A B-1 bomber draped with ice in a hangar.

I looked into it a little a few years ago. I think the base is now decommissioned.

I have detailed topo maps of the area, and it is not as remote as it seems.

The base is next to a public golf course!

IMHO, the most it might have been is an emergency landing strip for black programs.

With all this intrest in Area 51 / Groom Lake. Don't you think that the US Military would have moved any "intresting" activities else were?? I think that rather than hunting for UFOs at Area 51, shouldn't we be looking for where they might have moved them??
