@MikeColangelo Re-read my initial posts. I didn't comment on "how you did it." I simply re-posted an old tweet of valid info relevant to Inman's remarks, without any added comment at all. I even explained that I added the info for full transparency & context. Didn't expect or intend for animus.

2022-11-08T04:22:32+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589835738295652352

@MikeColangelo Sorry, I don't see how is this is "changing his excuse" that he wasn't talking about nonhuman recovered vehicles. Again, I'm not arguing for believing Inman or Oechsler. Only that Oechsler's claim that Inman knowingly discussed nonhuman vehicles is not proven in the transcripts.

2022-11-08T04:16:45+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589834284558188545

@MikeColangelo Um, that wasn't my question? Again, you can assume that Inman intuited that Oechsler was talking about nonhuman UFOs. But you represented it as if it's a fact, without mentioning that Inman denied and clarified this.

I simply posted this pertinent info without taking a side.

2022-11-08T04:06:03+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589831589931798529

@MikeColangelo Also, when did Inman "change his excuse"? Honestly asking, as I'm not aware of this.

2022-11-08T04:03:43+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589831003342008320

@MikeColangelo It's fine if you think that's what they were talking about and they both knew it. I wasn't addressing who or what you believe.

But leaving out Inman's denial and clarification, while noting that he spoke of "recovered craft," is misrepresentative of the full facts & context.

2022-11-08T03:52:33+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589828195301621760

@MikeColangelo So you're suggesting the phrase "researching the phenomenon and technology" is universally and unambiguously known to mean "researching nonhuman technology"?

Maybe Inman's lying, of course. But nowhere in the transcript was it made clear they were discussing "nonhuman" anything.

2022-11-08T03:44:55+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589826270820343809

https://twitter.com/_/status/1589823223960522752

@MikeColangelo Sure, but I felt it should be included in the thread (which is all most ppl will read btw) as Inman's clarifying statement is surely pertinent to the context of his comment. Without "manmade" included, this:backhand_index_pointing_down:is a misrepresentation of Inman's comment.

@ddeanjohnson @SicCoP1 @zuto_cohen @JasonColavito 3. Noting such facts & facets, or that people lobby non-transparently and off the books, isn't leveling an accusation. Mellon is lobbying for actions which could directly benefit entities which he is intimately involved with & invested in. There's ample personal benefit motive.

@ddeanjohnson @SicCoP1 @zuto_cohen @JasonColavito 1. I leveled no allegation of impropriety against Mellon. You keep reading things into my posts I didn't say. I agree with you that Mellon apparently is not lobbying for-hire, and hasn't since 2009. But I DO call his courting of congress to influence policy/spending lobbying.

While I agree on the federal definition of a lobbyist, clearly less transparently paid-for lobbying does occur. Tho I'd certainly define Mellon's UAP-related efforts since 2017 as lobbying.

"So long ago that nobody knows why, the government established a policy not to comment on anything that is written or said by private citizens. People can make any fantastic claim with a relatively high degree of immunity to being exposed...

This policy has been a bonanza to the writers of saucer lore. The basic concept of 'saucerism vs. the Air Force' warfare is to print or say anything and as proof of your honesty, dare the Air Force to contradict you."

@SicCoP1 @TheUFOTrail Perhaps. But Helene Cooper, NYT Pentagon correspondent & main reporter on the 2017 article (with Kean & Blumenthal) said she had immediate doubts & that she was unable to substantiate many of the claims, but for Harry Reid. Again ALL of this is irrelevant to my tweet on the lies.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FR768PXXMAARDME.jpg>

Cooper: When we first went looking for the program, I stupidly thought I could just call up the budget from 2007 and look at the defense appropriations. And I'm not going to tell you how many hours I wasted trying to find it until we finally threw up our hands and gave up. And it wasn't until I flew to Las Vegas and met with Harry Reid, and he told me, on the record, about getting this funding for the program that I really, actually believed that it existed."

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FR768PXXMAARDME.jpg>

Cooper: ' And the further away I got from the interview, the less believable it seemed. You know, it's as if you're in this interview and you're hearing this stuff and it makes complete sense to you. And then you walk away and you're back in the real world. And I'm sitting on the Metro in Washington, thinking, 'Is this actually for real?'"

Barbaro: "So the doubts begin to creep in?"

Cooper: "The doubts begin to creep in right away. But, I realized pretty early on, it's not for me to determine whether UFOs exist. I'm a defense department reporter, this is what I write about. Once I got my head around that, it sort of made it easier for me to figure out what my reporting objective was. And that was basically to confirm that there was a program going on at the Pentagon and to find out as much about it as I could."

@SicCoP1 @sazek @zuto_cohen @JasonColavito Fair enough. May I ask, which names were you thinking of?

Granted, I don't know Jason's mind, but those are the type of "UFO celebrities" I thought he was referring to in his post (Elizondo, Davis, Nolan, Taylor, Puthoff, Kelleher, Cahill etc.)

@SicCoP1 @sazek @zuto_cohen @JasonColavito 1. Yes those defense contractors & many others (from BAE & Raytheon to start-ups like Puthoff's ETI & IASA) stand to receive funding from the future contracts generated. Such companies have & do employ many of the popular names driving the UAP narrative. Here's some specifically:

@SicCoP1 @zuto_cohen @JasonColavito 2. We duno who'll ultimately benefit from the future contracts/funding these defense-aerospace insiders are trying to generate. But these names represent the entities involved in creating, assigning & receiving such govt funding. Many even created their own defense related comps.

@SicCoP1 @zuto_cohen @JasonColavito 1. All of them (Elizondo, Graves, Davis, Puthoff, Nolan, Taylor, Stratton, Kelleher & others part of UAP narrative) have been or are now employed by the usual suspects of defense companies. The term UFO celeb is subjective, but IMO they're known names who influence the topic.

Mellon has furthered their agendas as a lobbyist for 20 years.

@6diego32 @LueElizondo You can't prove a negative, or that something (the "Phenomenon") doesn't exist. It's a logical fallacy. <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FRxIDzSX0AEkTjw.jpg>

🔍 you can't prove a negative, meaning

The source of the fallacy is the assumption that something is true unless proven otherwise. The person making a negative claim cannot logically prove nonexistence. And here's why: to know that a X does not exist would require a perfect knowledge of all things (omniscience).

The big wing

Meanwhile, several Antelope Valley residents say they've seen a craft that simply strains credulity.

According to reports over the past two years, a vast black flying wing, estimated at between 600 and 800 ft. in width, has passed silently over city streets, empty desert and rural free-ways. The craft moved so slowly one observer said that he could jog along with it. A pattern of seemingly random white lights on the vehicle's black underside provided "constellation camouflage" against the starry sky. Observers who followed the craft long enough detailed unlikely maneuvers in which the vehicle stopped, rotated in place and hovered vertically, presenting a thin trailing edge to the ground.

Although such sightings encourage those who link the military with unearthly technology, a mammoth, quiet flying wing may have a conventional explanation: It could be a lighter-than-air craft pushed by slow-turning propellers. Certainly, such a vehicle could elude Doppler radar by slowing to a crawl. Alternatively, the fact that the craft holds station vertically suggests that it might serve as a huge re-@RayMoor18837824 @SicCoP1 @MickWest @UAPstudy I donâ€™t accept the unproven. You just keep repeating the same belief & saying my question isnâ€™t valid â€” without presenting any substantiation & without addressing anything I present to substantiate my position.

Iâ€™ve addressed your statement, which doesnâ€™t invalidate my question.

@RayMoor18837824 @SicCoP1 @MickWest @UAPstudy You said that already & I respectfully addressed it. You disagreed, yet you cannot cite any other IG investigations on Reid which Elizondo has discussed and couldâ€™ve plausibly been referring to.

Again, my question is valid. You disagreeâ€” fine. No need to keep repeating tweets.

@RayMoor18837824 @SicCoP1 @MickWest @UAPstudy Againâ€” they are the only IG investigations that Elizondo has been speaking about and they are the only IG investigations we know existâ€¦

Until new evidence changes either of those things, my question is valid.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FRS50DLXMAA52Qv.png>

Hynek may have genuinely wanted to restore his scientific standing, but his behavior during the 1970s certainly didnât help matters. The bespectacled, goateed astronomer was a familiar sight to television viewers of the era, pontificating on the “UFO problem” on programs ranging from The Dick Cavett Show to In Search Of. Late in 1973, he endorsed the alien abduction claims of two Pascagoula, Mississippi, shipyard workers, saying the men had “a very real experience” (Los Angeles Times 1973). He joined a UFO panel formed by the National Enquirer: $50,000 was to be awarded to “the first person to prove to the panel that UFOs are from outer space and are not natural phenomena” (Dick 1972). Near the end of the decade Hynek even made an eight-second cameo appearance in Steven Spielberg’s Close Encounters of the Third Kind (Huyghe 2001, 32). He was also a popular figure on the lucrative college lecture circuit. He later boasted to a friend “that each one of my lectures brings me more than my monthly pay from Northwestern” (Hynek 1978).

@ToddRaymondL @OddFlyingThing 2. Itâs a possibility that the only case Elizondo âinvestigatedâ was the Nimitz event. We know any case he investigated was already vetted (we know the Nimitz case was already vetted by AAWSAP) and was strictly military (Nimitz is the only one we can prove Lue even âreviewedâ.)

@ToddRaymondL @OddFlyingThing 1. Indeed, thereâs been nothing provided to support that Elizondo âinvestigatedâ the Nimitz event before 2017 (in the last weeks of his career, while preparing to join TTSA & publicize the event for profit) nor that he investigated it for any other reason but this public release.

@BostonsBuddha @blackvaultcom Most are willing to concede that AATIP was an alternate name for AAWSAP

The issue most have is that no evidence has materialized to substantiate that AATIP continued after AAWSAP ended in 2012 â yet alone as a separate program directed by Elizondo â as Lue & co. have claimed.

@l3athal101 @TheUfoJoe @LtTimMcMillan I def agree & words are subjective. But if we're attempting unbiased objectivity, both the text of the article & McMillan's own statements are more clearly presenting that Reid was fired from his responsibilities in government than Reid was fired but still has a USG/ DoD job.

Several current and former Defense officials tell The Debrief that the DoD's steadfast denial regarding Elizondo and often inconsistent and confusing public statements on UAP can be traced back to Elizondo's last boss, Garry Reid.

After three years of attempts at clearing his name and setting the record straight, Elizondo finally filed a formal complaint with the DoD Inspector General's Office in May 2021.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FQfeYmnWYAAkG2h.jpg>

So while Congress was passing legislation requesting preliminary evaluations of UAP incidents and establishing a formal UAP investigative office in the Pentagon, the principal executive overseeing these efforts was Reid.

The same Reid that multiple defense officials say has not only maintained a years-long vendetta against Elizondo but also played a central role in obstructing efforts to formally investigate purported UAP sightings going back to at least late 2017.

Notwithstanding all of this, in November 2021, when the DoD decided to get ahead of an upcoming Congressional mandate, Reid was named as the Executive Secretary of the newly formed UAP investigative office, the verbosely titled the Airborne Object Identification and Management Synchronization Group (AOIMSG).

Several current and former Defense officials tell The Debrief that the DoD's steadfast denial regarding Elizondo and often inconsistent and confusing public statements on UAP can be traced back to Elizondo's last boss, Garry Reid.

After three years of attempts at clearing his name and setting the record straight, Elizondo finally filed a formal complaint with the DoD Inspector General's Office in May 2021.

In unclassified documents reviewed by The Debrief, Elizondo accused Reid of "malicious activities, coordinated disinformation, professional misconduct, whistleblower reprisal, and explicit threats."

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FQfeYmjXIAc3ott.jpg>

According to Elizondo and several current and former defense officials that The Debrief spoke with, the Pentagon's inconsistent messaging on Elizondo's involvement in AATIP and general aversion to being open about its interest in UAP is in large part due to one person: Luis Elizondo's former boss at OUSD(I&S).

Or as one current senior Intelligence Official worded it when speaking with The Debrief, "Garry Fucking Reid."

@ReconStrange âUFOâ crash retrievals: <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FQVekefXIAsm4ba.jpg>

The fate of the D-21 that had disappeared on the first operational flight was finally revealed in February 1986 when an official from the CIA returned a panel to Ben Rich that he had been given by a Soviet KGB agent. The drone had self-destructed over Siberia and the Soviets had recovered the wreckage.^[26] The Tupolev design bureau reverse-engineered the wreck and produced plans for a Soviet copy, named the Voron (Raven), but it was never built.^[27]

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FQVekefXoAUajcS.jpg>

The Chinese government never reported spotting the D-21B in flight. The first one failed to turn around and continued straight on, crashing in the Soviet Union.^[20] Another test

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FQVekeeXIAQmqjJ.jpg>

down and it sank. The fourth, and last, operational flight of the D-21B was on 20 March 1971. It was lost over China on the final segment of the route over China's Yunnan province;^[21] wreckage was found by local authorities. In 2010, after being in the junkyard of the China Aviation Museum for years, the wreckage was moved to the exhibition area.^[22]

@stevebozz1 @blackvaultcom My impression was that:

- the meeting was not related to UAP
- as I was asking John about Elizondo's 2021 IG complaint, I'm guessing the meeting was addressing this @blackvaultcom said he will be releasing more on this in the near future, but perhaps he could clarify this?

@stevebozz1 @blackvaultcom @blackvault Yeah I won't try to speak for what John meant, but it's a good question perhaps he'll clarify. If not, he said he'll be releasing the story shortly

But I get the impression that the meeting was about the Elizondo IG complaint cos that was the focus of my question.

The first pilotless aircraft were built during World War I. From a suggestion that A. M. Getting rid of the wires via using a new wireless technology, radio, appeared in the late 1890s. In 1897 British engineer Ernest Wilson and C. J. Evans patented a radio controlled torpedo or demonstrated remote radio control boats on the Thames river (accounts of what they did vary).^[2]^[3] At an 1898 exhibition at Madison Square Garden, Nikola Tesla demonstrated a small unmanned boat that used a coherer based radio control.^[4] With an eye towards selling the idea to the US government as a torpedo, Tesla's 1898 patent included a clockwork frequency changer so an enemy couldn't take control of the device.

Of the 1500 or so documents released, Dr. Green's paper represents just about 2.5% of them. Yet the sensational UFO material within has gotten all the press. John Schuessler was a key member of Robert Bigelow's National Institute for Discovery Science (NIDS), and in his leadership role in MUFON, the facilitator for their contract with BAASS to provide UFO data and investigations. It's poetic justice that Schuessler's work is responsible for the AATIP story getting tabloid press. It's the kind of sketchy data that Bigelow's project was founded on, so in that sense, maybe the most accurate portrayal yet.

turned back to the northwest. As he was flying away he could see the disturbance clearing and could no longer identify the place where it occurred. He did not see any object or vessel associated with the disturbance either above the surface, on the surface, or below the surface. He also never made visual contact with the other fighter aircraft that were vectored to the location or the AAV. It is possible that the disturbance was being caused by an AAV but that the AAV was 'cloaked' or invisible to the human eye.

@SicCoP1 @ToddRaymondL @likeitmatters3 @KeithBasterfie1 @ReconStrange The Executive Summary:backhand_index_pointing_down:says the same & that Kurth visually noted a 50-100m water disturbance (way larger than Fravor/ Dietrich report :man_shrugging:) from 10-15nm at 15,000ft, and that Kurth was 5-10nm away at 10-15,000ft when told to return (he ignored, being close.)

F/A-18C Tracking of the Water Disturbance

Pilot: Lt Col [REDACTED] USMC

Lt. Col [REDACTED] Commanding Officer VMFA-232, was flying a single-seat F/A-18C that launched from the USS Nimitz at approximately 1030L to conduct a Functional Check Flight of an aircraft that had recently completed significant maintenance. He noted the weather that day was blue skies, no clouds, and unlimited visibility. After 30 minutes into his flight he received a radio call from his air controller asking him to investigate an unidentified airborne contact. This was not a standard request. Additionally the controller asked if he had ordnance onboard, which was odd since no controller had ever asked that question during a situation of identifying an unknown contact over U.S. or International territory. He responded that he had no ordnance onboard. The controller provided vectors to the vicinity of figure 1. The object was reported to be at "slow speed and low altitude". While enroute at approximately 250 knots indicated/400 knots groundspeed at medium altitude (15-25,000 feet), he gained radar contact of what he believed to be two F/A-18Fs that were approaching the AAV from the west at low altitude (500-5,000 feet). There was no other traffic on the radar. The controller informed him to remain above 10,000 feet, as there was other fighter traffic at low altitude investigating the AAV. As he approached approximately 15nm from the AAV descending through approximately 15,000 feet, he could see a water disturbance in the ocean surface. He recalled that the sea state was low (calm). At approximately 5-10 nm away from the AAV, the controller told him to "skip it" and return to his operating area. Since he was close he elected to fly over the water disturbance to try and see what was causing it.

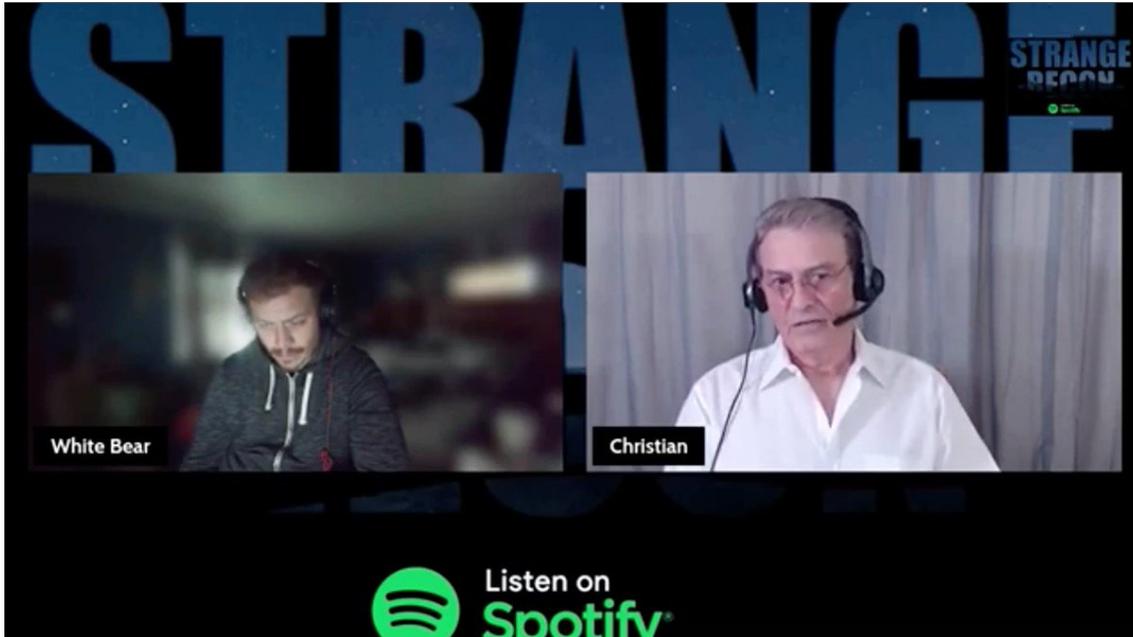

The disturbance appeared to be 50 to 100 meters in diameter and close to round. It was the only area and type of whitewater activity that could be seen and reminded him of images of something rapidly submerging from the surface like a submarine or ship sinking. It also looked like a possible area of shoal water where the swell was breaking over a barely submerged reef or island. He overflew the disturbance and turned back to the northwest. As he was flying away he could see the disturbance clearing and could no longer identify the place where it occurred. He did not see any object or vessel associated with the disturbance either above the surface, on the surface, or below the surface. He also never made visual contact with the other fighter aircraft that were vectored to the location or the AAV. It is possible that the disturbance was being caused by an AAV but that the AAV was 'cloaked' or invisible to the human eye.

