Subject: Lazar viewpoints

I was just curious, but when I was watching the Discovery special the other day, they did a segment about when Bob brought gene the yelling machine up to see his spectacular lights in the sky. Has Mr Lazar ever told anyone exactly where those viewpoints are? According to his account, the craft never flew very far or to very high altitudes. This would lead us to believe that such viewpoints would give us some view of the papoose area. I don't believe the lazar story at all, but if there is any credibility to it, this would sem to be an important detail.
