Subject: Corso Crapola

GREETINGS TO THE LIST -- Carolyn Duce-Ashe, editor of "La Mirada," reports the following in her current issue:

At Corso's book signing/love in/pressconference in Roswell, Carolyn asked him about the lack of documentation for his claims. Corso responded, "[I] had thousands of pages of information which I gave to my co-author, who took it and put it into a [barely!!] readable language." (Hmm, does the use of the article a mean the thousands of pages were in something other than English?) He then added, "There wasn't room for documentation after the story was told." This he followed with, "But I'm working on another book, and maybe the documentation will be in the next book."

(Quotes from "La Mirada," the bimonthly journal of the Southwest Research Associates, No. 7, August 3, 1997, p. 6. Ten-issue subscriptions, $15 from "La Mirada," POB 2786, Corrales, NM 87048. SWA is a private research group based in Albuquerque.

N.B.: I'm NOT a SWA associate, merely a "La Mirada" subscriber. Defenders of the Roswell Myth, please don't tar Carolyn and SWA with the brush you swing at me.)

-- Cheers to all (well, almost all), KARL deBUNKER
