DoD Directives on Use of Deadly Force

Air Force Instruction 31-101 provides guidance on use of Deadly Force. The circumstances under which deadly force may be employed, however, are not USAF, but DoD directives. DoD Dir. 5210.56 specifies these situations.

Here are a few excerpts from DoD 5210.56:

- Deadly force may be used in protection of DoD assets designated as vital to the national security. This includes Priority A, B, or C assets, and other assets specifically designated by the installation commander [Note: Presidential Support is an example of a "Priority A" asset..-Randy]
- Deadly force may be used while performing official duties when you reasonably believe yourself or others to be in imminent danger of death or serious bodily harm.
- Deadly force may be used to prevent serious violent offenses that could result in death or critical bodily harm.
- Deadly force may be used when it appears necessary to arrest or apprehend a person suspected of committing an offense as specified above
- It is important to note -- use the MINIMUM AMOUNT of force necessary when conditions warrant the use of force. If you use excessive force in discharging your assigned responsibilities, you are subject to administrative or judicial action.

I recommend that someone try to get a copy of 5210 through FOIA.
