

Subj: Area 51 and Groom Lake in _Le Monde_

Date: Fri, Dec 9, 1994 4:40 AM PDT

From: PHARABOD@FRCPN11.IN2P3.FR

The existence of Area 51 and Groom Lake has appeared yesterday in the most serious French newspaper, _Le Monde_, December 7, 1994. In an article "Après la mort de six techniciens - Un journal britannique revele l'existence d'une base secrete dans le Nevada", _Le Monde_ quotes _The Observer_ which reports the existence of a secret military base named "Area 51" in the Nevada. It is said that six people, one of them named Robert Frost, died after manipulating dangerous materials. They speak briefly also of the U2, Blackbird and Aurora. _The Observer_ (December 4) publishes also a photo made by an ex-Soviet satellite (it seems that _Le Monde_ ignores the article published in _Popular Science_ a few months ago).

J. Pharabod