchanJanus Hi KPE - I didn't look up a batman mylar ballon. I just thought it looked like a balloon, possibly mylar, and roughly triangular - so I did a Google image search for "mylar balloon triangular" and looked at the results- which included a batman balloon in the first 60 images.

Is There An Alien President In The Making?

We have uncovered a startling alien plot! The presidential election of 1980 is being controlled by aliens who want to choose our next president so that they can control our country! What can be done to stop them? It's time for our country to unite! These aliens don't deserve the vote!

□ Who will win the 1980 presidential election? Various names are currently being bandied about. Carter, Kennedy, Ford and Reagan all have their supporters. But which one of these

UFO TEAM PROBE 'FLYING TRIANGLES'

UFO experts are probing sightings of a mysterious triangular-shaped craft all over Scotland.

The latest was from a man in Bonnybridge, Stirlingshire—dubbed Britain's UFO capital—who watched terrified as the huge, black object repeatedly dived and circled above him.

Last night Scotland's top UFO expert admitted the claims were baffling.

SUN

RAF helicopters have been called out to look for two Norwegians dressed as VIKINGS who went missing while rowing across the North Sea to Shetland.

SPOT

Billy Devlin of Scottish Paranormal Investigations said: "We are taking the reports seriously and hoping to look at more evidence."

"There has been a wave of sightings of black triangles across Britain and in Europe."

"The man said the object, which had lights on its side and centre panels, buzzed him for several minutes. He is sure he couldn't have confused it with a plane as the shape was so distinctive."

A similar object is said to have been seen above Campbeltown, Argyll, and by workers on a North Sea oil rig last year.

Flying triangle was definitely no aircraft

I MUST correct your reader's "correction" to the article on Flying Triangles, published on your letters page of May 29.

As President of the Charnwood UFO Research Group I have investigated many reports of UFO activity that have indeed turned out to be aircraft, dirigibles, laser-light displays etc.

However, the triangle sightings of May last year could not be explained in any such mundane way. Over 30 credible witnesses, some involved in the aviation business, sighted the craft and described it identically. Checks with Castle Donington and other local airfields confirmed the object sighted then was not an aeroplane or airship. To this day the sighting remains unexplained. Let PRB believe what he will; something large and triangular is flying. What exactly, is a matter for conjecture, but it is not an airliner and it is definitely not Venus. — KR Hargrave-Parsons, (President, CUFORG), Carendon Road, Coalville.

OAP spots 'triangular blue lights' in night sky

A MAN believes a strange object he has spotted hovering in the night sky may be literally out of this world.

The 74-year-old Hurst Green resident thinks the UFO he claims to have seen may be some type of experimental aircraft.

Speaking from his home in Wolfs Wood the man, who wished only to be known as Cyril, said on two occasions he has seen three glowing lights lingering in the sky high above his house.

"The lights are much brighter and more powerful than any of the lights our aircraft use. They were in a triangular formation; had a blue tone and were not flashing. They were there for about 20 minutes and did not move," he said.

"It may be an experimental aircraft. We have a lot of secrecy in this country and someone might be experimenting with something they don't want the public to know about."

Cyril said he first saw the strange lights around a month ago before they appeared again on Wednesday last week. "They were in the same position and seem to appear on a frosty night when the air is clear. I'm surprised pilots flying to Gatwick Airport have not seen this themselves," he explained.

Cyril served in the RAF during the Second World War where part of his job involved keeping an eye out for UFOs, although he says these days he does not personally go out looking for this sort of thing.

UFO expert Larry Dean, who runs an agency called Skysearch is now investigating Cyril's claims.

He said that various sightings of strange lights have been recorded in towns and villages near Gatwick Airport in recent months.

Since Skysearch was established a year ago, the group has received 60 reports of UFO sightings and alien abductions from across the country.

Larry urges anyone in the Tandridge area who has also spotted Cyril's UFO to contact the agency's 24-hour hotline on (01273) 300805.

'Region is a hot spot for flying triangles'

BURTON and South Derbyshire has been declared a UFO "hot spot" zone after dozens of mysterious sightings during the last month.

Investigators have been inundated with calls about "flying triangles" and other UFOs.

