Thursday, 26 August 1999 will quite possibly be the last flight for the SR-71. For the next two years or so, our three A's and one B will be in flyable storage and if there are no programs, they go to the museum or bone yard. So after I launch her out, AF 617980 might be the last flying Blackbird. I hope not, but dollars don't come easy these days.