Lt Col [REDACTED] recovered aboard the Nimitz at approximately 1200L. He reported to the Carrier Intelligence Center (CVIC) and was asked by his Intelligence Officer, 1st Lt [REDACTED], if he saw the "supersonic Tic Tac"? We questioned now Capt. [REDACTED] to determine if he had any further information but based on his position in CVIC at the time he was not involved in any further discussions concerning the AAV.

further demonstrates to @ReconStrange that, based on Kurth's statements and the encounter reports, Kurth must have been above Fravor and Dietrich for nearly the entire event.:backhand_index_pointing_down:

@SicCoP1 @ToddRaymondL @likeitmatters3 I had Fravor's flight on radar & was directly over top of them when they were observing the Supersonic Tic-Tac; I saw a visual disturbance in the water; I never saw the object physically myself. D. Kurth to Christian Lambright at @KeithBasterfie1 blog:backhand_index_pointing_down:

<https://ufos-scientificresearch.blogspot.com/2021/05/former-lt-col-douglas-kurth-speaks-out.html?m=1> <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FPj00vkXoAA93NF.jpg>

As part of the new paper, Lambright explores the role of Kurth in the 2004 incident. Lambright quotes Kurth as follows:

"I was called for an interview to be a Program manager at BAASS and accepted the job. Nobody in Bigelow companies or anyone associated with BAASS knew anything about the Supersonic Tic Tac event until I told them about it. I interviewed some of the witnesses and wrote a report about the event and submitted it. My report started the entire sequence of subsequent reports and investigation into the events."

"I am fairly sure in my hiring interview, Colm Kelleher, who did the interview, did not know about the event."

Asked for further details about the actual event, Kurth responded:

"That's when they vectored Fravor's flight toward the Unidentified Contact. After a few minutes when my checks were completed, I accepted their vector toward the Unidentified Contact. I had Fravor's flight on radar and was directly over the top of them when they were visually observing the Supersonic Tic Tac. I was not on the same radio frequency as Fravor's flight. I saw the visual disturbance in the water (which had been previously and accurately reported) and that is what I used as my reference point to orbit overhead. The disturbance in the water cleared suddenly. It all seemed odd to me at the time...I never saw the object physically myself."

But I said the topic HAS hinged on these insiders who've been saying that they're actions since 2017, combined with the activism of UFOland, have precipitated what's now happening within the USG (on podcasts you've hosted.)

This can't be ignored.

And if Reid's claim was incorrect, what about his other AAWSAP statements?

Reid was on the record saying reports/studies from Skinwalker is what sparked his action in Congress. That's what I was relaying. Maybe clumsily.

With respect, we shouldn't be required to decipher the "real" meaning to non-stop ambiguous statements & certainly not for years on end. Not only is it imprecise, it causes more contention than progress. How about accountability?

People that are able to recognize UFOs may tend to have more developed brains that allow them to see what others would dismiss or overlook. An area of the brain between the caudate nucleus and putamen associated with intuition is larger and has increased neural density in MRI subjects who reported UFO sightings.

These people are highly functioning, highly intelligent and are often required to make effective snap decisions in their line of work as in fighter pilots. This area of the brain also lights up when chess masters make unexpected, intuitive and brilliantly correct moves.

To be open minded is important. The UFOs may be either from another planet in this galaxy or beyond, under the ocean or yes underground (UFOs have been reported coming out of the ocean and disappearing in mountains), or they could be interdimensional or from some other level or reality we don't understand, or a combination of possibilities.

They may be here to study their deep past or how life evolves in the universe or some inconceivable purpose. Everything must be kept on the table to help us figure this out. that is while being careful not to go

Only two months later, all Flying Wing contracts were canceled abruptly without explanation by order of Stuart Symington, Secretary of the Air Force. Shortly thereafter, also without explanation, Symington turned down a request from the Smithsonian for the Air Force to donate one of these big wings to its collection of pioneering Northrop aircraft.^[7]

All remaining Flying Wing bomber airframes, except for the sole YRB-49A reconnaissance version, were ordered chopped up by Symington, the materials smelted down using portable smelters brought to Northrop's facility, in plain sight of its employees. Jack Northrop retired from both the company he founded and aviation shortly after he saw his dream of a pure, all-wing aircraft destroyed.^[8] His son, John Northrop Jr., later recounted during an interview his father's devastation and lifelong suspicion that his Flying Wing project had been sabotaged by political influence and back room wheeling-and-dealing between Convair and the Air Force.^[9]

@TheUFOTrail Of course, the story couldn't end without a shadowy reminder that this mysterious event might possibly represent a threat from a foreign enemy.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FPDMhhgXoAMHvjF.jpg>

These objects have been observed over other portions of the world, principally Sweden, Bermuda, and California.

I would have given almost anything that day to have had a movie camera with a telephoto lens and from now on I will never be without one.

When I landed at Yakima, Washington airport I described what I had seen to my very good friend, Al Baxter, who is the General Manager of Central Aircraft Company. He listened patiently and was very courteous but in a joking way didn't believe me.

I did not accurately measure the distance between these two mountains until I landed at Pendleton, Oregon, that same day where I told a number of pilot friends of mine what I had observed and they did not scoff or laugh, but suggested they might be guided missiles or something new. In fact, several former Army pilots informed me that they had been briefed before going into combat overseas that they might see objects of similar shape and design that I described and assured me that I wasn't dreaming or going crazy.

I quote Sonny Robinson, a former Army Air Force pilot who is now operating dusting operations at Pendleton, Oregon: "What you observed, I am convinced, is some type of jet- or rocket-propelled ship that is in the process of being tested by our government or it could even be by some foreign government."

Anyhow, the news that I had observed these spread very rapidly and before the night was over I was receiving telephone calls from all parts of the world; and to date I have not received one telephone call or one letter of scoffing or disbelief. The only disbelief that I know of was what was printed in the papers.

I look at this whole affair as not something funny as some people have made it out to be. To me it is mighty serious and since I evidently did observe something that at least Mr. John Doe on the street corner or Pete Andrews on the ranch has never heard about, is no reason that it does not exist. Even though I openly invited an investigation by the Army and the FBI as to the authenticity of my story or a mental and physical exservation. I will go so far as to assume that if our Military Intelligence was not aware of what I observed and reported to the United and Associated Press and over the radio on two different occasions which apparently set the nation buzzing, they would be the very first people I could expect as visitors.

I have received lots of requests from people who told me to make a lot of wild guesses. I have based what I have written here in this article on positive facts and as far as guessing what it was I observed, it is just as much a mystery to me as it is to the rest of the world. I saw them and I know they are real.

@TheUFOTrail It's notable when reading Ken Arnold's own written account of his sighting from the 1948 first issue of Ray Palmer's FATE Magazine:backhand_index_pointing_down: how much of it is unremarkable even to Arnold at the time. Arnold admits hasty miscalculations while in air and often cites birds & jet aircraft. <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FPDLRGuXoAED7aI.jpg> determine their approximate shape and size as far as fifty miles.

I remember distinctly that my sweep-second hand on my eight-day clock, which is located on my instrument panel, read one minute to 3 P.M. as the first object of this formation passed the southern edge of Mt. Rainier. I watched these objects with great interest as I had never before observed airplanes flying so close to the mountain tops, flying directly south to southeast down the hog's back of a mountain range. I would estimate their elevation could have varied a thousand feet one way or another up or down, but they were pretty much on the horizon to me which would indicate they were near the same elevation as I was.

They flew, as I have frequently observed geese fly, in a rather diagonal chain-like line as if they were linked together. They seemed to hold a definite direction, but swerved in and out of the high mountain peaks. Their speed at the time did not impress me particularly, because I knew that our army and air forces had planes that went very fast.

What kept bothering me as I watched them flip and flash in the sun right along their path was the fact that I couldn't make out any tail on them, and I am sure that any pilot would justify more than a second look at such a plane.

I observed them quite plainly, and I estimate my distance from them, which was almost at right angles, to be between twenty to twenty-five miles. I knew they must be very large to permit me to observe their shape at that distance, even as clear a day as it was. In fact, I compared a zeus fastener or cowling tool I had in my pocket with them, holding it up on them and holding it up on the DC-4 that I could observe at quite a distance to my left, and they seemed smaller than the DC-4; but I should judge their span would have been as wide as the farthest engines on each side of the fuselage of the DC-4.

The more I observed these objects, the more upset I became, as I am accustomed and familiar with most all flying objects whether I am close to the ground or at higher altitudes. I observed the chain of these objects passing another high snow-covered ridge in between Mt. Rainier and Mt. Adams, and as the first one was passing the south crest of this ridge the last object was entering the northern crest of the ridge.

As I was flying in the direction of this particular ridge, I measured it and found it to be approximately five miles, so I could safely assume that the chain of these saucer-like objects was at least five miles long. I could quite accurately determine their pathway due to the fact that there were several of them as well as higher peaks on the other side of their pathway.

As the last unit of this formation passed the northernmost high snow-covered crest of Mt. Adams, I looked at my sweep-second hand and it showed that they had traveled the distance in one minute and forty-two seconds. Even at the time this timing did not upset me as I felt confident that after I landed there would be some explanation of what I had seen.

A number of news men and experts suggested that I might have been seeing reflections or even a mirage. This I know to be absolutely false, as I observed these objects not only

The FLYING DISKS

The cover illustration depicts a blue sky filled with white, fluffy clouds. In the upper right, two large, orange, saucer-shaped objects with dark circular centers are shown. Below them, a red biplane with white wings and a propeller is flying towards the left. The overall scene suggests a mysterious aerial encounter.

Kenneth and Mrs. Arnold beside the Callair, three-place plane used on his historic "saucer" flight.

There was a DC-4 to the left and to the rear of me approximately fifteen miles distant and, I should judge, at 14,000 feet elevation.

The sky and air were as clear as crystal. I had not flown more than two or three minutes on my course when a bright flash reflected on my airplane. It startled me as I thought I was too close to some other aircraft. I looked every place in the sky and couldn't find where the reflection had come from until I looked to the left and the north of Mt. Rainier where I observed a chain of nine peculiar-looking aircraft flying from north to south at approximately 9,500 feet elevation and going, seemingly, in a definite direction of about 170 degrees north to south.

They were approaching Mt. Rainier very rapidly, and I merely assumed they were jet planes. Anyhow, I discovered that this was where the reflection had come from, as two or three of them every few seconds would dip or change their course slightly, just enough for the sun to strike them at an angle that reflected brightly in my eyes.

These objects being quite far away, I was unable for a few seconds to make out their shape or their formation. Very shortly they approached Mt. Rainier, and I observed their outline against the snow quite plainly.

I thought it was very peculiar that I couldn't find their tails, but assumed they were some new type of jet. I was determined to clock their speed. I had two definite points—Mt. Rainier and Mt. Adams—to clock them by, and the air was so clear that it was very easy to see objects and

These objects have been observed over other portions of the world, principally Sweden, Bermuda, and California.

I would have given almost anything that day to have had a movie camera with a telephoto lens and from now on I will never be without one.

When I landed at Yakima, Washington airport I described what I had seen to my very good friend, Al Baxter, who is the General Manager of Central Aircraft Company. He listened patiently and was very courteous but in a joking way didn't believe me.

I did not accurately measure the distance between these two mountains until I landed at Pendleton, Oregon, @UFOBreddit @InvNightSchool ? Simply false. Evidence is what debunkers focus on.

Mick West doesn't say (as Stan claims) 'I know, there is no evidence to study.' Instead, as a debunker one who exposes the falseness of an idea or belief, Mick studies & refutes the evidence.

He doesn't claim there is none.

@UFOBreddit @InvNightSchool Again, broad false assumptions of an entire group. If something is deemed not true via the verifiable evidence available then, in order for it to be proven true, superseding verifiable evidence must be found & presented. Raymond
Palmer

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FOtN0SxXIBeh-Wc.jpg>

Carrying a cover date of June 1947, Palmer put out a special all-Shaver Mystery issue, released weeks ahead of the flying saucer sightings of Kenneth Arnold. In his editorial, Palmer presented the 1942 Los Angeles incident as sightings of spaceships, evidence in support of Shaver's tales:

“Communication between these underground races (because they have the mechanical means to do so) and peoples who travel space in space ships, and sometimes venture near a sun-planet for raiding purposes (to steal ancient machines and supplies and to procure slaves), is postulated by Mr. Shaver, and borne out by the incredible number of reports we have and have had in the past, of visiting ‘ships’ in the sky (such as the mysterious ‘air raid’ suffered by Los Angeles during the war, and which the army now reveals has never been explained, except that it was no private or military plane of our own, and none of the Japs or any foreign power, but was certainly tracked by radar, and observed by many people to ‘appear to be rocket ships’ from three to five in number).”

"Anecdotal info, tho interesting, I'm not sure is all that helpful."

Agreed. Yet anecdotal info & claims is all Lue & co. have provided. No radar data, no clear images, no evidence of UFO investigations or even that he "ran a Pentagon UFO program" only "anecdotal info" of such.

The image shows a Zoom meeting window. The main video feed on the left features a man named 'Lue' wearing a black t-shirt and a tan baseball cap. His background includes a shelf with various items, a framed American flag, and several certificates. On the right side, there is a vertical stack of three smaller video thumbnails. The top thumbnail shows 'Rather B. Squidding' in a light-colored shirt and tie. The middle thumbnail shows 'Michael @SingularityMike' wearing glasses and a headset. The bottom thumbnail shows 'Lu @LuAngeles' in a white shirt and headset. The entire meeting window is set against a dark purple background with diagonal lines.

1989 - September

Potential Target or Courier - Timothy Good

The director of a "Special Development Group" associated with Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey International contacted U.K. researcher Timothy Good. The director stated that one of his colleagues had been at Good's speech a few months earlier at the MUFON Symposium in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Good was told the director's corporation was working on an international touring display on the subject that would provide accurate information on UFOs, and be entertaining. When Good expressed reservations about a circus company getting involved in UFOs, the director wrote back and described a government connection to the UFO International display:

Organizations such as NASA, United States Government, Rockwell International, have agreed to work...cooperation to develop the main part of this show, the future of space and the technical advances predicted over the next 100 years. Their reluctance at first was not the fact that we owned circuses, but on how the UFO subject is going to be tastefully handled. We have now satisfied their concerns...

Tim Good was offered the position of "official Consultant on UFO research" to the Special Development Group. After some delays, Good passed off the project to Bob Oeschler who he felt he was fully qualified to help, as he had spent years as a UFO researcher, NASA mission specialist and project engineer.

Oeschler also had an intelligence background having given a lecture on crop circles with Bruce Maccabee at the CIA to about fifty agency personnel.

Oeschler had his first meetings with the group on November 1 and 2, 1989, after signing a non-disclosure agreement. The project became known as "Cosmic Journey," and he was told that the project had received the approval of President George Bush, Vice-President Dan Quayle and the National Space Council (an organization based in the White House and protected under Executive Order).

of President George Bush, Vice-President Dan Quayle and the National Space Council (an organization based in the White House and protected under Executive Order).

In November 1989, Oeschler had a series of meetings in Washington. One included a meeting at the Pentagon with former Apollo X Astronaut Lt. General Thomas P. Stafford⁵⁷ representing the intelligence community attached to the "Cosmic Journey" project. He proposed Oeschler check with NASA and National Photographic Interpretation Center (NPIC) for photos he could use for the exhibit (NPIC was formally run by Arthur Lundahl who is listed as one of the 13 magicians in Appendix 4).

The general according to Oeschler also proposed an exhibit of a dead alien in "a space age looking coffin with blue lighting inside the clear lexan cover." The general indicated that he wanted to use the real thing rather than a mock-up. Oeschler described what he was told:

They were devising a series of kiosks that would show the history of UFO sightings. UFOs associated with the space program, and of course aliens commonly associated with the abduction phenomena. I was shown a photographic rendition that included of what appeared to be some sort of an alien creature typical to the grey alien that had been referred to in the popular publications in the past. The creature was encased in a glass coffin like structure that was being prepared with a lot of apparatuses and tanks and forth. It was probably some sort of cryogenic tank to preserve the body from decay.⁵⁸

As part of the preparation Oeschler was flown out to an off-shore NORAD tracking facility in black unmarked helicopters landing on what looked like an oil rig which appeared to contain a huge NORAD tracking facility.

On the huge map of the United States they were tracking five AFCs (alternative space craft). No one seemed to be concerned at all over what they were watching.

When Tim Good made the project public in his book "Alien Liaison" there were a series of denials from all the people mentioned by Oeschler and Good. The project disappeared.

Oechsler: I am aware of that.

Inman: So for many of the things, at least as I sort of infer from the conversation of the interest of Mr. Good and Peter Hill-Norton, they are areas where while I had some expertise, it's now, you know, seven years old.

Oechsler: I see.

Inman: And the pace at which things move in that field, the odds of my being accurate are increasingly remote, in understanding those things.

Oechsler: Is it your understanding that there is a cultural dialogue going on, (long pause) today?

Inman: Well I guess I'd have to ask with whom? Between what parties?

Oechsler: Well, between any of the parties that presumably are behind the technology in the crafts.

Inman: I honestly don't know. Have no exposure at all. So I haven't a clue whether there are any ongoing dialogues or not. I'm trying to think who there in the Washington area that is at least much closer to the issues, that might be able to at least give you some guidance.

Oechsler: That's what I am looking for. I'm not looking to step on any toes. I think I have some things to offer and I would like to participate. And to be frank with you, you are essentially the only one I would feel safe in getting guidance from at this point ...

Inman: Uh huh.

Oechsler: ... Based on the more I know, ...

Inman: Yeah

Oechsler:... the more concerned I become with how I should handle what I know.

Inman: The Deputy Director for Science and Technology at CIA is named Everett Hineman. He is in fact getting ready to retire in the very near future. That may make him somewhat more willing to have dialogues than he otherwise would have had. When I knew him in the period seven to ten years ago, he was a person of very substantial integrity and just good common sense. So as a place to start he would clearly be high on the list. In the retired community of those who nonetheless were exposed to the intelligence business and stayed reasonably close to it, there is a retired Rear Admiral, a former director of Naval Intelligence

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FOB8fWvXwAQLbMU.jpg>

It is worth pointing out that Admiral Inman later claimed he was unaware that the topic of conversation involved UFOs and denied any knowledge of the subject matter. For reference purposes the complete transcript of Bob Oechsler's conversation with Admiral Inman is reproduced below:

"Oechsler: Yes, Thank you very much for returning my call.

Inman: You're most welcome.

Oechsler: Do you remember who I am?

Inman: Unfortunately I do not, I apologize.

Oechsler: OK, well we met at the University of Science, University of Maryland Science and Technology ...

Inman: I do pull out, now, thank you.

Oechsler: I wanted to, for one thing, on behalf of myself I was looking for some guidance that I hoped you might be able to afford me ...

Inman: OK.

Oechsler: ... in giving me some kind of direction in how I can assist in this project. I've been spending a great deal of time researching the phenomenon and technologically I think I might have some very interesting things to offer ...

Inman: Uh huh.

Oechsler: ... Probably not nearly as much as it was, what you probably already know. But I certainly would like to get some guidance in a number of different areas. It's probably a situation where I would like to at some point get together with you, and get an overview of what direction I might take in which I might be able to help in. On behalf of Admiral Lord Hill-Norton and Mr. Good, the best I can do there is I have no idea what the level of security crossing countries happens to be. And I really don't want to get too much involved in that end of it, I'll leave that to your discretion.

Inman: What is Peter Hill-Norton doing now?

Oechsler: What is he doing right now?

Inman: Yeah.

Oechsler: As far as I know he is working in the background of things. He has worked extensively with Timothy Good in a publication he has put out, Above Top Secret, which you may or may not be Oechsler: VDM?

Inman: BDM. It's a corporation there in the McLean area. His level of competence again is very high, his integrity is very high. Whether he has any knowledge in the areas you are working on I don't have a clue, because I don't have any ongoing dialogue with him. But those are at least two thoughts for you that are there in the area where you are located. And who have a prospect of still having some currency. I don't know that they do. In my case I don't have any.

Oechsler: Do you anticipate that any of the recovered vehicles would ever become available for technological research? Outside of the military circles.

Inman: Again, I honestly don't know. Ten years ago the answer would have been no. Whether as time has evolved they are beginning to become more open on it there's a possibility. Again, Mr. Hineman probably would be the best person to put that kind of question to.

Oechsler: OK.

Inman: Well good luck to you.

Oechsler: OK, and also Louis Cabot has become quite interested in ...

Inman: Good.