They came after close encounters with two giant craft by postal worker Mr Tom Culleton in Winshill

He told the Mail he watched one "the size of a football pitch" gliding over homes during the early hours of May 1, and spotted a massive triangular craft two nights later.

The case, which was featured in the Mail, was taken up by the Derby-based Phenomenon Research Association, which issued an appeal for spotters to come forward.

Group leader Mr Omar Fowler said he received 30 phone calls the night the paper came out, followed by about half a dozen over the next few days.

"Burton is one of the hot spots of UFO activity. Big questions are being asked throughout the UFO community."

The Mail has also received reports, including one from a woman in St Paul's Square on May 16.

She described a craft with a very bright light over Shobnall Fields.

Another woman, from Scrop-ton, reported two very large flying saucers over her house on Saturday night, making noises like fireworks.

Mr Fowler can be contacted on (01332) 761464.

THE SINFIN TRIANGLE!

WHAT do you think? Are we being spied on from outer space or are these mistaken sightings of planes or tricks of the light?

Send your views to Express Yourself, Express Series of Newspapers, Northcliffe House, Meadow Road, Derby DE1 2DW.

● As seen - a reproduction of the drawing of the suspected UFO.

● Identical - the suspected UFO reported in Belgium.

By OLIVER NIESEWAND

THESE two UFO 'sightings' look remarkably similar.

Yet one was made in Belgium last year, the other by an eight year old Sinfin girl only a few weeks ago.

UFO investigators are convinced that what was seen, was an alien craft and describe the parallel between the drawings as "fantastic."

The Sinfin girl witnessed the flying triangle at Stenson Fields and later drew what she saw for a local UFO researcher.

But almost a year ago, a Belgian man who saw a UFO over Heusy drew an identical sketch for the UFO research group SO-BEPS.

There were reports of over 300 flying triangle sightings in Belgium over two years. The Belgian government actually scrambled two F16 fighters on one occasion.

The girl and her mother, who did not wish to be identified, say they saw the object on March 16 at 7.15pm. They were in a car when they spotted the triangular shape ahead of them, moving slowly across the road.

PLANE

The mother was interviewed by researcher Peter Edwards and produced her daughter's drawings.

He told the Express: "I've been on this earth 39 years and I've never seen anything like it before. It wasn't a plane."

Neither of them were scared, in fact the woman described herself as "elated" by the sight.

The triangle had a dark shape with a definite outline. The lights on it were coloured in different hues, rosy and yellow white.

It began to move very rapidly and turned slowly onto its side. They tried to follow it down a side street but lost it behind some houses.

Mr Edwards said: "I do believe this is a genuine sighting because of the way she came across - excited and truthful. She could hardly believe it. "There is a fantastic parallel between the drawings. It concludes that this UFO subject is a world-wide phenomenon."

Head of the Derbyshire Phenomena Research Association Omar Fowler said: "We know the new Aurora spy plane is of a similar design but its minimum speed would be around 200-300mph. There is no way it could hover or travel at 20mph like some of the local sightings we have heard about. I believe it is an alien craft."

Triangle in the sky plea

UFO experts in Nottingham are appealing for information about sightings of a strange object seen in the north of the county.

The triangular-shaped object was recently spotted flying low over Newstead Abbey and two weeks later the Phenomena Research Association received 22 reports of sightings of a triangular-shaped object over Matlock.

UFO organisations have received many reports of similar triangular-shaped objects since the mid 1980s but none have yet been identified.

In November 1989 and for the following 18 months thousands of people reported identical craft flying over Belgium and France.

The sightings in North Notts will be under discussion at the next meeting of the East Midlands branch of the UFO Research Association on November 24 at Bulwell Library.

Anyone wishing to report a sighting can telephone Nottingham 275623.

ASHBOURNE NEWS TELEGRAPH.
- DERBYSHIRE -

UFO spotters chase mysterious 'flashing triangle'

UFO sightings in the Ashbourne area have continued to be reported to the News Telegraph by mystified members of the public.

In the latest incident, a family from Ellastone spotted a mysterious craft in the sky above their home and even set off in their car to find it when it went out of sight.

"It was a massive triangular object with flashing lights all around it," said Mrs Jackie Chown of Churchfields Cottage, Ellastone.

"It was very big, made no noise, and seemed to be coming down over Back Lane travelling towards Uttoxeter.

