You should read a book by Umberto Eco called "Foucault's Pendulum" (sorry but I don't remember the publisher). The main character and his associates try reconstructing history by looking for links between stories (folklore) about the Templars, Illuminati, etc. as you propose to do with the government cover-up stories. It turns out to be difficult (or rather, much too easy) to do. Read it when you have some spare time, I think you would enjoy it.