Oechsler: ... some of my findings, so you may hear from him.

Inman: OK, he's a good man.

Oechsler: OK.

Inman: Thank you.

Oechsler: Very good, thank you for calling.

Inman: Bye.

Oechsler: Bye-bye."

Source: Bob Oechsler.

Oechsler: OK, in any case he is working, they are more or less working together, Timothy Good as a consultant. Admiral Lord Hill-Norton is, as the way he's expressed it to me, quite furious with his inability to gain knowledge on the issues.

Inman: (Muffled acknowledgement)

Oechsler: And he in fact sent Timothy Good here on a tour hoping to find out more information. There was a conference in Las Vegas at the end of June (and) the first couple days of July, where he had hoped to pick up some contact information. And I had suggested to him that the only individual I knew that possibly would be able to help him, if it was indeed possible to gain any information across country boundaries would be through you. And I suggested that that contact be made.

Inman: What is the general area of interest?

Oechsler: Two things, one, it's my feeling from my research that there is a dichotomy of sorts, one in which there seems to be an indoctrination program to educate the public to the realities that are involved here. The other must be a problem relating to security measures and the need to know level. I have the ability to control the influence and understanding and acceptability of a great, great mass of the public. I have a nation-wide radio broadcast, regular radio broadcast on the subject matter. I'm well written amongst all of the publications. I am connected with all the major organizations. I've investigated, I spent 18 months investigating, including field investigations involving the Gulf Breeze situation. I know all the internals on that. And I have focused a great deal on the technological end of the technologies, and I've studied a great deal of the things that have been going wrong along in the Chesapeake Bay, in connection with the Electromagnetic Continuity Analysis Center and with the EMP projects.

Inman: All of those are areas in which I am vastly out of date. When I made the decision to retire seven years ago, I made a conscious decision to sever ongoing ties with the U.S. Intelligence Community. I have had some exposure on limited occasions, to some areas of activity over the succeeding seven years when I did the Embassy Security Survey as a consultant to the Defense Science Board. But overwhelmingly my efforts in these seven years have been focused on industrial competitiveness ...

Oechsler: Right

@TheUFOTrail Same as it ever was. As you noted, Col. Bryan's pro-UFO statements from 60yrs ago are nearly identical to the pro-UAP statements of today's popular govt/ IC insiders. This highlighted Bryan quote:backhand_index_pointing_down: could easily be attributed to Elizondo or Mellon.

<http://ufotrail.blogspot.com/2019/11/joseph-bryan-iii-fbi-and-cia.html?m=1>

In "The UFO Evidence," NICAP states, in judicious, conservative language, its "support of the hypothesis that UFOs are under intelligent control, making plausible the notion that some of them might be of extra-terrestrial origin."

NICAP also quotes, in the May-June 1966 issue of its publication. "The UFO Investigator," the stated position of one of the most highly qualified members of its Board of Governors. Joseph Bryan III (Colonel, USAF, Retired), former Special Assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force (1952-53) and former member of the staff of Gen. Lauris Norstad, then Supreme Allied Commander at NATO: "It is my opinion that the UFOs reported by competent observers are devices under intelligent control; that their speeds, maneuvers, and other technical evidence prove them superior to any aircraft or space devices now produced on earth; and that these UFOs are interplanetary devices systematically observing the earth, either manned or under remote control, or both."

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FOBzvxMXsAEcmE6.jpg>

the late Joseph Bryan III was a member of the Board of Governors of the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena, a UFO research org back in the day.

Joseph Bryan III

Bryan was also a military officer, serving in both the Navy and Air Force, and was recruited by the CIA as a psychological warfare specialist, according to many sources. Those sources include numerous obituaries and military sites, as well as the Encyclopedia Virginia which states Bryan worked for the CIA from the late 1940's until 1953. At least one historian wrote Bryan worked for the CIA "as head of its psychological warfare division." Bryan was from a wealthy family who owned a newspaper, and he wrote quite a bit on several topics.

Bryan sat on the NICAP board from 1957-1969, and again in 1971. It is noteworthy his fellow board members included former Director of Central Intelligence Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter.

Contrary to popular notion, eagerly devouring the claims of "govt insiders" has always been the theme of "researchers" in the UFO genre not guarded mistrust of govt entities!

In truth, little of today's UFO genre is different from that of the past even the claim that it is.

IMHO Oechsler's research left much to be desired or his promotion of high ranking intelligence officer's claims without any questions of validity (the standard in UFO "research" long before 2017.)

@TheUFOTrail @bradjohansson21 @stevebozz1 Reminiscent of later Wilson memo drama, NASA engineer/ UFO-guy Bob Oechsler claimed to have recorded a conversation with Inman back in 1988. Some alleged quotes:backhand_index_pointing_down: were included in Tim Good's early-90s books and Stan Friedman would cite Inman in MJ12 talks.

<http://www.cufon.org/cufon/inmanpr.htm> <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FOBMjH1XMAMmWJS.jpg>

In a recorded telephone conversation, Bob allegedly asked: "Do you anticipate that any of the recovered vehicles would ever become available for technological research? Outside of the military circles?"

Admiral Inman replied: "I honestly don't know. Ten years ago the answer would have been no. Whether as time has evolved they are beginning to become more open about it, there's a possibility."

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FOBmjH0XEAI1Inz.jpg>

In Mr. Good's books, Mr. Oeschler attributes the statements at issue here to Admiral Inman during a July 1989 telephone conversation which was recorded by Oeschler only for "note taking purposes." Portions of the transcript of the recorded conversation are reproduced in Alien Update and portions of the tape have been played on a 1991 episode of the television documentary program Now It Can Be Told. Mr. Oeschler credits Admiral Inman with statements indicating:

"...that MJ-12 meant something to him." pp. 208 Alien Update that he has been aware of a program to "indoctrinate the public" in UFO matters prior to his retirement. pp. 211 Alien Update that he had "some expertise" in the area of UFO but his information was out of date at the time of the conversation. pp. 211 Alien Update that the "pace at which things move in that field" (UFO-related technological research) was high. pp. 212 Alien Update that he was familiar with use of the term "craft" meaning UFO. pp. 212 Alien Update that he "understood who is behind the technology in the crafts" meaning extraterrestrial alien beings. pp. 212-213 Alien Update

that he referred Mr. Oeschler to CIA Deputy Director for Science and Technology Everett Hineman and former Director of Naval Intelligence Sumner Shapiro in response to Mr. Oeschler's request for "guidance" in his effort to "get closer to MJ-12" pp. 213 Alien Update that he acknowledged that "recovered vehicles" (i.e. extraterrestrial craft) have been in possession of the government for over 10 years, that "access to them was them was denied" pp. 214 Alien Update that his "Executive Assistant" acknowledged that the Admiral Inman was aware that the matter under discussion (U.S. government recovery and possession of UFO craft) was covered by the "national security laws." pp. 214 Alien Update official secrecy falls into a class by itself. For instance, retired Navy Admiral Bobby Ray Inman acknowledged that he served as director for the National Underwater Reconnaissance Office (NURO) decades ago. Yet to date, the government denies that the NURO even exists.

"Burden of proof" is taken from courts. In science, there is no such burden. You have a hypothesis (notes are real) and a null-hypothesis (notes not real). Show that one is true, then you've shown the other is not true. Scientists don't take sides like politicians and attorneys.

@SithDubh @StevenCambian @jollymosh1 @Alien_Scientist Again, burden of proof exists outside courts of law— logic, philosophy, public discourse, etc—; It—s ALWAYS on the person making an assertion or claim. Shifting the burden and placing it on the person who denies or questions the claim being made is a fallacy— and seen here often.

@TheUfoJoe @TOEwithCurt Perhaps you can explain how this nuance makes a difference?

Occupancy makes no sense in the context which Lue used it, but he clearly stated the photos seem to show something inside, some sort of occupancy; having occupants.:backhand_index_pointing_down:

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FNTFZTEWQAQ-sA7.jpg>

LE: There are very compelling photos out there that seem to show something inside, some sort of occupancy. And I'll leave it at that because it gets really murky much beyond that and there's a lot that can be speculated. And so I try to avoid speculation as much as possible. But yes, I've spoken to enough people, firsthand knowledge, that not only report the crafts that we know exist, but potentially some sort of intelligence inside these vehicles.

2022-03-08T03:35:50+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1501038959954178049

Of course, it could also be interpreted as Lue simply referring to the same old fuzzy KUMBURGAZ/TURKEY UFO images we've all seen for years. :backhand_index_pointing_down:

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FNTC77YWUAEw8Tn.jpg>

CJ: Are there potential photos that exist that show occupants in some of these, quote, unquote "craft"?

LE: Well, there's a lot of photos that show a lot of things. The question is, are they real? Are they legitimate?

CJ: Are there potential photos that have [been] potentially deemed as legitimate that have that quality?

LE: There are very compelling photos out there that seem to show something inside, some sort of occupancy. And I'll leave it at that because it gets really murky much beyond that and there's a lot that can be speculated. And so I try to avoid speculation as much as possible. But yes, I've spoken to enough people, firsthand knowledge, that not only report the crafts that we know exist, but potentially some sort of intelligence inside these vehicles.

CJ: You mentioned it gets murky, murky as in low resolution or murky...what do you mean by murky?

LE: I mean, in every aspect. The source of the information, how the information was obtained, under what circumstances, resolution of photographic evidence, all of it. And so, that's why we have to be very careful.

@LymburnerTodd @SicCoP1 We can't conclusively say this was the initial agenda, yet, but this argument can be made just as easily as the other!

If the result IS less access, an argument will surely be made that it was simply how things turned out due to [x] and NOT the initial intention. Around we go.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1500974280720461826

@SicCoP1 I had full faith that this legislation would happen, such desired agendas often do. But I see no reason to think it will provide any meaningful benefits to public access despite the claims of politicians. Not in the legislative language nor history. I truly hope it does however.

@Mr_BenPrime @MikeColangelo Walden also had a tic-tac-like LTA which used the Biefeld-Brown effect & an electro-kinetic drive system.:backhand_index_pointing_down: In 2003 this LTA with no external control surfaces was shown to Bigelow's NIDS board members some of whom would later investigate the Nimitz event.

3. EK-1 skin-integrated electro-kinetic (EK) drive airship (2003)

The EK-1 was a remotely controlled, self-powered, subscale model of a lenticular airship with a skin-integrated EK drive installed on the outer surface of the hull. The Biefield-Brown Effect was used to control the boundary layer, reduce drag, and provide electronically steered propulsion in any direction with no external aerodynamic surfaces and no moving parts.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/Fd2WjiRWIA0IE7q.jpg>

In June 2003, LTAS rented a hangar at the Boulder City, NV airport to build and fly the EK-1. Testing the EK-1 was concluded in early August 2003 after demonstrating the technology to National Institute for Discovery Science (NIDS) board members.

Based on the EK-1 design, a full-scale EK airship would have a rigid, aeroshell comprised largely of LTAS MK-4 lithographic integrated thruster / structure hull panels. As with other contemporary Walden / LTAS airship designs, the MK-4 panel airship likely would have implemented density controlled buoyancy (DCB) active aerostatic lift control and would have had a thin film solar array on the top of the aeroshell.

@ThanosAlpha No, itâs a misuse of the word âskepticsâ to label them as such. as skepticism isnât about trust or distrust. Skepticism dictates that all claims & conclusions be vetted with evidence. Simply trusting (or distrusting) Elizondo, Davis or other gov folks wouldnât be skepticism.

@ThanosAlpha I honestly donât see how the definition you provided equates skepticism to âtrustingâ or âdistrustingâ nor should it, as such is not skepticism. Perhaps this Encyclop Britannica definition will clarify:backhand_index_pointing_down:
<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FKpJMjvXMAEeMlc.jpg>

Skepticism:

Skepticism is the philosophical attitude of doubting the knowledge claims set forth in various areas and asking what they are based upon, what they actually establish, and whether they are indubitable or necessarily true. Skeptics have thus challenged the alleged grounds of accepted assumptions in metaphysics, in science, in morals and manners, and especially in religion.

Measures, Rid reveals startling intelligence and security secrets gleaned from materials in more than ten languages, from fresh archival releases, and from interviews with current and former operatives. He exposes the colorful yet disturbing history of professional organized lying, uncovering for the first time some of the century's most significant—and astonishing—operations, many of them nearly beyond belief: a White Russian ploy that backfired and brought down a New York police commissioner; a KGB-engineered anti-Semitic hate campaign that crept back across the Iron Curtain; a CIA-backed fake publishing empire run by a former Wehrmacht U-boat commander. Rid tracks the rise in the practice of leaking confidential information and shows how intelligence agencies began to exploit the emerging internet culture many years before WikiLeaks. Finally, he sheds new light on the 2016 election, especially the role of the infamous “troll farm” in St. Petersburg, and describes a much more harmful attack that unfolded in the shadows.

Active Measures takes the reader deep into a vast hall of mirrors old and new, unmasking the insidious tricks used to undermine the truth.

@MHuntington7 @PostDisclosure Indeed, critiquing & skepticism are actual requirements of the scientific methodâ€” testing & attempting to disprove (aka debunk) a hypothesis, proposition, statement etc. is the method.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FJ2KWD-X0AE1B-W.jpg>

The scientific method is an empirical method of acquiring knowledge that has characterized the development of science since at least the 17th century. It involves careful observation, applying rigorous skepticism about what is observed, given that cognitive assumptions can distort how one interprets the observation. Wikipedia

Order ▼

First step ▼

Six steps ▲

The scientific method

- Make an observation.
- Ask a question.
- Form a hypothesis, or testable explanation.
- Make a prediction based on the hypothesis.
- Test the prediction.
- Iterate: use the results to make new hypotheses or predictions.

@bradjohansson21 There seems to be widespread unawareness and/or denial that debunking & skepticism are actual requirements of the scientific methodâ€” testing (attempting to disprove) a hypothesis is the method. http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FJLLF_PXoAcMz_e.jpg

The scientific method is an empirical method of acquiring knowledge that has characterized the development of science since at least the 17th century. It involves careful observation, applying rigorous skepticism about what is observed, given that cognitive assumptions can distort how one interprets the observation. Wikipedia

Father: Galileo Galilee unesco.org

Order ∨

First step ∨

Six steps ∧

The scientific method

- Make an observation.
- Ask a question.
- Form a hypothesis, or testable explanation.
- Make a prediction based on the hypothesis.
- Test the prediction.
- Iterate: use the results to make new hypotheses or predictions.

SECRETARY OF THE AIR FORCE
WASHINGTON

MAY 19 1994

Dear

As you may know, the General Accounting Office (GAO) has instituted an audit that, among other things, seeks to fully explain the claims that the US Government recovered an alien spacecraft near Roswell, NM, in July 1947 and since that time, has covered up that fact. In an effort to assist the GAO, the Air Force initiated a detailed independent review of our records pertaining to this claim. Your name has been prominently mentioned in regard to this matter.

The bearer of this letter, Colonel Richard L. Weaver, Director, Security and Special Program Oversight is heading this review on my behalf. Colonel Weaver has a TOP SECRET security clearance and is authorized access to all Air Force special access programs. If you have information that you feel may be classified you may share it with Colonel Weaver for this official Air Force purpose, without violating any security agreement you previously made. Clearance information or questions should be addressed to Colonel Tim Kinnan, my Military Assistant, at (703) 697-7378.

I encourage your full cooperation to help the Air Force officially resolve this controversial matter. I appreciate your continued service to the Air Force and thank you in advance for your help.

Sincerely

Sheila E. Widnall

@TheUFOTrail @LymburnerTodd Very frustrating indeed, esp as those false words still echo today. Whether Reid was mistaken or obfuscating, such blatantly false statements speak to the issue with believing unsubstantiated statements, like Reid's letter "vouching" for Lue is it truth, mistaken, obfuscation?

@TheUFOTrail @LymburnerTodd After 5yrs there's no evidence for anything AATIP-Elizondo between 2012-2017 but those 2017 actions!

One might ask if Lue's "pre-retirement" correspondences/ video acquisitions had more to do with his looming TTSA venture & the NYT piece on AATIP than being any work of AATIP.

Subject: ATTN: Russo - DOPSR Request-Part 1

Greetings Michael and thank you once again for your assistance...One more e-mail to follow (three in total due to size limitations).

Per your guidance, please find the attached three .mpg files for your review. Please note, although the files are UNCLASSIFIED, they are being sent via SIPR in the spirit of extra precaution. No locational data is provided in any of the files and therefore there should be no classification issues.

STRATEGIC ISSUE: Unmanned aerial vehicles (balloons, commercial UAVs, private drones such as quadcopters, etc) continue to pose a potential threat to DoD facilities, equipment, and location. Army, Navy, and Air Force have all acknowledged the potential threat by UAS' to DoD equities but no single UNCLASSIFIED repository exists to share this information across all stakeholders.

PURPOSE: Our collective purpose is to eventually establish an UNCLASSIFIED database or "Community of Interest" of related signature data to be accessible by stakeholders such as DIA, the Navy, Defense Industry partners, and perhaps even State, Local & Tribal authorities to catalog and identify specific UAS threats to national security and/or DoD equities. By creating a virtual library to catalog and analyze each event, our hope will be to better understand the capabilities, and ultimately vulnerabilities of these systems.

Please let me know if I can assist any further with this request.

Sincerest Regards,

Lue

The Black Vault @blackvaultcom · 1d

1/ In 2019, I received a batch of emails from the DoD which outlined the efforts of @LueElizondo to get the three now infamous #UAP / #UFO videos reviewed....

@SicCoP1 Legitimacy is determined thru transparent presentation & assessment of verifiable informationâ€¦ not govt engagement, political oversight or media exposureâ€¦!

IMO past lessons such as the Patriot Act, Iraq-WMDs & NSA illegal surveillance (just to name a few) highlight this well. â€¦3 @ThanosAlpha @Debriefmedia Well I thought you were, because thatâ€¦s what it sounds like in your initial post.

But now, after being assured it was just congratulating/ encouraging an org on unintended consequences which they had no intention or design of doing, I understand.

@ThanosAlpha So here:backhand_index_pointing_down: you are simply telling the Debrief to â€¦keep upâ€¦ unintended byproducts and consequences which they never had intended for?

I gotcha, but I hope you can understand how one might not interpret it like that lol.

@ThanosAlpha @Debriefmedia @LtTimMcMillan @MicahHanks haha rewrote it cos Iâ€™m trying to make clear that Iâ€™m not passing judgment on the Debrief, but on your original quoted tweet.

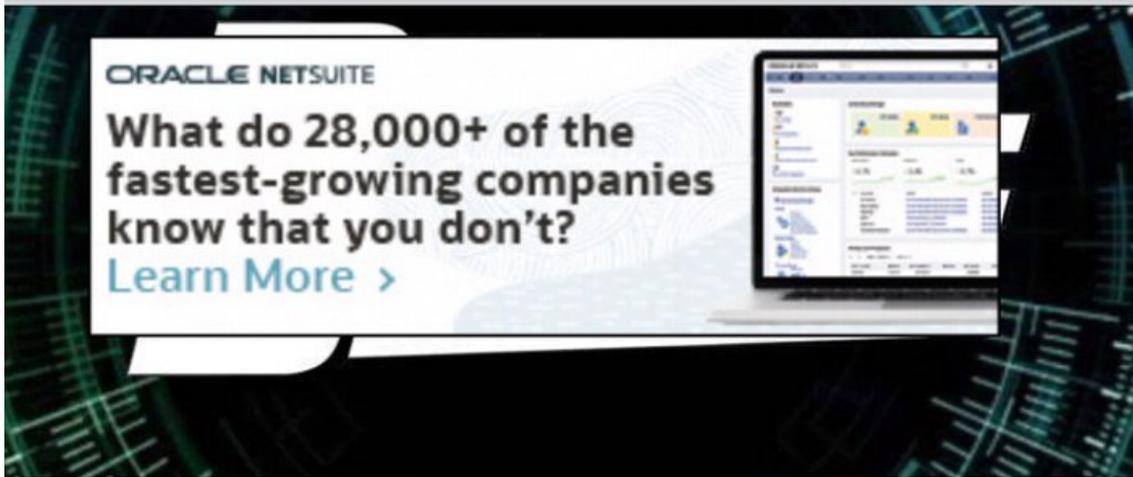

My secondary point was noting, only in response, that while mockery is not a valid judgment it can be valid.