Her son Dave then jumped into his car along with family friend Mr Jim Chapman who went in search of the strange craft.

"He went round the whole Ellastone and Wootton area but could not find a thing," said Mrs Wootton.

Mr Chapman, who has a good knowledge of planes, could offer no explanation as to what they had seen and became even more intrigued when his mother in Derby rang with a sighting of her own.

She independently described this triangular object with flashing lights that had flown over her house on Tuesday night as well.

And a couple in Wootton have spoken to Mrs Chown saying that they were woken later that night by a very strong light over nearby Darley Moor.

The Ashbourne News Telegraph has reported many UFO sightings over the years with the most recent just before Christmas.

Our special UFO file shows that most sightings occur in the winter months of November-February.

Some people suggest that what people actually witnessing are the Northern Lights quite often visible at this time of year, rather than little green men from outer space.

But Mrs Chown refutes that: "It is definitely nothing like that and it certainly is not a helicopter or plane as it made no noise but I can not explain what it was."

Pint-sized aliens in flying triangles!

SCIENTISTS in America are studying photographs taken by a Sandiacre man which are thought to show an alien spaceship.

UFO investigators say it may have belonged to aliens known as the Grays, who are said to stand between three-and-a-half feet tall. It is claimed they have abducted humans and given them medication to blank out their memory before returning them to Earth.

The man was driving through Breadsall when he saw what appeared to be a bright light approaching.

"The object was about 1,500 feet up and doing about 200mph. It made no noise at all and had a triangular configuration of lights," says Qmar Fowler, leader of the Phenomenon Research Association.

The driver managed to take pictures with his 35mm camera and contact prints produced by laboratories at Kimberley indicate that the object was "extremely large, although no shape could be discerned at the time" says the association's newsletter.

It adds: "The negatives were subsequently passed on to the USA (believed to be the Jet Propulsion Laboratories) via a reliable source. We have since received a request for additional information on the type of camera used, the reports of large triangular UFOs.

Association members saw a video of NATO aircraft intercepting a "flying triangle" over Belgium in 1991.

And from Sweden came reports of "a black triangular object which flew at unusually high speeds". Two men were frightened by what looked like a hot-dog bread roll" which passed over them six or seven times in 45 minutes.

PINK TRIANGLE IN THE MORNING SKY

Flying triangle has Belgians going round in circles

THE BELGIAN air force has been on alert for three nights running, writes Lucy Kellaway. Two Hawker Siddeley aircraft equipped with infra-red cameras and sophisticated electronic sensors have been patrolling the skies. Down below, the Belgian police force has kept a constant watch, helped by more than 1,000 concerned civilians. Along the border with Germany, 20 lookout posts have been set up. Their target: an Unidentified Flying Object.

Since December, there have been 800 reported sightings, and even though some resemble a lamp-post more closely than a UFO, many of the others are being earnestly examined by SOBEPS, the Belgian Society for Studying Spacial Phenomena.

More surprising is how seriously the army is taking the whole thing. For the time being it says it is viewing the matter as a "technical curiosity" as the intruder has shown no aggressive signs. Should it turn nasty, it will be a different matter altogether.

The Easter operation was meant to be a world first, a confrontation between earth-bound defence forces and a UFO. The world's television crews camped out on a chilly Ardennes airfield to get the first pictures.

But the event made rather poor viewing. Several times the UFO was "seen" from the ground, but each time the aircraft got there too late, in one case missing the mystery intruder by just three minutes. To make matters worse, the cloud was low, the weather changeable, and the UFO tended to hover just above the rooftops, too low to be confronted by an aircraft.

The pilots, sworn to secrecy until the Defence Ministry has had time to watch the video evidence, seemed to have little to report, and could not confirm rumours of all kinds of irregular blips on their radars.

Far from declaring the operation a failure, the UFO-obsessed Belgian media appear more convinced than ever that there is something odd hovering over the peaceful countryside of Wallonia. Scientists on the ground appear in the past few days to have produced a clear image of the object, which is said to correspond to the reports of eyewitnesses. It is a triangle 30m-50m in diameter, with red, green and white lights at the corners, 10 times brighter than any star. It has a convex underbelly and makes a sharp whistling noise.

