Mr. Campbell,

This is your notice required by law to remove all material which was written by me or that is attributed to me immediately. All of my writings and speeches are copyrighted and anything written by me or that was spoken by me that appears on any of your web sites is an infringement of my copyright. Remove all material attributed to me whether actually written or spoken by me or not. Failure to do this immediately will result in the filling of suit in US District Court in the State of Arizona.

I have also found on this web site articles, paragraphs, and portions of other writings that are bold faced lies, libel, slander, and otherwise injurious statements and writings. You are hereby noticed that you are to remove all such infringements upon my lawfully protected rights immediately. Failure to do this immediately will result in the filling of suit in US District Court in the State of Arizona.

You are instructed to also cease and desist from selling any publication, flyer, book, video tape, audio tape, or any other media immediately which has any of my writings or that contains lies, slander, or libel concerning me or my activities immediately. Failure to do this immediately will result in the filling of suit in US District Court in the State of Arizona.

Please... continue to fuck with me and make my day.

Your worst nightmare,
William Cooper

Dear Mr. Cooper:

Thank for your email message of 1/28/97 claiming copyright infringement and slander on my website.

I see several issues pending:

- 1) How do I know you are really William Cooper? Your email address says "Harvest Trust", and anyone can claim to be anyone on the internet. If you can provide a phone number or send me a letter, that would be more convincing.
- 2) I am unaware of any copyright infringement of your work on my website. If you can provide the URLs of specific documents that you believe are infringing on your copyright, I would be happy to look at them to see if some action should be taken on this matter.
- 3) If you feel that any documents on my website are "bold faced lies,