@_GR8_Scott @MiddleOfMayhem Thereâs verifiable proof that thereâs been classified craft, systems, tools & events (seen and reported by both private & govât/ mil witnesses) which were purposely denied and/or obscured by knowing entities.

@_GR8_Scott @MiddleOfMayhem Who is handwaving?

I agreed that physics defying entities cannot be ruled outâ just as other, and more likely IMO, possibilities also cannot be ruled outâ including EW/ECM & faulty new radar syst (only coincidence?) which mayâve finally been properly calibrated by the 2nd wk @_GR8_Scott @MiddleOfMayhem Personally, I put the possibility of this being an EW/ECM/ECCM test of some kind at the TOP of the list for all the reasons youâve just mentioned.

Thereâs no proof there was any physics-defying craft/ entities moving instantaneouslyâ to be fair, the entire story could be a lie:man_shrugging:

@_GR8_Scott @MiddleOfMayhem Also, as this was in the Pacific Warfare Testing Ranges where daily weapons tests & secret ops are conducted including electronic warfare, countermeasures & counter-countermeasures, we canât rule out secret testing eitherâ

Many possibilities to be listed in terms of likelihood.

@PaisleyWave Well, TTSA is CIA and they did take over ufology, no? 2021-12-13T20:06:45+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1470485363860938759

@PaisleyWave TTSA told us they were mostly ex-CIA. Since, mainstream ufology has been focused on assessing and promoting the individuals, events and allegations, etc. attached to TTSA. Meanwhile, those not accepting the unsubstantiated TTSA-borne narratives are infidels/conspiracy theorists.

UFO celebrity-researchers and UFO-related websites alike have attributed to this misconception with regrettably terse summations, such as: backhand_index_pointing_down:

Paul Bennewitz gradually became more and more paranoid, claiming that aliens came through the walls of his house at night and injected him with chemicals. He began keeping guns and knives all over his house. Finally, he had to be hospitalized for "exhaustion", and subsequently died on June 23, 2003.

There's a common misconception that Paul Bennewitz died by suicide he did not;

No doubt Paul suffered breakdown and hospitalization (likely precipitated by a campaign of deception implemented by government employees) but he died nearly 15 years later, from lung cancer in 2003.

SECRET WEAPON HELD AS AWESOME AS ATOM

CINCINNATI, June 14 (AP)—“As awesome in its effects as the atomic bomb,” said biophysicist James M. Snodgrass today in referring to a secret Anglo-American war weapon that he aided in developing.

Mr. Snodgrass, 39-year-old chief engineer of the motion picture division of the Dayton-Acme Company, Cincinnati consultant engineering firm, was reluctant to discuss the weapon but persistent news men in an interview extracted this additional information:

1. It is not connected in any way with the atomic bomb.

2. It is not a biological warfare weapon.

3. Development of the weapon, started during the war, was not completed until after hostilities were ended.

4. The weapon was conceived by the British and although United States naval officers were not enthusiastic, the British pressed the project, first on an obscure Pacific island and later in New Zealand.

Existence of the new weapon was disclosed when Prof. T. D. J. Leech of New Zealand was mentioned in the birthday honors list of King George VI in London. Professor Leech was quoted as saying @jamescarrion @vipsania2025 James, the Uintah Basin is rich in natural gas and methane emission is well documented to cause hallucinations and heightened emotions, even sometimes causing victims to report having "supernatural experiences"

Any thoughts on this being a possible factor in some area reports?

@TheUFOTrail @Alien_Scientist @ufologyresearch Sadly, even with such evident information, this particular incident and it's debris continue to be widely circulated as possible UFO crash-material.

@TheUFOTrail @Alien_Scientist @ufologyresearch And what an administration that was! The memorandum notes that enough debris is present to determine if the satellite was of Russian or US origin! We could certainly draw some conclusions from whether or not such a test was even conducted or not IF we could determine such.

Sighting of

The CO Labs. telephoned this afternoon and advised that he had received the following information from Insp. Huber of the Regina Lab.

2. Mr. John Hodges, the Regional Representative for the National Research Council Associate Committee on Meteorites had received from a helicopter pilot an object thought to be a meteorite and had brought this to our Lab. for examination. This substance has proved to be TITANIUM, 99% pure, which is thought to be the largest piece from a satellite that has ever landed on earth. It is 4 ft. long, 2½ ft. wide and weighs between 10 and 15 pounds. It is understood that there is enough material to make positive identification and Hodges is trying to determine if this is from a U.S. or a Russian satellite. A Dr. Foran of Harvard University is also assisting to attempt to identify the orbit from which this fell. It is understood that Mr. Ian Halliday, Chief, Dominion Observatory, is also in possession of this information.

3. The CO Labs. advised that the local newspaper, The Leader Post, is aware of this find, however is holding up any news release until more identification can be made of the material and apparently the Press does know that our Lab. participated.

4. The CO Labs. would like to be informed as to whether the Force has any objection to the eventual release by the Press of our labs. participation in this project.

I feel we should not release info about this object to the press but by the including the Regina Lab. The object we should not make any comment.

@TrentLiving86 @jamescarrion Perhaps Iâ€™m giving him too much credit but Iâ€™d assume, before investing in so much â€œscienceâ€, Fugal has glanced at the evidence standards recognized by the professional scientific communityâ€ or at least employs one person who has.

@KeithThompson1 Rogan is weighing his judgement on a claim, not by skeptical examination of the evidence, but by his feelings of distrust towards a claimant.

From the Encyclopedia Britannica:backhand_index_pointing_down:

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FFxzEj-XoAo6F5M.jpg>

Skepticism:

Skepticism is the philosophical attitude of doubting the knowledge claims set forth in various areas and asking what they are based upon, what they actually establish, and whether they are indubitable or necessarily true. Skeptics have thus challenged the alleged grounds of accepted assumptions in metaphysics, in science, in morals and manners, and especially in religion.

@red_pill_junkie @TerrytheCensor A concerning factor of this "bipartisan" topic, to me, is that even the usual lines of political division and relativism don't seem to apply here instead all that seems to matter is if you're part of the "Team UFO Disclosure" majority or not.

@red_pill_junkie @TerrytheCensor Reid enlisted Stevens and Inouye as they were the outgoing and incoming Chairs of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Also, I'd expect Republicans to be more supportive of UAP legislation as it concerns defense spending more commonly endorsed/ supported by right-leaning individuals.

Greetings Michael and thank you once again for your assistance...One more e-mail to follow (three in total due to size limitations).

Per your guidance, please find the attached three .mpg files for your review. Please note, although the files are UNCLASSIFIED, they are being sent via SIPR in the spirit of extra precaution. No locational data is provided in any of the files and therefore there should be no classification issues.

STRATEGIC ISSUE: Unmanned aerial vehicles (balloons, commercial UAVs, private drones such as quadcopters, etc) continue to pose a potential threat to DoD facilities, equipment, and location. Army, Navy, and Air Force have all acknowledged the potential threat by UAS' to DoD equities but no single UNCLASSIFIED repository exists to share this information across all stakeholders.

PURPOSE: Our collective purpose is to eventually establish an UNCLASSIFIED database or "Community of Interest" of related signature data to be accessible by stakeholders such as DIA, the Navy, Defense Industry partners, and perhaps even State, Local & Tribal authorities to catalog and identify specific UAS threats to national security and/or DoD equities. By creating a virtual library to catalog and analyze each event, our hope will be to better understand the capabilities, and ultimately vulnerabilities of these systems.

Please let me know if I can assist any further with this request.

Sincerest Regards,

Lue

@TheUfoJoe After years of unprovoked attacks on Erica, which try to encourage others to do the same, I can see why she mightâve finally blocked you in recent months.

You refuse to have a discussion with her (the very thing you now accuse her of) and spread distrust & admitted rumors. Low.

And why isnât @ericalukesuap tagged in any of these tweets stating admitted rumors about her? Why not give her a chance to respond? This is exactly what you are accusing her of. Why not accept her offer to a discussion?

Like much of ufology, this is a cycle which repeats often.

I've noticed @ericalukesuap isn't even tagged in any of this.

So, paging Erica. No battlefield, no waging war, lets at least inform her of all of the above to see if she'd like to respond in her own words.

@RealCSharp

And about the article: I wrote a piece about the DoD's UAP Office last week, which had a lot of analysis. Sadly, it kind of got lost, as there were so many other stories. One of my friends @dsmethurst66 really liked it and suggested I do a follow up, voicing my own thoughts about what was really happening between Congress and the DoD. After feeling very lazy at the weekend, I decided to write something on Sunday night after putting my son to bed. I shared the article on Reddit and Twitter, then went to bed. I was dreading waking up, I always do when sharing a new article - you never know how people will respond. When you put so respond. When you put so much effort into something, even the smallest criticism can hurt. But for some reason, lots of people really gravitated towards it. Then came the Mellon and Lue retweet. I can't explain the shock I was in. My wife will tell you how I was running around the house in excitement. It still feels surreal.

@papiflorida @itsredactedjake @LueElizondo @ChrisKMellon Indeed! Elizondo and Mellon encouraged the UFO community to support the very legislation and task force which mandated the creation of the AOIMSG.

@BobMcGwier_N4HY @facelessbureau1 @IWANTTOKNOWUK @LueElizondo How does it specifically mandate much in the way of disclosure and what of it is to the public?

AFAIK currently it only mandates a twice-yearly unclassified congressional report. Considering the unclassified report from the UAPTF that sure doesn't seem like much.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1465548990896824326

@SnakePo9 @SicCoP1 Such language is in the NDAA and the Gillibrand amendment does not change it.

Yet the UFO community has been successfully coopted to support such legislation which runs counter to its desires of public disclosure, including the DoD's UAPTF and apparently will continue to be.

The purpose of all these bills is furthering the data collection policies desired by the IC/DOD. None provide provisions for any meaningful public release of UAP info.

A yearly unclassified congressional report is neither new nor disclosure, it's a carrot. The same old carrot.

John Andrews was a Lockheed engineer and personal friend of Ben Rich. Andrews expressed his own personal opinion that UFOs existed in a letter he wrote to Rich, asking Rich to share his own opinion. Andrews claimed that Rich responded that he believed "there are two types of UFOs, the ones we build, and the ones they build...I am a believer in both categories. I feel everything is possible. Many of our man-made UFOs are Un-Funded Opportunities." Rich underlined the "UFO" in "Un-Funded Opportunities," but gave no explanation.

RT @a01744: Trusting intelligence agencies and agents is profoundly stupid

#ufotwitter <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FE11kUzVEAAZiBi.jpg>

Cameron's ideas brought together virtually all aspects of the CIA's mind control venture. Along with a mixture of drugs, sensory deprivation and what by any other name amounted to physical and psychological torture, he incorporated something known as the "box" into his efforts of wiping and reprogramming the mind. This involved restricting the movements of a subject in a sealed environment and depriving them of all sensory input, up to and including fitting them with darkened goggles, ear plugs and padding over their hands. Any minimal breaks taken during the experiments were due to necessity, not for the wellbeing of the research subject.

Previous CIA experiments with the box at the National Institutes of Health resulted in documentation that a soldier hysterically kicked his way out after about 40 hours. An attending doctor, a brain surgeon by the name of Maitland Baldwin, informed the Agency that even the strongest, most mentally disciplined men could be broken by such techniques. Baldwin further advised that he never left anyone in the box for more than six consecutive days, and that doing so would almost certainly result in permanent damage. He added, however, that he was willing to conduct such experiments if the CIA would supply the research subjects and the cover.

It should be obvious the intelligence community had - and continues to have - no tolerance for outing its classified information and covert operations to overly inquisitive UFO hunters. The stonewalling is often incorrectly assumed to be confirmation of IC possession of significant knowledge pertaining to UFOs. That's just simply not necessarily the case, is not the way facts are established, and is particularly questionable when boosted by intelligence officers, academics, and people who should know better.

@Explore06325457 @JeremyCorbell Neither UFOs being ârealâ nor the possibility of ET existing are new, conclusive or suggestive we have proof. Iâll add govt officials also stated as fact that Iraq had WMDs, Trump colluded with Russia, and that the NSA didn't illegally spy on Americans. How'd the vids suggest ET?

@Explore06325457 @JeremyCorbell "No clear answer." Exactly. We don't know what's classified, and can't speculate. We have ambiguous videos but they don't show anything conclusively extraordinary, we've seen no radar and so are left with only witness statments that some evidence exists- perpetually.

Table 1: Principal characteristics

Areas of further work are identified within the report, necessary to further validate the assumptions made in this concept study.

Preliminary proof of concept tests have been conducted using a radio controlled model.

The report suggests that a working design is feasible within the current state of the art. It is suggested that any future design expected to meet the requirements of both in air and submerged flight must adopt the approach of a submersible aircraft over that of a flying submarine.

11. Conclusions

General conclusions:

- a submersible aircraft concept has the potential to offer a unique force insertion capability to the US military;
- an ideal vehicle for this concept should aim to combine the stealth characteristics of a submersible with the speed of an aircraft and the endurance of a surface vehicle.

Based on the initial design exercise described in this report, the following specific conclusions were drawn:

- feasible vehicle concepts can be generated using current technology and materials;
- a hybrid flying wing/blended body design offers a viable solution, and offers a practical compromise between performance in flight, on the surface and when submerged;
- a critical factor in design is the optimization of center of gravity in relation to the centers of lift while submerged, on the surface and airborne. Its appropriate positioning to ensure trim and stability in each operating mode is a task best undertaken in the early concept stage. Careful design should be able to eliminate or reduce the requirement for a complex control system;
- model flight tests have demonstrated the flying capability of one of the wing designs and the validity of the tools developed to generate them;

Navy Identifies 'Saucers,' Flies One To Prove Theory

ATLANTA, Ga., July 10.—(UP)—It cost the navy $25 today to prove to its own satisfaction that flying saucers seen throughout the nation are real.

Termining the mystery of late "ray winds," veteran officers at the Atlanta naval air station set out to prove their contention that there is nothing imaginary about the saucers.

Lt. Rell Zelle Moore, aerology officer at the air station, launched a "ray wind".

The genuine "flying saucer"—in reality a tinfoil screen carried aloft by balloons—sailed over Stone mountain, looking silvery in the sun.

Almost immediately the calls began pouring into newspaper offices here, describing the round-looking saucer which shone like aluminum.

And the naval air experts nodded wisely at their saucer-launching station.

Lt. Comdr. Thomas H. Rents, one of the officers taking part in the demonstration, explained that the "ray winds"—or tinfoil screens—are carried off by helium-filled balloons until they reach an altitude of 23,000 feet. The tinfoil is stretched on crossbars of light wood.

The balloons burst and the silver screens are caught in the wind and sail along at speeds up to 165 miles an hour.

The screens are used to reflect radar rays and determine the velocity of the wind at varying altitudes, Rents said.

The "ray wind" released in the demonstration was four-by-ten feet but aloft it appeared completely round. Materials used in the show cost the navy $25, officers said.

Invented several years ago, the "ray wind" has only recently come into general use.

No Fooling, Saucers Are Real Thing, Says W. Winchell

NEW YORK (INS)—Walter Winchell, New York columnist, wrote today that despite vigorous denials by army and navy officials, the flying saucers actually are flying wings being developed by the U. S. navy.

Winchell said that they can land at a very low speed—making them good for carriers, and that there "is said to be an entire squadron at Muroc Field, Cal."

* * *

HE ADDED:

"The above is not rumor—it is a fact, according to 'insiders' who were promised that the source would be protected.

"About eight months ago, the newspapers carried a story to the effect that a retired U. S. admiral had said that the navy was developing a completely new type of rocket weapon far more useful than the atomic bomb and that it involved an entirely new principle.

"I clearly remember it in all of the papers but never heard anything further about it. I can't even remember the name of the admiral but I believe he was addressing a meeting."

Above: After Roger Ramey deflated the Roswell Disc, the Navy debunked the flying saucers the very next day by conducting their own balloon experiment with an attached radar target.

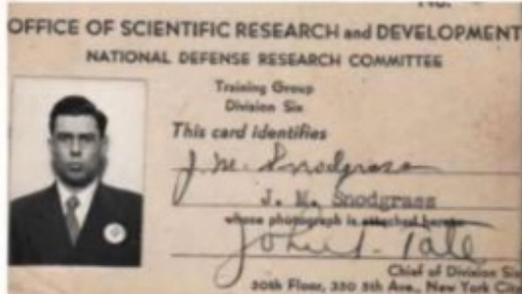

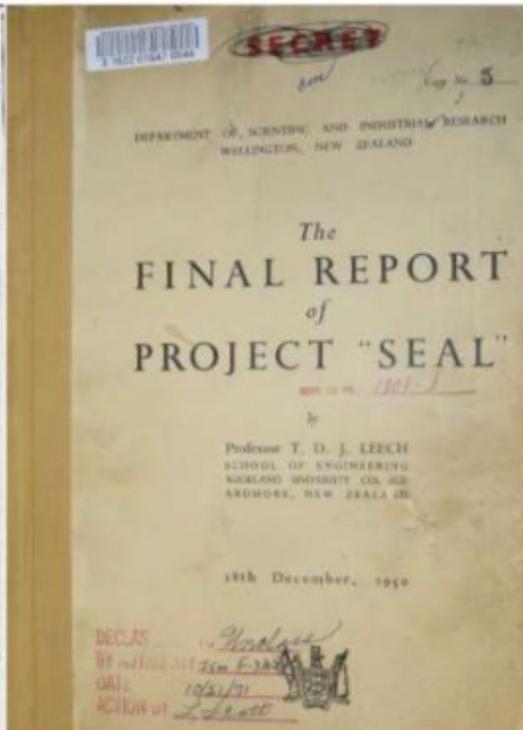

Bottom: On the same day, syndicated columnist Walter Winchell published an opposing story that said flying saucers were really flying wings out of Muroc, California and then described a Navy experimental craft that echoed the Leech-Snodgrass super weapon story from mid-June 1947.

SECRET WEAPON HELD AS AWESOME AS ATOM

CINCINNATI, June 14 (AP)—“As awesome in its effects as the atomic bomb,” said biophysicist James M. Snodgrass today in referring to a secret Anglo-American war weapon that he aided in developing.

Mr. Snodgrass, 39-year-old chief engineer of the motion picture division of the Dayton-Acme Company, Cincinnati consultant engineering firm, was reluctant to discuss the weapon but persistent news men in an interview extracted this additional information:

1. It is not connected in any way with the atomic bomb.

2. It is not a biological warfare weapon.

3. Development of the weapon, started during the war, was not completed until after hostilities were ended.

4. The weapon was conceived by the British and although United States naval officers were not enthusiastic, the British pressed the project, first on an obscure Pacific island and later in New Zealand.

Existence of the new weapon was disclosed when Prof. T. D. J. Leech of New Zealand was mentioned in the birthday honors list of King George VI in London. Professor Leech was quoted as saying

Product Description

How did a fluke experiment in 1998, involving a used dental X-ray machine and a dubious sample of radioactive material, become the Pentagon's pet weapons project? It had been rejected by one of the Pentagon's most important advisory groups, but the Pentagon found an eccentric scientist who believed that a super "isomer" bomb could be built, and deliver the punch of a two-kiloton nuke packaged in a hand grenade. Ideologues at the Pentagon claimed that the Russians were in the process of building one of their own, and that the weapon was essential to the Pentagon's arsenal. Imaginary Weapons tells the story of the battle that ensued, pitting the nation's leading nuclear physicists against the Pentagon's top brass, and the military against nuclear arms control advocates, as funds and experiments for the "isomer weapon" miraculously reappeared even after the project had been shelved numerous times, even by Congress. This book also illuminates the dangerous trend that the Bush administration continues to follow of putting politics before science. The bomb is imaginary, and the only explosion produced by the "isomer weapon" will leave a hole in the nation's budget and a fallout of the nation's best and brightest scientists.