Belgium may not quite yet have found its UFO. But it has found a nice new use for its air force now that its services are needed less and less by earthlings.

fluentials, who oppose anything for opposition's sake if they can make some political mileage out of it.

A referendum on the subject which was not loaded in any way would prove the point.

MYSTERY FLYING TRIANGLE IS SPOTTED OVER NORTH

REPORTS of a mysterious flying object sighted over Tyneside last night have been sent to the Air Ministry in London for investigation.

The object, described as "a triangular formation of lights with a red light in the centre," was seen by people in Consett, South Shields, Fawdon and Fenham, Newcastle.

A spokesman at R.A.F. Station, Acklington, said today that he had received reports on the phenomenon from at least two sources and these had been passed on to the Air Ministry.

EVENING CHRONICLE
Friday, September 9, 1960

"I have no further information about this," he said, "and even if I had we are not allowed to release information."

Mr. J. Leslie Otley, secretary of the Tyneside Unidentified Flying Objects Society, said his wife and two neighbours saw the lights between 9.15 and 9.40 last night circling over Deanham Gardens, Fenham.

'BALL OF LIGHTS'

"A friend of mine, Mr. A. Miller, telephoned to say he saw them too, over Consett at 8.30 p.m.," said Mr. Otley.

"I reported the sighting to Acklington, who told me they had received a similar report from a man in South Shields. In the early hours of today I received a phone call from the Fighter Command Headquarters at R.A.F. Stanmore, asking me for further information."

Mrs. Otley said she first saw a single light in the sky, but later this was followed by "a triangular formation of lights, with a red light in the centre."

After 20 minutes, the formation moved off northwards, she said.

'Flying Triangle' Hovers Over Cobalt

DEC 27 1954 P. 5
Cobalt, Dec. 27 (Special)—A slow-moving "flying saucer" that hovered over the Agaunico Mine for five hours on Sunday brightly lighting up the district, has police and local residents puzzled and a little frightened.

IT LOOKED SOMETHING LIKE THIS
"You just had to see it to believe it"

TORONTO TELEGRAM
DEC. 27, 1954

At least six persons described the huge triangle of light in the air that they said resembled a mammoth flashlight, glowing brightly and then dimming out.

Willis St. Jean, night watchman at the mine, said the "flying saucer" was very close to the ground and the light was so bright that it almost blinded him. A horse in a nearby field bolted with fright as the light vanished. The light reappeared over nearby Lake Temiskaming.

Mrs. Hugh Montgomerie, of Kitchener, another eyewitness, said: "You just had to see it to believe it."

"My husband and myself were called out by Mr. St. Jean. It was a sight we'll never forget."

John Hunt, of Cobalt, was also summoned to the mine by St. Jean.

"I could just stand and gape," he told Hunt. "The light was as bright as any I have seen and it seemed to shine on me for ages before it moved off to another part of the mine."

When Hunt arrived at the mine the light was still there.

"I was astonished to see this thing which I presumed to be a flying saucer," Hunt said, "but its shape was more like a triangle. It was so very bright. Just like the brightness of a photographer's flashbulb."

It came very low and hung right over the mine. I flashed my spotlight on it and it was gone. I switched off the spot and suddenly it was back. Just as bright. I flashed again and ... it vanished.

"Then it started to go up and down slowly, then shot high into the sky at a tremendous speed. Fantastic. Just fantastic," he said.

"Willis climbed onto a shed roof and looked toward the lake and he says he saw six bright lights over the lake. When I climbed up beside him a little later I saw a bright red glow over the water but this just vanished. Like a light being switched off."

"The Cereologist" crop circle magazine (known as "The Cereologist" for some issues) is now online, with permission given to me by George Wingfield. (This joins "Sussex Circular" and "The Circular", uploaded last week with relevant permissions).

Good news: Another 388 issues of UFO/Forcean newsletters are now online. Bad news: These ones are in Swedish: "UFO Allehanda" etc. (These are in addition to the 5 sets from Sweden, mainly in English, that I posted earlier today). [HLR 7 of 50]

The "AFU Newsletter", the "AFU Annual Reports", the "Scandinavian Newsletter", the AFU's "Ufologen" newsletter and the "AFU Sponsornytt" newsletter are now online (with AFU permission). The first three items were mainly in English.
