Hi Glenn,

I've always enjoyed your work. I have a couple questions about Jarod 2, if you would so indulge me.

First, what does Jarod 2 think of abductions? I remain highly skeptical, to say the least, that there is a "mass abduction" frenzy going on. I think there has been one abduction, the Hill case. The rest have profound problems that go beyond this small letter. However, I do often wonder whether the whole abduction craze might be fostered by authors complicit with a central propaganda campaign to make aliens "scary". I can see fear of aliens being more useful to the government than alien worship when the Big Announcement is made (if ever). So, I was just wondering what Jarod 2 thought of it.

Second, I was wondering about alien personalities. Do they have a sense of humor? Tempers? Do they enjoy physical activity like sports? Do they have genders? Are they even truly alive, or are they biological robots? I would tend to believe that they are biological robots, not flesh-and-blood "aliens", for various reasons.

Finally, have you ever spotted any internal inconsistencies in his story that made you question his credibility? Or does he come across like he's simply telling the story of his life as he remembers it?

Anyway, if you ever get a chance to ask Jarod 2 about these things, I would very much appreciate it. He sounds like an interesting guy to get to know.

Thanks,

Brian Zeiler