@No3spera @blackvaultcom @Disclosure89 @LtTimMcMillan Appreciate you also in this difficult topic! @No3spera @blackvaultcom @Disclosure89 @LtTimMcMillan Indeed. IMO these issues exist due to those the onus is on failing to offer conclusive substantiation for their claims. @No3spera @EssentialBusin7 @blackvaultcom @Disclosure89 @LtTimMcMillan It was just a joke to the issue of profit you raised, but TTSA and Skyfort are for-profit companies (hope to be at least) and are just some of Lue's attempted ventures of profit which we know of, along with a cable TV show and a major book deal. @No3spera @blackvaultcom @Disclosure89 @LtTimMcMillan Also, the unspeculative fact that the videos are referred to as UAVs and drones, in direct contradiction with the public claims. To suggest this to be a tactic to obscure actual UFO vids would be speculation. 3/3

ATLANTA, Ga., July 10.—(UP)—It cost the navy $25 today to prove to its own satisfaction that flying saucers seen throughout the nation are real.

Terminating the mystery of the "ray winds," veteran officers at the Atlanta naval air station set out to prove their contention that there is nothing imaginary about the saucers.

Lt. Rell Zelle Moore, aerology officer at the air station, launched a "ray wind".

The genuine "flying saucer"—in reality a tinfoil screen carried aloft by balloons—sailed over Stone Mountain, looking silvery in the sun. Almost immediately the calls began pouring into newspaper offices here, describing the round-looking saucer which shone like aluminum.

And the naval air experts nodded wisely at their saucer-launching station.

Lt. Comdr. Thomas H. Rents, one of the officers taking part in the demonstration, explained that the "ray winds"—or tinfoil screens—are carried off by helium-filled balloons until they reach an altitude of 23,000 feet. The tinfoil is stretched on crossbars of light wood.

The balloons burst and the silver screens are caught in the wind and sail along at speeds up to 165 miles an hour.

The screens are used to reflect radar rays and determine the velocity of the wind at varying altitudes, Rents said.

The "ray wind" released in the demonstration was four-by-ten feet but aloft it appeared completely round. Materials used in the show cost the navy $25, officers said.

Invented several years ago, the "ray wind" has only recently come into general use.

No Fooling, Saucers Are Real Thing, Says W. Winchell

NEW YORK (INS)—Walter Winchell, New York columnist, wrote today that despite vigorous denials by army and navy officials, the flying saucers actually are flying wings being developed by the U. S. navy.

Winchell said that they can land at a very low speed—making them good for carriers, and that there "is said to be an entire squadron at Muroc Field, Cal."

HE ADDED:
"The above is not rumor—it is a fact, according to 'insiders' who were promised that the source would be protected.

"About eight months ago, the newspapers carried a story to the effect that a retired U. S. admiral had said that the navy was developing a completely new type of rocket weapon far more useful than the atomic bomb and that it involved an entirely new principle.

"I clearly remember it in all of the papers but never heard anything further about it. I can't even remember the name of the admiral but I believe he was addressing a meeting."

Above: After Roger Ramey deflated the Roswell Disc, the Navy debunked the flying saucers the very next day by conducting their own balloon experiment with an attached radar target.

Bottom: On the same day, syndicated columnist Walter Winchell published an opposing story that said flying saucers were really flying wings out of Muroc, California and then described a Navy experimental craft that echoed the Leech-Snodgrass super weapon story from mid-June 1947.

Objective

"The objective of this program is to understand the physics and engineering of these applications as they apply to the foreign threat out to the far term , i.e., from now through the year 2050.

Primary focus is on breakthrough technologies and applications that create discontinuities in currently evolving technology trends."

Requirements

"...The contractor shall complete advanced aerospace weapon system technical studies in the following areas: 1. lift; 2. propulsion; 3. control; 4. power generation; 5. spatial/temporal translation; 6. materials; 7. configuration; 8. signature reduction (optical, infrared, radiofrequency, acoustic); 9. human interface; 10. human effects; 11. armament (RF and DEW); 12. other peripheral areas in support of (1-11)..."

In November 2006, John Schuessler retired as MUFON's International Director and James Carrion was selected as his replacement. The headquarters was relocated to Fort Collins, Colorado. In 2008, James Carrion, Jan Harzan, Chuck Modlin and John Schuessler met with Robert Bigelow and his team to seek ways to establish cooperation between the organizations. Later, Carrion negotiated a contract with Bigelow Aerospace that allowed MUFON to organize a funded rapid-response effort that could put investigators in the field on high value UFO cases within 24-hours. @Cernunnos69 @LymburnerTodd @SK1LLLS @MethodOfError @blackvaultcom These individuals and others who claim knowledge have made numerous statements concerning the programs. Some statements contradict each other, some have been proven untrue and many remain unresolved. The confusion surrounding AAWSAP/AATIP was repeatedly allowed to continue. <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FB7Wo9RXsAUk4BU.jpg>

GK: Well, it's an amazing story. You know, over the last four years, we've seen so much change for the UFO topic, The New York Times, in December of 2017, puts out this story about a program called AATIP. Harry Reid used his influence to secure \$22 million for a secret study of UFOs. It all came spilling out in that month and year. Lue Elizondo came forward and said he'd been involved with AATIP, and, you know, that is what everyone else reported for a couple of years. But the fact is, it was wrong. I mean, there was an AATIP, but the primary program was called AAWSAP: The Advanced Aerospace Weapon System Applications Program. That's where the money went. It was a bigger program. The folks at Bigelow Aerospace, a subsidiary, managed it, they got the contract, they hired dozens of people, more than 50 at one point.

Investigators, scientists, computer experts, and they launched what amounted to the biggest and most ambitious UFO study ever. They created the world's largest UFO database. But it wasn't just UFOs. They had to sort of follow the evidence where it led Arenât we tired of having to discern ambiguous statements like this? First Lacatski says Elizondo was looking at investigations, then he says his program was the only game in town. How much longer will the community keep feeding off these kinda scraps?

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FB7R6n6XsAgEggW.jpg>

And Lue [Elizondo] used the name AATIP.
Nothing wrong with that. I mean, that's fine.

But there was a difference between the two programs.
Ours [AAWSAP] had $22 million dollars in funding.
His [AATIP] had zero.

Ours looked at military and civilian investigations.
His looked at military exclusively.

And we had, of course, contractor support.
He had no contractor support.

He did his thing, we did ours.
But I can say that we were the only game in town.

@TheUFOTrail "The military IC indeed took interests in ufology" and that in itself is a potentially key puzzle piece; we cannot form a valid conclusion until verifiable data allows; we cannot accurately assess UFO-related circumstances until we know the extent which the IC was involved."

The recent Elizondo development, concerning an alleged history with remote viewing before his involvement with UFOs, is only the latest instance of such IC-related progressions;

Which seems worthy of consideration when noting the numerous instances of overlap between gov't research of RV and UFOs.

@de_varse @lamSonderMusic @strategic_doubt @ufouapam Valid questions if Lue really did embrace RV at times in his career. How much of Lue's opinion on the UAP topic, which the community devours in full faith as information, were garnered through perceived RV experiences?

@de_varse @lamSonderMusic @strategic_doubt @ufouapam Well, if the story is true, Lue is saying that his remote viewing prowess did influence the decisions he made- and saved lives dammit!

But to justify omitting the truth because it would affect public perception! well yea, truth should. The opposite of this is called deception.

How much has Lue deceived the public, even by omission, justified by a perceived greater good?

Pardon @LueElizondo but do you acknowledge that you told this story at said dinner? Also, is this a true story recounting an actual event, as you understand it, from your experience in Afghanistan? <http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FBiMP1yWEAAiNgy.png>

Chapter 6: The Dinner and Skinwalker Ranch Sequelae

It is entirely possible that behind the perception of our senses, worlds are hidden of which we are unaware.

—Albert Einstein

Sometimes a dinner is much more than the meal. So it was with the one that took place in a private room at an upscale Washington, D.C., restaurant. Ostensibly the purpose of the dinner was to meet with the legendary General Paulo Roberto Yog de Miranda UchÔa, who at the time was the Minister for Homeland Security in the Brazilian Government, and his charming daughter, who was a linguist working on contract for the United States Government.

Although Robert Bigelow, Hal Puthoff, Colm Kelleher, and the BAASS team had met one or two of Jim Lacatski's extensive network of East Coast Subject Matter Experts (SMEs), the people who showed up to that dinner comprised the A-Team of covert investigative talent across multiple agencies in the United States Government. The individuals in this unique group were all passionately focused on investigating UAPs with consummate professionalism; they also had access to state-of-the-art sensor technology. The dinner was organized by Lacatski and Axelrod; it was the first attempt to bring the Las Vegas and East Coast arms of AAWsAP together.

In addition to Jim Lacatski, Jonathan Axelrod brought a team of people to the dinner, three of whom were already engaged in an in-depth investigation of the encounter of the Nimitz Carrier Strike Group with a Tic Tac-shaped object off the coast of San Diego a few years earlier. By the time of the dinner, Axelrod and his team had already completed most of the pilot and Aegis radar operator interviews. Back then, in 2009, this Tic Tac event, which was to become the most famous UAP event in history, was known to only a very few people at BAASS and some highly specialized military investigators led by Jonathan Axelrod. Also, by the time of the dinner, two of Axelrod's team, Jim Costigan and David Wilson, as well as Axelrod himself, had visited Skinwalker Ranch and were already experiencing some ranch-aftermath high strangeness events in their homes.

Further down the dinner table sat Luis Elizondo, who worked collaboratively with Axelrod and was at the office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence (USDI). Elizondo looked dapper with jet black hair and was considered a brilliant Special Agent and analyst with a lot of expertise on counterintelligence investigations. Little did anyone at that dinner table realize that nine years later Luis Elizondo would become a media star and a household name in global UAP investigations.

As he enjoyed his steak tartare, Elizondo regaled those around him with some war stories, including one hair-raising exploit about how his advanced intuition and remote viewing capabilities had saved his life and the life of his men while on a covert combat mission in war-torn Afghanistan. Luis was one of that rare breed, an astute, detail-oriented analyst with an open mind. After that dinner btw I'm not advocating that we have enough information to determine it was definitively a balloon, or anything else.

First flown in October 1947, the Northrop YB-49A experimental jet bomber exemplified the classic pure flying wing even more than its later stablemate, the contemporary Northrop Grumman B-2 Spirit stealth bomber. Unlike the fly-by-wire B-2, however, the YB-49 manifested serious performance, stability, and control limitations, which, together, contributed to the loss of the second prototype in June 1948. Here is the first YB-49A (SN 42-102367) at Northrop's Hawthorne, CA, plant, on December 23, 1948. (USAF)

@AdamGorightly @TheUFOTrail @bpleasies @de_varse Yeah, I could see that, it seems as a country were much more focused, one could say even encouraged to be so, on being public with our political idealsâ But lâm really just having fun with some conjecture on âScrupulous Lue: The Most Appealing Political Choicesâ lol.

@TheUFOTrail @bpleasies @AdamGorightly @de_varse 2. I may be wrong, like I said itâs just fun conjecture. But ultimately Lue seeks a larger audience lâm sure and will remain politically neutral. He also plays both sides of the fence appearing on CNN and MSNBC (theyâre just not as often willing lâm guessing.)

@TheUFOTrail @bpleasies @AdamGorightly @de_varse 1. If this were 25 years ago I would expect him to go GOP as the majority of the community was the most likely conservative leaning. But I feel ufotwitter represents his largest target, it's a majority younger crowd, and historically under 30s are more liberal than conservative.

@AdamGorightly @bpleasies @TheUFOTrail @de_varse Having fun with some conjecture obviously, but I wouldn't expect Lue to go GOP. I don't expect him to claim for either side and alienate (haha) half of his prospective audience. Interesting. Many of the people from that era that may be able to assist in uncovering more are already gone, and the ones left won't be here forever. I would think evidence might be found more easily while they're alive- assistance taken with all caution of course.

I'm not sure why you sent me a 45sec clip of them distastefully hurling insults at and name-calling Kal (who apparently wasn't even there)? They literally presented nothing or made any direct accusations- except simply calling Kal, among many other things, a liar.

Talk about mystery- was that even his real name? Though little known in the current community, the threads of influence he had on ufology still weave throughout the topic today. Why have I not found any documented attempts to uncover more about this white whale?

@LueElizondo gaslights for us to "focus on the topic and not the personalities" and "exchange ideas without fear of personal attack or having to pick a side."

Meanwhile Lue & co. have encouraged these very problems for years, centered the topic on Lue & created larger divisions.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1444508966139142146

@TheUFOTrail I'm almost certain I saw Lue floating above my backyard, he was saying something about "disclosure prophecies"; tho I had been staring at the sun all day.

2021-10-03T03:39:37+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1444507405723832320

@SicCoP1 But I could easily imagine that -just when considering the growing abundance of cheap, effective aerial "platforms" being operated by HUMANS- the military has a need to change the way they respond to aerial reports.

2021-10-03T03:37:29+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1444506865631645696

@SicCoP1 I understand, I do. But I highly doubt the motivation behind it all is the disclosure of UFO truth, and the gov't actions at every step have not supported or suggested this.

2021-10-03T03:28:20+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1444504564892377089

All this pomp and praise over the recent gov't actions concerning UAP "disclosure";

2021-10-03T03:23:23+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1444503319767101441

@SicCoP1 I agree with holding accountability, though I'm not very optimistic. Especially as the actions of the government, although presented as in the interest of transparency and "disclosure", in reality only further restricts and obfuscates UAP information.

2021-10-03T03:11:43+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1444500382403727364

@SicCoP1 Which makes no provisions for the release of UAP information to the public. All that's been achieved with recent gov't actions is further restriction and control of UAP information by a central source. Same as was done with UAP related requests now funneled solely thru Sue Gough.

@MrAnalyzer37 @LuisCay99862776 @RiotSeeds @AnjaliOnGaia We're not talking about religious beliefs, We're not talking about beliefs at all- that's the point. We're talking about research standards as defined by the wider professional research community. The standards don't allow for "belief" when conducting professional research.

2021-10-01T16:51:25+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1443981889539395586

@MrAnalyzer37 @RiotSeeds @LuisCay99862776 @AnjaliOnGaia This is why we only accept information once it has been vetted thru adequate supporting hard evidence- meaning not just corroborating claims. False information doesn't have to be extracted if it's never included. The veracity of a source is irrelevant per the standards.

If you meant that just the existence of AATIP, which Reid setup, led to current congressional actions and hence Reid's AATIP = disclosure, I would have to respectfully disagree

I also suggest he had no such intentions while in office, as he made no facilitations of disclosure that I am aware of. AAWSAP/AATIP disclosed nothing @SicCoP1 @MiddleOfMayhem @BryanKelly @ddeanjohnson @WitnessCitizen @g_knapp Yes it's claimed that UAPs were involved in this seemingly wide and meandering study of possible future technologies- that just means "stuff" that is -or was- denoted as unknown.

Ex. A study on the effects of microwaves on unknowing subjects could contain comments of similar claims.

@SicCoP1 @MiddleOfMayhem @BryanKelly @ddeanjohnson @WitnessCitizen @g_knapp AAWSAP/AATIP had nothing to do with disclosure- I'm assuming this is the program you're referring to? According to the AAWSAP solicitation, it had nothing to do with UFOs- but rather the possibilities in future technology advancements. The 37 DIRDs seem to support this.

A revealing contemporary assessment of the Pascagoula case, written by Todd Zechel of Ground Saucer Watch in 1976. http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FAdV9_5XoA0pv5n.jpg Harder - but that might not be saying much, so Hynek proceeded to verify the subjective testing.

Charles Hickson succeeded in fooling the two leading UFO researchers, and he did "put Pascagoula on the map." In fact, Pascagoula became almost a household word. However, the "millions" he evidently thought he would earn from selling his story never materialized. Hickson also achieved some personal glory by appearing on some TV talk-shows--but he also helped to destroy his own credibility by doing so. Each time Hickson appeared on a show his story changed slightly. The time that the incident took place became 9 p.m.--instead of 7 p.m. The size of the spacecraft grew from its original "10 ft.," to "30 ft." in diameter. Inconsistency became his trademark. But, as everyone knows, Hickson eventually faded from the scene. He's probably back in Pascagoula--scratching out a living on some mundane job, and wondering just what the hell a man has to do in order to make the magical million bucks.

Meanwhile, Hynek and Harder continue to flit around the country--bestowing their blessings on these improbable "contact" stories. They have so confused the public that when the truth is presented--no one will be able to recognize it. Harder keeps collecting paychecks from the Enquirer, and Hynek keeps pleading for the government to grant him funds for his "research." Let me ask you something: if you were the government--would you give Hynek any money to investigate this segment of ufology?

(*) In October 1975 at the Fort Smith UFO conference Hickson flatly refused to take a qualifying polygraph re-exam. The UFO symposium billed this test as one of the main features of this event.

http://pbs.twimg.com/media/FAdV9_6XEAMSF8k.jpg

Harder's statement was more positive; he said he thought the men had been abducted by extraterrestrial beings. In answer to a reporter's question, Harder also stated that "A very strong feeling of terror is practically impossible to fake under hypnosis."

Regardless, the implication is strong that two scientists have validated this incident and the public has placed extreme credibility in this sensationalized abduction case. How thorough was their investigation? Let me put it this way: to say it was superficial would be a compliment. Among the things that they overlooked was the fact that this incident supposedly occurred at 7 p.m. (fading daylight) and the spot where the two men were fishing at was in clear view of the town, the nearby bridge, and the shipyard. Yet, not one other person saw anything out of the ordinary occur! Additionally, neither Hynek nor Harder bothered to check into the main witness's background. If they had, they would have found out the Charles Hickson had been fired by his former employer, Ingalls Shipyards, on November 20, 1972. They would have found out that Hickson was fired for "conduct unbecoming a supervisor." (His superiors alleged that Hickson had borrowed money from the men working under him, and he tried to pay them back by arranging promotions for them.) If Hynek and Harder had cared to check a little further, they would have found out that Charles Hickson filed for bankruptcy on June 6, 1973, in the U.S. District Court in Biloxi, MS. The reason for this bankruptcy filing was given as "hopelessly high personal debts."

Hickson and Parker, within a few days after the incident, retained an attorney, Joe R. Colingo, to act as an intermediary between themselves and anyone who wished to hear their story. Colingo was sure that the men's story would be worth "a million dollars." It was Colingo who arranged for Hickson to take a polygraph exam. Colingo chose Scott Glasgow of the Pendleton Detective Agency, New Orleans, LA. On October 30, 1973, Hickson was given a polygraph test by Glasgow signed an affidavit in which he stated: "It was my opinion that Charles Hickson told the truth when he stated (1) that he believed he saw a spaceship, (2) that he was taken into the spaceship, (3) that he believed he saw three space creatures."

On the surface, at least, Hickson would seem to have been telling the truth. However, the facts are that no one has been able to see any data from this polygraph exam; nor has anyone been able to induce Hickson to undergo any further examination--despite offers by investigators to pay for these exams. Hickson has been adamant in rejecting any efforts to subject him to additional testing. (*) The polygraph examiner, Scott Glasgow, has been investigated and it has been discovered that while he graduated from a reputable polygraph school, National Training Center of Lie Detection, he has never been certified by that school. (The school requires that each graduate, after he has been operating for a period of one year, submit all of his tests to the Center for evaluation. No pupil is certified until he does so, and no operator is certified unless it is determined by the evaluation that he is following the procedures of the Center and demonstrating good judgement.) Mr. Glasgow had not applied for his certification--despite the fact that he had, in his words, "been in business approximately one year."

It seems rather ironic that Hickson's lawyer, Colingo, would select such an inexperienced polygraphist--if he were sincerely interested in verifying Hickson's claims. Keep in mind that there were many experienced and well-established examiners available--geographically closer than Glasgow--but Colingo chose Glasgow. It also seems ironic that Glasgow describes Hickson's examination as being a series of four tests--each one lasting from three to five (3-5) minutes! Actually, the word I should be using to describe this affair is suspect--not "ironic."

Let's face the facts: Hynek and Harder got taken-in by a clever con-artist. However, if they had conducted more than just a superficial investigation--they would have had serious doubts as to whether this incident ever happened. As it was, they left us with the impression that they had subjected these two men to rigorous examination. Hynek apparently placed a lot of faith in Harder's hypnotic session. Yet, I wonder how reliable Harder's hypnosis is. I have conferred with a Professor at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, who teaches a graduate hypnosis course, and he informs me that it is extremely easy for a subject to fake a hypnotic trance. He warns that any hypnotist must be very alert to this possibility and unless the hypnotist is extremely wary, he can be easily fooled. As for a subject being able to portray terror or hysteria--let's just say that we're all capable of being actors--except some of us are better than others. Apparently, Hickson was good enough to fool Harder - but that might not be saying much, as Hynek proceeded to verify the subjective testing.

Hickson, Parker: robot creatures are friendly

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A week ago Charles E. Hickson, 45, and Calvin R. Parker Jr., 19, local shipyard workers, told authorities three space creatures took them aboard a saucer-like spacecraft. On Thursday the two men gave the Mississippi Press the first extensive interview since the Pascagoula River incident. In Hickson's living room in Gautier, the men gave their story to Mississippi Press editor Gary Holland. Here is their account, given primarily by Hickson with Parker consenting to the account.)

By CHARLES HICKSON and CALVIN PARKER
As told to the Mississippi Press
We were fishing last Thursday night behind the old Shaspester Shipyard building on the Pascagoula River. I turned to get some more bait when I heard a slipping sound.

I turned around and saw a spacecraft with bright, flashing, blue-looking lights. It just hovered without touching the ground.

It seemed to open up, but there really wasn't a door there at all. These three creatures came floating out toward us. I was so scared that I couldn't believe it was happening.

The creatures were pale, ghost-like, about five feet high. They were sort of light flesh-colored, or more pale gray, with crab-like claws for hands and rounded feet.

The creatures were on us before we knew it. Two of them seemed to lift me off the ground, and I became motionless and glided into the craft. (Parker said he passed out as he was carried into the craft.)

After I got inside I had no feelings. I was helpless, but I could still move my eyes.

It was real bright inside, but no particular color. There were no light fixtures but it was plenty bright. Something big and round that looked like a big eye moved back and forth across my body. The two creatures moved me around so that the eye could check me in various positions. I just kind of floated without touching anything. I didn't see any attachment for the eye. It was just kind of suspended in air.

The two things left me for a while, maybe half a minute, and I was in there just motionless. All I could do was move my eyes.

I never felt any pain. They didn't hurt us at all.

Later they carried me back outside and I floated down on my feet. I was so weak I kneed I think I fell over. The creatures didn't walk at all. Their legs stayed together and they floated.

After I have thought more about it, I believe they were more like robots. They acted like they had a specific thing to do, and they did it. They didn't try to communicate with us.

I heard one of them make a buzzing sound. It might have been in contact with something somewhere else. I didn't see the opening in the front of the face move.

I didn't see anything that looked like eyes. There was something pointing out like a nose and then an opening under this, but no eyes.

The craft which was "I of rounded or oval, was about 8-10 feet wide and about 8 feet high.

It came upon us in a split second and it left with a zip. It was gone in a half second.

They were on us so quick we couldn't do anything. I doubt if we could have resisted them if we had tried to. I'm sure they are far more advanced than we are.

I know now that they didn't intend to hurt us physically. But I feared they were going to take us away.

I would like to emphasize that they don't mean us any harm.

I honestly believe other people will go through similar experiences. I think these creatures will continue to probe this earth. We haven't seen the last of it.

I have always said there almost had to be some life elsewhere. Now I am a firm believer.

Our lives will never be the same, but I felt we owed it to the people to tell what we saw. I don't believe I could live with it by myself. I believe we have done what is right.

The question I keep asking myself is, "why a countryboy like me?"

Charles Hickson and Calvin Parker

"I want to emphasize to the people, please don't shoot at these things. They don't mean us any harm. I believe if they came back I could face them and try to communicate with them."

—Calvin R. Parker Jr.

"After thinking more about it, I believe they were more like robots. They acted like they had a specific thing to do, and they did it."

—Charles E. Hickson

PASCAGOULA ABDUCTION
By W. Todd Zechel
GSW Director of Field Operations-WI

About the only thing that actually got abducted at Pascagoula was scientific ufology's already precarious credibility. Dr. Harder, the prime researcher on this case, never had any credibility to lose. The fact that he is Director of Research for APRO speaks for itself. Toss in his affiliation with the National Enquirer and you can be sure that Harder is about as reliable as a broken watch. Harder is to Ufology what Nixon is to the Presidency: an embarrassment. However, Hynek is giving Harder a gun-for-the-money to see who can be proclaimed the expert in UFO abduction cases. Hynek's only redeeming quality is that he has learned how to state the obvious and make it sound as though he were making a scientific observation. Harder makes no such pretenses, and therefore does not cause confusion when one attempts to judge his veracity. As you shall see, both Hynek and Harder were about as thorough in their investigation of the Pascagoula incident as the FBI was in investigating the Watergate break-in.

The basic story of the Pascagoula "abduction"--in case anyone is not familiar with the plot, by now--is that two men, Charles Hickson and Calvin Parker, were fishing one evening (Oct. 11, 1973) near the Shampeter Shipyard in Pascagoula, MS. Suddenly, a mysterious blue light-source appeared and descended to the water, a few feet from where the men were fishing. It turns out that this light-source was actually a space-craft--which Hickson has subsequently described as being 10ft., 16-18 ft., and 30 ft. in diameter--at various times. The spacecraft opens up and three humanoid aliens float over to Hickson and Parker, and proceed to "float" them aboard the craft. Once aboard the craft, they are given the usual "examination." (Sounds familiar, doesn't it?) After the "examination," the two men suddenly find themselves back outside and the craft has disappeared. Incidentally, Parker "passed out" when the craft first landed--so he doesn't remember any of the details.

Of course Hickson, being the fine, upstanding citizen that he is--immediately after this incident stopped at the local newspaper office (Mississippi Press) to report his fantastic experience. However, there was no one there except the cleaning man--so Hickson opted for his second choice and called the Sheriff's Department. The Sheriff took down the gist of the story and requested Hickson to come back the next morning. Subsequently, Hickson and Parker were taken to a local hospital for examination and then were later taken to Keesler AFB for further examination and interrogation. None of these examinations revealed any physical abnormalities, ie, radiation in the blood, burns, marks, etc.

Within hours after the Pascagoula "abduction" story hit the national press wires, the big "two" of Ufology, Hynek and Harder, were on their way to Pascagoula. After a brief interview with the two men, Hynek was quoted as saying, "I think they're telling the truth. I think they had a genuine UFO experience." With those words, Hynek had placed his foot in his mouth, and he about to swallow it. But first he had to wait for Harder to complete his now-famous time-regression hypnosis session. Admittedly, Harder had trouble "putting them under" his spell, but evidently succeeded and was satisfied that the men were telling the truth. Following the hypnosis session, Hynek and Harder held a news conference. Hynek was quoted as saying: "There's simply no question in my mind that these men have had a very real, frightening experience, the physical nature of which I am not certain about--and I don't think we have any answers to that. But I think we should very definitely point out that under no circumstances should these men be ridiculed. They are absolutely honest. They have had a fantastic experience and I also believe it should be taken in context with experiences that others have had elsewhere in this country and in the world." (Emphasis added)

(ED NOTE:) Dr. Hynek has since stated he was misquoted during the 1973 press conference. In a meeting with William Spaulding he said the press was confused as to whom they were talking to, since both of their last names begin with an "H". In essence Hynek said, "the men had an experience that was real to them and they were not lying."

extensive documentation through audio recordings that David Jacobs conducted regressive hypnosis via international telephone calls (Ya caught that, right? ...conducted regressive hypnosis via international telephone calls?) in which the associate professor of history suggested she had Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD). Both Jacobs and Woods were aware they were being recorded during the sessions. In one such session, Jacobs admittedly led and shaped Woods' statements about an alleged abduction in which she was sexually assaulted and used as what he termed the facilitator of sperm collection. In another hypnosis session he suggested she start wearing a chastity belt, the type of which he could select for her because they have them at a sex shop he frequented, he explained, and it would put a "kink" in the plans of hybrids allegedly committing ongoing sexual assaults (Yes, he literally said that). He additionally suggested to Woods during hypnosis sessions, according to the recordings, that she mail him her underpants - and to not think about it afterward. Is it just me, or is it difficult to fit such behavior into the context of strict scientific and ethical research methodology?

A: I highly doubt DoD or any other government agency is concealing UFO information. I participated in a comprehensive review of DoD's black programs and spent over a decade conducting oversight of the national foreign intelligence program, an almost totally separate world of secrets. I visited Area 51 and other military, intelligence and research facilities. During all those years, I never detected the faintest hint of government interest or involvement in UFOs.

SUBJECT
Sujet Unidentified Flying Objects -
Sighting of

The CO Labs. telephoned this afternoon and advised that he had received the following information from Insp. Huber of the Regina Lab.

2. Mr. John Hodges, the Regional Representative for the National Research Council Associate Committee on Meteorites had received from a helicopter pilot an object thought to be a meteorite and had brought this to our Lab. for examination. This substance has proved to be TITANIUM, 99% pure, which is thought to be the largest piece from a satellite that has ever landed on earth. It is 4 ft. long, 2 1/2 ft. wide and weighs between 10 and 15 pounds. It is understood that there is enough material to make positive identification and Hodges is trying to determine if this is from a U.S. or a Russian satellite. A Dr. Foran of Harvard University is also assisting to attempt to identify the orbit from which this fell. It is understood that Mr. Ian Halliday, Chief, Dominion Observatory, is also in possession of this information.

3. The CO Labs. advised that the local newspaper, The Leader Post, is aware of this find, however is holding up any news release until more identification can be made of the material and apparently the Press does know that our Lab. participated.

4. The CO Labs. would like to be informed as to whether the Force has any objection to the eventual release by the Press of our Labs. participation in this project.

DCI
I feel we should not release info. but by the NRC including the fact that the RCM is not making any comment.
The object is not to be identified.

@PostDisclosure @CKakadan I wasn't suggesting you were saying one is right and one is wrong. I'm saying one view is reliant on belief or trust in an individual or collective with unsubstantiated claims, while the other is a viewed likelihood which rests on the preponderance of actual verifiable evidence.

2021-09-10T20:14:59+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1436422974723313671

@PostDisclosure @CKakadan The onus is on those making unsubstantiated extraordinary claims, not on those touting substantiated and established knowledge. We only have anecdotal claims to support extraordinary claims such as US govt having non-human evidence. The onus is on those asserting such claims.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1436414215871471621

@PostDisclosure 1. This is an entirely different argument than the posted one which I responded to.

No conclusive verifiable evidence has established that the US govt possesses evidence of non-human intelligence. To conclude so requires belief in unsubstantiated claims.

2021-09-10T19:19:34+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1436409030310830089

@PostDisclosure I don't think it's debatable that hinging a conclusion based upon belief or trust in an unsubstantiated claim is unscientific and counter-critical thinking.

2021-09-10T18:59:26+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1436403963314704414

@PostDisclosure Some have arrived at a conclusion which relies on belief or trust in an individual or collective with unsubstantiated claims. That's fine, but this does not mean the conclusion is valid- certainly not to those who abide by standards of evidence, science and critical thinking.

@g_knapp @StevenCambian Not sure about twitfologists (nor what they are or why you would gauge success by them) but personally I'm not irked by wealth. But when the "work" which created it includes influential misrepresentation, sensationalism and lack of diligence and transparency, this I find irksome.

@DavidFieldSculp The blog post below (an overview of a 2000s NIDS study on black deltas) touches on the notion of an electrokinetic system. Interestingly, I did initially hear a "low humming sound" which then caused me to turn around and see the craft.

<http://black-triangles.blogspot.com/2007/03/nids-2002-hypothesis-its-dod-blimp.html?m=1>

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/E-DRDd5X0AUi5K4.jpg>

3) " ... The electrokinetic system shows a number of the "Characteristics" of "UFO" power systems. It flies with "no visible form of support", no propellers, jets, and in the case of a hybrid LTA craft which would NOT use thrust from the drive to hold the ship up (since it would have aerostatic, lift gas, like a balloon) no downwash like a helicopter's. Except for "a slight humming" from high voltage control equipment and an occasional coronal discharge in the older units it makes no noise. "

@SicCoP1 @ddeanjohnson @BrianDunning The embedded quote I used to share the podcast was from the interviewer, not Brian. I liked the quote- it doesn't sum up the whole of show.

They're not saying it hasn't been taken seriously, but rather that a small core group HAS successfully marketed for attention and funding.

2021-08-20T03:45:12+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428563741440937984

@ddeanjohnson @SicCoP1 @BrianDunning This would def be relevant if I were discerning whether or not he is credible- but I'm not...

I'm interested in the supporting evidence people present and ITS credibility. The messenger's morality is of no consequence to the validity of their information.

2021-08-20T00:58:08+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428521700933648386

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BrianDunning The attitude of requiring supporting evidence to discern claims is useless...

Pretty much sums up the general attitude of this field.

2021-08-20T00:51:50+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428520115142893568

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BrianDunning No offense.

Clapper can say anything he wants, but until he shows evidence these are unsubstantiated claims- and from the very same individual who illegally surveilled Americans and then lied about it to Congress. Excuse my skepticism.

2021-08-20T00:45:31+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428518525170298883

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BrianDunning Actually the whole point of the interview is to inform on the fact that these people are making unsubstantiated statements and claims supporting, and largely based upon, the statements/ beliefs of the same core group of individuals who've been at the heart of the same programs.

2021-08-20T00:41:14+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428517446437244929

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BrianDunning Because that's exactly what the interview is about...

At no point in the interview does he say that this is the ONLY facet which has created the modern UFO narrative.

2021-08-20T00:37:49+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428516588626587649

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BrianDunning I think that's a oversimplification of the message of the interview. It's a 45min talk, not a multi-season deep dive. But I can see how that could be interpreted.

2021-08-20T00:27:13+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1428513919576969216

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BrianDunning The abundance of absurd conspiracy theories makes it that much harder to have conversations about actual conspiracies...

The kick is, in this community, the words "conspiracy theory" are largely used to shun the factual evidence in favor of unsubstantiated conspiracy theories.

@JoshPhi04416929 * EXACTLY*

Supporting evidence must be required regardless of status, position or claimed knowledge. Sadly the inverse of this is the preferred method in ufology.

2021-08-17T19:26:15+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1427713401095086080

This person, who I hope the best for, doesn't represent an outlier in the history of ufology IMO. None benefit from the continued embrace of unsubstantiated claims- claims often based upon sincere issues but co-opted by those with beliefs/agendas/desires.

Soft drinks were passed out, cups decorated with Martians and saucerlings. Nervous laughter rumbled through the room, as people cast anticipatory looks at their television sets in the main hall. Program glasses at people's tables followed a dash to the study at 8 p.m.

The scene was set for the 10:30 p.m. Mystery segment on Wythe County's UFOs, as Darryl Gordon and 30 others prepared to watch the premiere of Unsolved Mysteries' 1988 episode featuring the UFO drama created in Wythe County in 1987.

Many of the people in the room were there to see how they looked and sounded on television. Some came to see how the NBC program treated Wytheville and Wythe County. The crowd was peppered with television and newspaper journalists ready to record reactions.

Stance Hill quickly to "off" called the air at the program's beginning. The station was the program's last lesson. The crowd followed every word as the commentator gave a history of UFO sightings and the locally filmed segment began.

At the program's end, several people brushed a sign of relief that the area was portrayed well in the show. Mayor Tom Crum stated that he felt the show had covered the issue fairly and well. In next sessions and reactions, he added. They didn't try to explain what couldn't be explained, he said.

COUNTRY IN GRIP OF UFO FEVER

4 JAN 1979

UFO fever gripped New Zealand yesterday as people from Whangarei to Invercargill reported strange sightings and another television crew filmed a bright, glowing object in the sky over the Kaikoura area.

The television crew sent to the Clarence River after film of an unidentified object was shot for Australian television last Sunday morning, filmed a brightly lit object from 3.15 am until after dawn.

Their film, shown on New Zealand television last night, fanned a UFO controversy which had been in danger of being grounded by an inconclusive air force search earlier in the day.

The film was last night sent by satellite around the world as the debate over last Sunday's film and sightings continued.

A Royal New Zealand Air Force Orion anti-submarine reconnaissance aircraft spent from midnight to dawn yesterday in the north-eastern sky of the South Island, vainly looking for unexplained objects.

Satisfied the area has been given a good look over, the Ministry of Defence has decided against further patrols, but Wellington radar will continue to report any strange readings to the ministry.

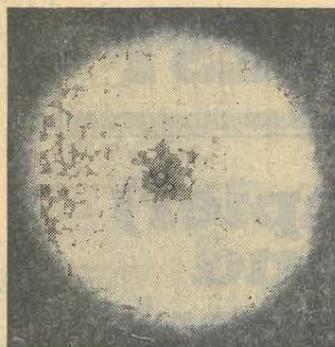

The cameraman with the TV-1 crew sent to Kaikoura, Mr Frank Kazukaitis, of Christchurch, described the object he filmed as "an illuminated ping-pong ball with a tinge of red in the centre."

Red Tinge

He said it was continually moving and was difficult to keep in the viewfinder.

The reporter on the team, Mr Terry Olsen, said he first saw the object about 3.15 am. It was a bright light with a reddish tinge which turned yellowish.

It was about three times the brightness of the average star and appeared to be at Theories about the Japanese fishing fleet did not impress Captain W. E. Start-formed along the Kaikoura coast when the cold air from the valleys met onshore winds and they raised distant lights, he said.

People in the circles of To The Stars may very well know Jim Semivan worked for the CIA, as they have been promoting and discussing high and low for years now. I nonetheless think the point is relevant that scores of podcasters and writers who present him as a retired CIA officer apparently do not know that to be correct. As Semivan suggested himself in his March 14 email, they just take his word for it.

There's a salient point to be made here about the entire UFO scene. You have either verified something or you haven't. It starts and ends with standards of evidence. If you compromise the extent you are committed to fact-checking from the very outset of an interaction with someone, it is reasonable to question what other "facts" get compromised along the way in pursuit of YouTube viewers and website hits.

@likeitmatters3 Of course now, with the testimony of Mike Rogers recently and the layout/distance visuals presented by Ryan Gordon, we have good reason to question whether any of the witnesses even clearly saw the beam hit Travis.

An interesting and even entertaining April 2021 interview with Travis Walton âabductionâ witnesses Steve Pierce and John Goulette. Their (and Travisâ) description of the craft (25â30â8â) does fit nicely with the fire lookout tower around the 50:00 mark.

Many of these same LYING intelligence leaders who publicly defended the illegal surveillance of Americans (Brennan, Clapper, Obama etc.) consistently have their unsubstantiated UFO "truth" comments held up by #ufotwitter as reliable evidence- they're not.

(Reuters) - Seven years after former National Security Agency contractor Edward Snowden blew the whistle on the mass surveillance of Americans' telephone records, an appeals court has found the program was unlawful - and that the U.S. intelligence leaders who publicly defended it were not telling the truth.

RT @PMFight: @MickWest Don't have to type anymore:

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/E4wdtmZXwAIToiL.jpg>

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The limited amount of high-quality reporting on unidentified aerial phenomena (UAP) hampers our ability to draw firm conclusions about the nature or intent of UAP. The Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Task Force (UAPTF) considered a range of information on UAP described in U.S. military and IC (Intelligence Community) reporting, but because the reporting lacked sufficient specificity, ultimately recognized that a unique, tailored reporting process was required to provide sufficient data for analysis of UAP events.

- As a result, the UAPTF concentrated its review on reports that occurred between 2004 and 2021, the majority of which are a result of this new tailored process to better capture UAP events through formalized reporting.
- Most of the UAP reported probably do represent physical objects given that a majority of UAP were registered across multiple sensors, to include radar, infrared, electro-optical, weapon seekers, and visual observation.

In a limited number of incidents, UAP reportedly appeared to exhibit unusual flight characteristics. These observations could be the result of sensor errors, spoofing, or observer misperception and require additional rigorous analysis.

There are probably multiple types of UAP requiring different explanations based on the range of appearances and behaviors described in the available reporting. Our analysis of the data supports the construct that if and when individual UAP incidents are resolved they will fall into one of five potential explanatory categories: airborne clutter, natural atmospheric phenomena, USG or U.S. industry developmental programs, foreign adversary systems, and a catchall "other" bin.

UAP clearly pose a safety of flight issue and may pose a challenge to U.S. national security. Safety concerns primarily center on aviators contending with an increasingly cluttered air domain. UAP would also represent a national security challenge if they are foreign adversary collection platforms or provide evidence a potential adversary has developed either a breakthrough or disruptive technology.

Consistent consolidation of reports from across the federal government, standardized reporting, increased collection and analysis, and a streamlined process for screening all such reports against a broad range of relevant USG data will allow for a more sophisticated analysis of UAP that is likely to deepen our understanding. Some of these steps are resource-intensive and would require additional investment.

An excellent deep dive into the Maury Island incident -which occurred 74yrs ago this month @saucerlife presents the little known (and long maligned) facts of the history, people, and investigations into this event- and truth is surely stranger than fiction

Certainly some peers who've had previous working relationships with Bigelow present problems in mind.

@dave_beaty @ParabunkBlog @SturgePow @DietrichVFA41 The DoD confirmed that it was a DoD video only correct? Is there, and I'm assuming there isn't, any chain of custody for the video proving that Underwood filmed it?

I appreciate you taking the time to answer these questions and help get a clarity of the verifiable data Dave.:folded_hands:

@dave_beaty @ParabunkBlog @SturgePow @DietrichVFA41 Interesting that the FLIR video leak was so readily accepted by the community as reliable, but the "event summary" leaked by the same party is not.

As the govt eventually verified the video, is it not likely the "event summary" was also "legitimate"?

@dave_beaty @ParabunkBlog @SturgePow @DietrichVFA41 So what you're saying is there is little documentation, logs etc., that is declassified? It's specifically on participant claims that we "know" Underwood's flight was a single?

I'm truly just trying to discern the verifiable information, from those who know the documents best.

So the documents clearly state that Underwood's team consisted of 2 VFA-14 F/A-18Es. So he DID have a wingman, who was most likely at the CAP point- 40miles away, the same distance of the target as stated on radar. <https://twitter.com/ParabunkBlog/status/1403060909065519107> @Dogbert34664346 @vikingjedi23 @PostDisclosure Indeed. IMO ufology needs to reverse its 70yr default position of accepting unsupported anecdotes, it has only been unproductive.

The standards of evidence need to be raised, the topic viewed thru a lens of verifiable evidence and then reframed in terms of those possibilities.

@11eleven1eleven @_Kodos_ That is why this topic draws so many, and can represent a real problem for WHATEVER the government is hiding- the possibilities!

All I can do is list the possibilities in terms of plausibility in relation to the verifiable evidence currently available.

@VSaknussem lâm not even suggesting that it did.

Simply musing that, like Area 51 in previous decades, these ocean proving grounds are where the newest advanced technology are/will be tested. And like Area 51, there seem to be anecdotal public UFO lore building around these sensitive areas.

The big wing

Meanwhile, several Antelope Valley residents say they've seen a craft that simply strains credulity.

According to reports over the past two years, a vast black flying wing, estimated at between 600 and 800 ft. in width, has passed silently over city streets, empty desert and rural freeways. The craft moved so slowly one observer said that he could jog along with it. A pattern of seemingly random white lights on the vehicle's black underside provided "constellation camouflage" against the starry sky. Observers who followed the craft long enough detailed unlikely maneuvers in which the vehicle stopped, rotated in place and hovered vertically, presenting a thin trailing edge to the ground.

Although such sightings encourage those who link the military with unearthly technology, a mammoth, quiet flying wing may have a conventional explanation: It could be a lighter-than-air craft pushed by slow-turning propellers. Certainly, such a vehicle could elude Doppler radar by slowing to a crawl. Alternatively, the fact that the craft holds station vertically suggests that it might serve as a huge re-

https://twitter.com/_/status/1400873199219396613

@Alexandernewry @GeezerSqueezer @blackvaultcom 2/2. Until very recently, likely only in ufology has strictly unsubstantiated claims and anonymous witness testimony been sufficient evidence to run with conclusive narratives/ theories.

Credible professionals in journalism, science etc. are aware ufology lacks evidence standards

https://twitter.com/_/status/1400872022046134279

@Alexandernewry @GeezerSqueezer @blackvaultcom 1/2. Prob is, we still have yet to see proof of the existence of any conclusive ET radar evidence (even tho the existence has been assured to us for over 40yrs) and the flight characteristics are unsubstantiated witness estimations and claims- unsupported, like all these events.

Surely his years of subsequent work with BAASS and Bigelow raises

2021-06-04T08:03:48+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1400721549473292291

@Jeffmaughan I'm not commenting on anyone's morality, I'm commenting on the standards of evidence and how true whistleblowers fulfill this.

Unsubstantiated claims from former gov't/ military "insiders" is, sadly, what the most popular narratives of ufology is based upon... Nothing new here.

@FacijsCardan @Jeffmaughan @PostDisclosure The NYTimes broke those initial stories in 2017, and both the NYTimes and CBS have covered UFOs for decades- including Walter Cronkite. This is only "new" to those unaware of the past, and those who are but ignore it in favor of sensationalism...

@Rocky14535722 Absolutely, and IMO it's fair to say that most of us come to this topic with the pre-conception that the popular UFO events/ narratives are supported by overwhelming evidence and are therefore true.

Most must be well-versed, and open to one's fallibility, to realize they are not @zcichy I also agree it isn't an attempt to bury the issue, or disclose it, but to aid agendas. The twisted by various people for various reasons, IMO it's likely just be part of the larger agenda of retooling the protocol of handling UAP- necessary due to drone progress/ubiquitousness.

@bradjohansson21 @SicCoP1 @g_knapp @JeremyCorbell Lazar and Skinwalker are perfect examples of how evidence, transparency and even likelihood are irrelevant when it comes to selling "factual" narratives- all that's necessary is having the loudest voice.

@Sipowicz1042 @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry Why are we talking about the IG report? All it is is Elizondo's own words this is not independent nor verifiable evidence of Elizondo's claim.

2022-08-19T22:53:32+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560761912190697473

@Just_Perceive @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry Furthermore, Harry Reid stated (before he wrote this contradictory letter) that he was never once briefed on AATIP so how could he have conclusive knowledge of Elizondo's position?

Again, as Reid offers no evidence as to how he would know, we are left to simply trust his word.

2022-08-19T22:49:58+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560761017033957380

@Sipowicz1042 @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry ANY verifiable document listing AATIP as a program and Elizondo as Director. After 5yrs we're still dealing in anecdotal evidence mere claims.

In what instance would Lue be committing perjury? Even making the claims in his IG report doesn't open him to perjury.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560754508015230977

@Just_Perceive @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry Hi, I've addressed this numerous times already today. Not dismissing it outright, but unfortunately Reid's letter echoing Elizondo's claim contains no verifiable evidence. <https://twitter.com/UAPorSAP/status/1560697022167932928>

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560752057946095624

@ChillBones15 @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry Dude that was an unsubstantiated mention, not documentation. It contained no verifiable evidence what I've specifically asked about.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560714188863012864

@CracyEz2c @BoomerKC @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry What qualifications must I have to publicly question public statements? Court admissibility is irrelevant to the validity of the letter. Courts of law routinely allow unsubstantiated, unproven witness statements. It is the lowest standard of evidence and far from 100% conclusive.

@Sipowicz1042 @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry This is not a court of law. The burden of proof isn't a mere preponderance of (inconclusive) evidence. The burden of proof as defined per the professional research community requires unambiguously clear evidence for assertions, transparently presented for review & verification.

2022-08-19T18:35:41+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560697022167932928

@AgentBlackAcid @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry It's just a letter written by then-private citizen Harry Reid (he was RETIRED when he wrote it) leveling a simple claim without presenting any evidence whatsoever to verify that it is true.

There is nothing official about the letter or the letterhead.

2022-08-19T17:56:18+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560687114290864128

@WgRadtke @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry As I very clearly stated above, I'm simply asking for ANY verifiable evidence. So far, I've seen only unverified allegations & unsubstantiated claims from Elizondo or his associates such as Harry Reid's letter.

2022-08-19T17:31:05+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560680765645590529

@WgRadtke @BoomerKC @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry These are all unsubstantiated allegations unproven claims which require faith in the claimant. Like I said, I'm not dismissing these claims but, they are not valid conclusive evidence on their own, without additional substantiation.

2022-08-19T14:39:45+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1560637650721202177

@BoomerKC @LueElizondo @todd_mcmurtry Despite your fallacious appeal to authority, being a Senator doesn't preclude one from being wrong or lying as has been proven endless times. Nor does a fancy official letter head. Reid's statement remains an unverifiable allegation with NO substantiation. This isn't debatable.

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace You haven't even seen the results of this investigation yet, how can you conclude that it's far superior to any that have come before? Esp when we're told the entire investigation consists of possibly one or two persons. I'm just presenting verified facts, I hope the best.

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace 2/2. We don't even know if this UAPTF will have a congressional hearing yet. What is historic is the level of claims being leveled by former govt/military actors, without evidence, being legitimized by the MSM. "Claims" of "honest" former govt/military have been here for decades.

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace 1/2. As I have done much research, I know that this is NOT historic. MSM has been covering this, even in a serious tone like Cronkite did, for decades. There have also been numerous earlier investigations that have had larger funding, wider scope, and even congressional hearings.

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace 2/2. The only thing his leaks are evidence of is bad images taken by Navy personnel. No one can even tell us what they truly depict, so how can they be evidence of anything? And because we are not given any supporting evidence related to the leaks there's nothing to verify- its:pile_of_poo:

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace Journalists often have some education in related fields, not that this is a must, but supporting evidence to back up the claims being leveled IS. Corbell has not done this. He presents narratives, simply his beliefs and opinions, thru "art" and in statements as a private citizen.

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace And one could easily be forgiven for thinking such, as widely circulated false claims go unchecked these days. The only creating/writing/producing/editing he does is on his films- and films are under NO legal obligation to be truthful. Otherwise he gives interviews on his leaks.

@davidrison @Joeker87 @JennaRexwood @mintyhyperspace Corbell is not an investigative reporter. He has never claimed such. In fact, he is simply a self-described filmmaker. Hence the lack of requirement for evidence-and lack of credibility.

Journalists (until recently) must provide verifiable evidence and sources to back up claims.

@Rett94291220 Just for perspective, with the Rendlesham story we were told radar evidence existed- the only "evidence" other than witness claims.

Not only did it never surface, but we now know it never even existed. The witness claims are also now vastly different- but still accepted...

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/E19kRRHWQAAPeF4.jpg>

The Jackhead UFO crash hoax reared its ugly head again, much to my chagrin. Billy Meier. Bob Lazar. All suddenly in vogue again after being shown to be false or at the very least dubious many years ago.

It's because of metamodernism.

As I noted several years ago:

Ufology today is riddled with religiosity. Most UFO conferences and conventions boast slates of lecturers on spiritual contact with aliens, telepathic communication across the galaxy, healing with crystals, and how to "raise consciousness."

Since then, "hard science" ufology has been relegated to the back seat, and populist ufology almost always has a core of mysticism and "New-Age" beliefs. It's ironic, as UFO groups such as MUFON are trying to rebrand as more scientific organizations, all of this at a time when metamodernism is dictating that a more religious version of ufology is surging in popularity.

@Peloquin1977 @FullStackLogan @Aviation_Intel @usairforce It should be noted that, as any statements & info made available to the American public are also made available to any US adversary, deception & ambiguity can be considered strategically necessary and utilized in such public statements. In this aspect, Gough seems well-qualified.

ABSTRACT

AUTHOR: LTC Susan L. Gough

TITLE: The Evolution of Strategic Influence

FORMAT: Strategy Research Project

DATE: 7 April 2003

PAGES: 60

CLASSIFICATION: Unclassified

This paper will examine the evolution of how the U.S. Government and the Department of Defense have organized to conduct strategic influence as an instrument of national power, from the Psychological Warfare Division of World War II, through the Psychological Strategy Board and Operations Coordinating Board of the early Cold War, through the Vietnam years to today.

Are they organized effectively today to meet the asymmetric threats of the 21st Century?

@steven_nikolic @alpha_check @AliensOnEarth_ @DietrichVFA41 This is a separate issue from the fact that routinely, for decades, supporting "classified" evidence has been alleged and never shown and in some cases we know now never even existed- such as the Rendlesham radar evidence that was said to exist for years...

@steven_nikolic @alpha_check @AliensOnEarth_ @DietrichVFA41 But there in lies the problem- we have NO verifiable, unambiguous sensory data to support the witness claims- and diligent researchers HAVE studied/searched for 70yrs. ^ Biography

In 1967, Puthoff earned a Ph.D. in electrical engineering from Stanford University.^{[1][2][3]}

He then worked with, and invented, tunable lasers and electron beam devices, concerning which he holds patents, and he is co-author (with R. Pantell) of Fundamentals of Quantum Electronics (Wiley, 1969), published in English, French, Russian and Chinese. Puthoff published papers on polarizable vacuum (PV) and stochastic electrodynamics topics, which are examples of alternative approaches to general relativity and quantum mechanics.

Puthoff took an interest in the Church of Scientology in the late 1960s and reached what was then the top OT VII level by 1971.^[3] Puthoff wrote up his "wins" for a Scientology publication, claiming to have achieved "remote viewing" abilities.^[4] In 1974, Puthoff also wrote

In all fairness, trained police officers have repeatedly misidentified cell phones and other objects in the heat of the moment.

More pertinent, millions of declassified docs exist proving that both the US govt & military have lied about and misrepresented events, including UFOs.

Checkout Cooper's involvement in setting up the first UN UFO group with Pres. Eric Gairy of Grenada- who fled to the aerospace mecca of San Diego when overthrown in 1979.

<http://pbs.twimg.com/media/E1O9IbcXoAIEIAH.jpg>

On 27 November 1978, Eric Gairy led a group including scientists and an astronaut in addressing the United Nations on the subject of UFOs.

US citizens helped to support the overthrow of Eric Gairy with solidarity movements. One such solidarity movement existed in San Antonio, Texas and was headed by African-American activist Mario Marcel Salas, who was active in his overthrow on a number of levels. Civil strife took the form of street violence between government supporters, including the Mongoose Gang, and gangs organized by the New Jewel Movement (NJM). In the late 1970s, the NJM began planning to overthrow the government, with party members receiving military training outside of Grenada.

In 1979, a rumour circulated that Gairy would use the Gang to eliminate leaders of the New Jewel Movement while he was out of the country.^{[4][5]} In response, Bishop overthrew Gairy in March of that year while the latter was visiting the United States.^[6] ddlovato The past few days I've spent in Joshua Tree with a small group of loved ones and @dr.steven.greer and his CE5 team. Over the past couple months I have dug deep into the science of consciousness and experienced not only peace and serenity like I've never known but I also have witnessed the most incredibly profound sightings both in the sky as well as feet away from me. This planet is on a very negative path towards destruction but WE can change that together. If we were to get 1% of the population to meditate and make contact, we would force our governments to acknowledge the truth about extraterrestrial life among us and change our destructive habits destroying our planet. This is just some of the evidence from under the stars in the desert sky that can no longer be ignored and must be shared immediately 💖👉👈👉👈 to make contact yourself you can download the CE5 app and it will teach you the protocols to connect to life form beyond our planet!! (Ps, if it doesn't happen on the first try - keep trying - it took me several sessions to tap into a deep enough level of meditation to make contact!) Happy communicating 💖🙏

3/3 If it WERE secret tech for instance, and evidence of it were achieved by some, I would certainly expect for that evidence to be confiscated as Vallee describes here in this 1996 interview. I would also expect for U.S. govt "psy-ops spooks" to be involved as he also attests.

2. If we accept that the US gov't, and those from within its military/intelligence communities, have lied in the past, and could be lying when they've said, "It's not ours, we don't know what it is," then many things previously incongruent suddenly can be sensibly plausible...

It's no wonder we can't get much good coverage or research in this field- because they'd have to slog through 75yrs of accepted "evidence" like this.

The idea that TTAS & these govt/intel guys are now on "our side" and are going to disclose the truth- which will lead into a new age of advanced technology, non-dependence on oil, greater world peace- they have an actionable plan!

Sounds like a letter conspiracy I've heard of:thinking_face:

http://pbs.twimg.com/media/E1HRVyMXoAIA_j1.jpg

Some tips:

Always question the behaviors and motivations of anyone claiming to be an authority, cultivating an audience, or cult following, but do the legwork before making broad based assumptions.

Avoid presenters and information sources with narcissistic tendencies, especially if they seem to marginalize others or have no problem supporting those who exploit their audiences.

Become a student of human behavior and learn how to think like someone distributing misinformation or disinformation. (See: motivations.)

Consider no "reliable source" an authority, no matter who they say they are or how romantic the story.

@adjunctterror @Slaneshza @bradjohansson21 @MickWest 2/ We do know for certain that false witnesses were inserted into the story by the military and propped up by major media for years. All eyewitnesses have differing accts of the event, all we know is we were lied to then and weâ€™re prob being lied to now about that case, a lesson.

@adjunctterror @Slaneshza @bradjohansson21 @MickWest 1/ No, thatâ€™s another unsupported claim, weâ€™ll prob never KNOW what happened, but according to some of the military eyewitnesses that were there they now say that there was a US secret military technology being used that also interacted with some type of â€œphenomenonâ€œ.

I hope these materials can represent a unique moment in modern history, a possible turning point, to allow us to investigate and explore the mystery of UFOs in a rational and transparent way – free of stigma or ridicule. @GeezerSqueezer @TruthofTerAvaya @Cuthellain @MickWest @JeremyCorbell But you don't agree that if Corbell's images turn out to be terrestrial, as no claims have ever been proven ET, it would be another detrimental blow to the progress of ufology?

One could be forgiven for thinking this to be the intended pattern since the 1940s...

@predicate111 @GadiNBC I would absolutely believe their claims if they offered ANY supporting evidence. Without they're just the latest in 70yrs of "disclosers"- none of whom have had their ET claims proven valid, many who have proved untrue or inconsistent (including Rendlesham, Skinwalker, Nimitz...)

@predicate111 @GadiNBC I duno about sinister, but I am skeptical of a narrative coming from those who have claimed to be "forwarding truth" in ufology for decades, while simultaneously being attached at the highest levels to lucrative tech/defense contracts, yet ufology sees no progress only ambiguity.

@PostDisclosure @Fiddaman @MickWest @bobybert1 @JeremyCorbell @north_weald @g_knapp A point @MickWest doesnât speculate on but MAY be key: the military might be conflating, obfuscating or misrepresenting all or some of the facts for national security purposes, as weâve seen many times in past.

@north_weald @bobybert1 @JeremyCorbell @g_knapp @MickWest Ufology has been led astray for +70yrs by accepting claims without supporting evidence- against ALL standards. We don't need more profiteering messengers of anon-leaked, ambiguous claims & images-thats not data. Data is transparent, supporting evidence which can be peer-reviewed.

2021-04-26T19:50:36+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1386769700831567877

@19Nimbus @TheUFOTrail @HunterRedX (3) We've accepted claims without evidence for 75yrs from military witnesses only to ufology's detriment. Since we're no closer to any truth (in fact prob farther than we were 80yrs ago) shouldn't we avoid repeating these ways of the past, esp which go against research standards?

https://twitter.com/_/status/1386768064394448896

@19Nimbus @TheUFOTrail @HunterRedX (2) Favor claims nothing the others are saying is true, only his story which matches the official record. So someone is misinforming us- purposely or not. After publicly pushed lies/inconsistencies of Rendlesham, Skinwalker, Roswell etc. evidence should be the new currency.

@19Nimbus @TheUFOTrail @HunterRedX (1) I don't conclude that all witnesses are dishonest, I am a witness. But unfortunately after 70yrs of lies and changing narratives we must demand evidence to support claims- especially from mil/gov't witnesses. If the info is truthful no questions of verification can harm it.

@SKEPTICLBELIEVR @BabbleAlien DEF about funding, whatever else. Clearly we should have a healthy skepticism of the narrative coming from people who for decades have claimed to be "forwarding truth" in ufology, while simultaneously being attached at the highest levels to lucrative tech/defense contracts.

@SaraCarterDC I enjoy Sara, but the ONLY thing the Pentagon confirmed was that the images were taken by Navy personnel. Nothing more, no suggestion that they are identified or unidentified. Insulting that media outlets are deceptively misrepresenting this to trusting audiences.

Imagine that the recent Navy images (it's always Navy images...) HAVE been identified -as balloons, bokeh, whatever- and yet the govt has still allowed them to be leaked and misinterpreted.

How would you consider all future unsupported info?

@Slaneshza @Debriefmedia We don't know those things because they have not offered a single piece of evidence, or even as to how they reached their conclusions. Anyone familiar with the history of ufology or the disinformation involved in it for the last 80 yrs doesn't believe anything without some proof.

@Slaneshza @Debriefmedia We should be skeptical of the dubious info coming from ppl claiming to be "forwarding truth" in ufology, while simultaneously being attached at the highest levels to lucrative tech/defense contracts. Esp when they have proved to be dishonest in the past.

@Slaneshza @Debriefmedia The pictures were taken months before the task force was even commissioned. We don't know who the source is, a pilot, but MW got the pictures from Robert Bigelow- an immediate red flag for anyone familiar with the last 40 yrs of ufology.

@Slaneshza @Debriefmedia Mylar balloons can reach that height, pilots report seeing them routinely, so it could be one.

We don't know that it didn't move, again we just have to trust the source- an unverified, anonymous source. The dupes ufology has seen from news outlets with named, vetted sources...

INSPECTOR GENERAL
DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE
4800 MARK CENTER DRIVE
ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA 22350-1500

July 7, 2022
Ref: DODOIG-2022-001006

SENT VIA EMAIL TO: [REDACTED]
Mr. Steven Long, Jr.

Dear Mr. Long:

This responds to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request for “a copy of a complaint filed to the DOD OIG on behalf of Mr. Luis Elizondo by Attorney Daniel Sheehan as described in a May 26, 2021 article published by Politico”, as well as “any and all records of complaints filed to the DOD OIG on behalf of Mr. Luis Elizondo.” We received your request on June 21, 2022, and assigned it case number DODOIG-2022-001006.

Please be advised that any documents that may be responsive to your request are compiled for a law enforcement inquiry and release, at this time, could reasonably be expected to interfere with the inquiry. As such, 5 U.S.C. § 552 exemption (b)(7)(A) of the FOIA provides for withholding records or information compiled under these circumstances, as law enforcement inquiries are not limited to criminal actions but include civil actions and regulatory proceedings as well. For this reason, we cannot release any responsive documents at this time. Once the inquiry is complete however, exemption (b)(7)(A) may no longer apply, and you may re-submit your request. Please note that, even after the inquiry is completed, responsive records may still be exempt from disclosure based on one or more FOIA exemptions.

If you consider this an adverse determination, you may submit an appeal. Your appeal, if any, must be postmarked within 90 days of the date of this letter, clearly identify the determination that you would like to appeal, and reference to the FOIA case number above. All conjecture of course but if the sub was doing a secret test and releasing balloons, missiles, or other UAV it could plausibly be unknown to the Nimitz aviators & crew. Hence the negligence of vectoring them unarmed to an unknown. And the DoD could easily know.

The Fravor-might've-seen-a-missile theory isn't popular. I do NOT currently rank it the most likely, tho more likely than an 80k ft/sec craft.

And it's possible that Fravor saw the tictac prior to her, & for longer, but we can only realistically allow a few mere extra secs for Fravor's visual. Not minutes. And even :30 is far from 5:00

@GrantLavac @LuAngeles @ChrisUKSharp Absolutely. Or even if the aviators weren't the target of the spoofing but were unintentionally yet negligently placed in danger. "UFO" could possibly be used to hide negligence & near-collision with balloon. And certainly to hide secret testing or spoofing of military systems.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1543083867397144577

@LuAngeles @ChrisUKSharp @GrantLavac A completely plausible possibility.

Among others, this theory could also be offered for the Nimitz event. If man-made tech (super secret or mundane) the same argument for secrecy and/ or cover-up of failure or negligence (the danger posed to the vectored aviators) could be made.

If completely unproven realities (the tic-tac) can be propositioned without solid evidence, then completely proven realities (jets, missiles, balloons) can be propositioned without solid evidence.

And, as proven realities, they are considered more valid & likely by default.

@MoKnows1979 @TrentBrace The Pentagon has made no claims of evidence for the tictac. Even if they did, it would be unsubstantiated claims of evidence. The President & heads of state claimed Iraq had WMDs.

Claims of evidence do not equal evidenceâ regardless of who claims it or how many times itâs said.

@No3spera It was her comments in video a reference instead of putting my own comments, or nothing but the video. I wasn't claiming to quote the entire two minute clip. Again, I used her exact words & misrepresented or mischaracterized nothing. SG can read, watch & comment without my help.

but then I was reassured that we didn't have any subs in the area; have been reassured many times since by the folks that are in the Pentagon, as part of the ONI, AATIP and UAPTF that that was investigated and that's been eliminated as a possibility."

@scotlandishson No it's an excellent question. I agree it doesn't seem like missile behavior. Perhaps a balloon tethered to a submarine tho. My post doesn't say a word about me thinking it was a missile. I was mainly noting that she believes it wasn't manmade or negligent simply from mere words.

@jplatte11 @PhillipJeffre16 I doubt it too. But I'll note only Fravor claims such dramatic maneuvers & dogfight scenario and this should be viewed with measured skepticism. Dietrich's account is much more ordinary, with the tic-tac simply disappearing quickly into haze. "Balloon" fits her account well IMO.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1541465994161422336

@jplatte11 @PhillipJeffre16 I can think of lots of examples of human tech that would replicate such motion. A balloon tethered to a submersible, for one.

Bottom line: the possibility of human tech hasn't been conclusively ruled out to the point where "completely unproven something" is the only possibility.

@SicCoP1 @ToddRaymondL Sounded to me like Dietrich said she was told many times, but by the same few ppl who've informed the govt UFO investigation thru various stages (the Pentagon, then AATIP, then the UAPTF etc.)

It's been the same few ppl feeding & processing the info & programs over the years.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1541222466827206656

@stevebozz1 @SicCoP1 I am merely highlighting that:

1. Dietrich at first thought she had experienced a live-fire missile test and

2. she abandoned the non-extraordinary scenario she thought she experienced (manmade tech and negligence) simply on the assurances and words of "authorities & experts".

2022-06-27T00:41:10+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1541220057942048768

@SicCoP1 Sure, I'm not saying it's true but highlighting she said that's what changed her mind being told that possibility was investigated & eliminated.

I HOPE she'd demand a higher burden of proof than mere words, but she's publicly stating the assurances were enough. Often they are.

https://twitter.com/_/status/1541209617035919360

2022-06-26T23:20:58+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1541199874854633472

@SicCoP1 In her video with Mick, posted a month before the tweet you're sharing, Dietrich clearly stated that she DID think it was a missile until being assured it was investigated & ruled out.

The 2019 Return to ATS of The Perpetrator

A person claiming to be thefinaltheory [thefinaltheoryreturns] appeared in 2019 on ATS. Both The GUT and Isaac Koi participated in verifying the ID of this person.

Isaac also confirmed he was in active pursuit of Cometa, the ATS member who uploaded the FLIR video to the Vision Unlimited Web Server.

@SK1LLLS @etroll451 @MiddleOfMayhem @Heracli19402827 @BobMcGwier_N4HY Indeed, the "new" tale of AATIP is simply a speculative alternative to the first, which was heavily refuted. It's largely built, not upon substantiated evidence, but upon the re-molding of the tale to account for the very lies & inconsistencies which discounted the first version.

@etroll451 @MiddleOfMayhem @SK1LLLS @Heracli19402827 @BobMcGwier_N4HY Putting together unsubstantiated claims of players & available docs (none for AATIP btw) is how we got the first evolution of the story. Scrutiny ensued. Now there's a new evolution with unsubstantiated claims of players etc;

Until validly evidenced, scrutinize every evolution.

@Heracli19402827 @MiddleOfMayhem @BobMcGwier_N4HY This is a completely unsourced screenshot of a vague & unverified doc "alleging to be an email.

Such unsubstantiated info isn't "evidence" by any valid definition. Yet alone evidence of AATIP continuing after 2012. I'd honestly love to see some tho.

Appeal to authority is a common type of fallacy, or an argument based on unsound logic. When writers or speakers use appeal to authority, they are claiming that something must be true because it is believed by someone who said to be an "authority" on the subject.

@SicCoP1 @ToddRaymondL @JonesSmythe @stevebozz1 @SilvaRecord @LueElizondo I beg to differ. In years to come these hearings (when they do not produce conclusive evidence of the USG covering up nonhuman evidence) will be called a whitewash and they will be credulously cited by grifters & believers as further evidence of the cover-up. The endless cycle.

@SicCoP1 @ToddRaymondL @droneologists @JonesSmythe @stevebozz1 @SilvaRecord @LueElizondo Hey Dan, I replied to this point before but I didn't get a answer. Is it wait & see?

All this has only shown that the USG is serious about furthering legislation, interagency cooperation & policies which address their desired data collection, classification & assessment needs.

@SicCoP1 @droneologists @ToddRaymondL @JonesSmythe @stevebozz1 @SilvaRecord @LueElizondo I think "certainty" is a close but unfair characterization of the well-founded view that factual reality, history & evidence suggests that "whatever this is about" has everything to do with politics & national defense and nothing to do with the USG cover-up of non-human tech.

@SicCoP1 @ToddRaymondL @JonesSmythe @stevebozz1 @SilvaRecord @LueElizondo I'm not being dishonest or mischaracterizing your responses to me the last few months. You point to the legislation, hearings & publicity as evidence enough to forgo any scrutiny til it's seen how they result. @SicCoP1 @droneologists @ToddRaymondL @JonesSmythe @stevebozz1 @SilvaRecord @LueElizondo Valid scrutiny & skepticism is not cynicism. Tho I find this labeling of cynicism glaring humorous in face of the admitted optimism which has shaped your responses.

I'm not trying to change your views. But a reasoning of "wait & see" isn't an overwhelming argument to history.

I'm sure there WILL be more hearings. My concern is why (as there are no agendas of public UFO info Disclosure to be fulfilled) are support such an agenda esp for the very entities alleged at fault?

@SicCoP1 @stevebozz1 @ToddRaymondL @SilvaRecord @LueElizondo IMO the legitimization of putting such wildly sensational & unsubstantiated allegations on public display in Congress can do more harm than good.

As of now, we can't prove AAATIP continued after 2012. Unsubstantiated claims it did alone don't meet the burden of proof

2. Pilots claim Lue interviewed them in 2017 weeks before he left govt for TTSA (with their vids.) Seems he was interviewing them on the Nimitz event, which TTSA was about to break & profit from, for TTSA. Not for the govt or AATIP.

@BobMcGwier_N4HY @Heracli19402827 @MiddleOfMayhem @alejandrotrojas Oh I don't disagree at all. But after 5 years all we have to support AATIP running from 2012-2017 is unsubstantiated claims from Lue & co. I'm gonna need more than that.

And Lue's original story of AATIP & his role in it was very different from today's sideline portfolio story.

The big wing

Meanwhile, several Antelope Valley residents say they've seen a craft that simply strains credulity.

According to reports over the past two years, a vast black flying wing, estimated at between 600 and 800 ft. in width, has passed silently over city streets, empty desert and rural free-ways. The craft moved so slowly one observer said that he could jog along with it. A pattern of seemingly random white lights on the vehicle's black underside provided "constellation camouflage" against the starry sky. Observers who followed the craft long enough detailed unlikely maneuvers in which the vehicle stopped, rotated in place and hovered vertically, presenting a thin trailing edge to the ground.

Although such sightings encourage those who link the military with unearthly technology, a mammoth, quiet flying wing may have a conventional explanation: It could be a lighter-than-air craft pushed by slow-turning propellers. Certainly, such a vehicle could elude Doppler radar by slowing to a crawl. Alternatively, the fact that the craft holds station vertically suggests that it might serve as a huge re-

Lil: No. There was no smell at all.

Dr. L: Did you notice if there was any smell when you arrived at the site where the creature was kneeling?

Val: No. There was no smell.

Dr. L: Are you absolutely sure? I am asking this because there are many rumors about this case and some of the witnesses have claimed there was a foul odor.

Val: I am absolutely sure there was no smell whatsoever.

My search of the literature concerning this case reports the following episode, pertaining to the mother of the two girls who were sisters, Luiza Helena Fatima de Silva. It states she saw the alien creature in Jardim Andere district on January the 20th and reported a peculiar smell when she went to the park at 4:00 PM. I personally questioned Mrs. Silva in reference to this statement and she denied it. I believe this is an important issue, as the rumors of strange smells have become associated with this case. I questioned Bira about this story and he told us the case was filled with rumors, which totally disregarded the facts.

@Owlsyu @MickWest FLIR1 was online in 2007. Not sure how deeply they investigated but the USG claimed they couldn't locate the Nimitz member who leaked it.:backhand_index_pointing_down: The leak was recognized in 2009 and was removed from the original source (tho already well copied.)

@Owlsyu @MickWest Note the 2007 FLIR1 video leak wasn't learned until 2009!

I wonder if sudden knowledge of this leak caused AAWSAP to bring in counter-intel Lue in 2009? Ironic, if so, as Lue would later famously leak the FLIR1 video in 2017 (possibly while largely posing AAWSAP as an AATIP.)

@Phillipjeffre16 To be clear, I'm not suggesting that the 2007 FLIR1 leak was related to AAWSAP or directly caused Elizondo's hiring. But maybe (because they only learned about the leak in 2009) AAWSAP brought in counter-intel!

Lue has said that leaks caused his hire at AAWSAP but no specifics.

@Phillipjeffre16 Yeah the FLIR1 def leaked in 2007! German imaging company, ATS, blah-blah (link:backhand_index_pointing_down:)

But if the vid leak that caused Elizondo to hire at AAWSAP was the same vid he would later leak himself in 2017 while plagiarizing the AAWSAP story as AATIP! I can see it.

@19k0011 Per usual, Lue's words are ambiguous & subject to interpretation. Maybe he meant every word. Maybe it was a Freudian slip alluding to his deception & bullshit. Maybe he worded it like that on purpose for the draw (there's no bad publicity.) Either way he's deceived the community.

2022-05-20T00:23:04+00:00

https://twitter.com/_/status/1527444760960589824

@19k0011 I'm with you, no disagreement on Lue's words. IMO he wasn't exposing such a bombshell but referring to what he started for AAWSAP in 2008; brought in as counter-intel for people in the ufo community who were doing some BS spooky-distance studies (AAWSAP) cos they'd had a leak.

But whether he is or not, to what extent & his motivations I can only best speculate. IMO Lue's 1st motive since 2017 has been profit. 2nd help Mellon.

in expediting the process. Judge Pohl and Trivett engage in some back and forth as the judge tries to gain a better understanding of whether anyone on the prosecution side has any additional information about the nature of the hold-up in the interpreter's being read into Special Access Program. Judge Pohl expresses frustration with the diffusion of responsibility surrounding clearances and asks Trivett to track down the name of the "faceless bureaucrat" in Washington responsible for the clearance issue, and whom he might push to either explain the nature of the delay, or to expedite the process.

The Court then recesses for lunch.

Judge Pohl calls the Commission back into session at 1:41 pm, now with defendant Ramzi Binalshibh in attendance. Trivett reports back to Judge Pohl that the point of contact for the clearance issue is the program manager for the National Programs Special Management staff in the office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence. @zazzafrazz @MHuntington7 Aw shucks, thanks Zazz! Yes I've been semi-into the topic since a 1997 sighting but I didn't truly start properly researching it until 2017!

I was lucky to learn "believe nothing without first verifying" fast & early. But I understand how claims from authorities are convincing.

This letter, itself simply an unsubstantiated claim by then-private citizen Harry Reid, is not valid evidence verifying Elizondo's own unsupported claims;

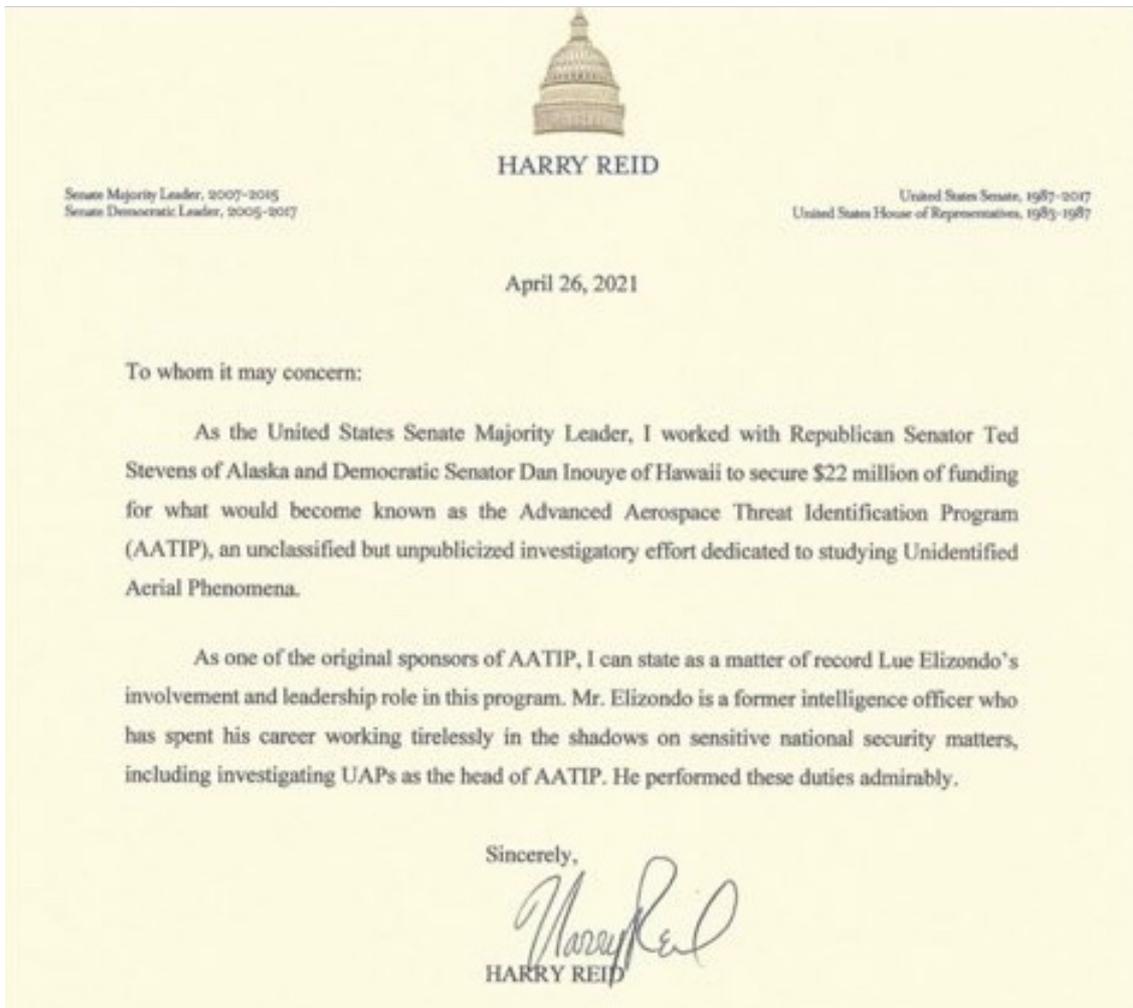

Reid doesn't provide anything more than: "Take my word for it, my buddy Elizondo's credibility is good."

@a01744 Indeed, the biggest lessons from Weinstein, Harris & other recent celebrity academic forays into Disclosure should be:

Nobody is above reproach or credulity. Arguments from authority are ALWAYS to be considered fallible & held to the burden proof regardless of the authority.

What has so far been released to the public by the USG has been minimal. No one I know wants to incinerate credibility by becoming a true believer over a tiny number of relatively low quality USG videos which, to me, prove absolutely nothing.

No direct evidence to support NHI.
