RE: Corso's "Time Machine" slip on Dateline?

Maybe Corso inadvertantly revealed what the the USAF is really up to. [They have a time machine.]

After all they were able to drop some dummies from a balloon in 1953 and managed to have them land in roswell in 1947!

LARGE CAPACITORS

Date: Sun, 22 Jun 1997 00:50:46 +0000
 From: [Withheld by request]
 Subject: capacitors

I'm writing to you about the capacitors you speak of in your saucer simulator article. I'm an electrical engineer that has seen capacitors of that magnitude and power capacity. As you are fully aware, capacitors store energy...but it is also used to control energy. In electrical circuits we frequently use capacitors to "filter" out noise. These capacitors are not the types of capacitors than I would be familiar with, but I propose would have a similar function. The function that I would hypothesize would be to filter the "electro-gravitational" noise created by our planet. In essence, the capacitors would be there to help control the artificial "electro-gravitational" field by filtering out the earths gravitational field.

[Later response to a query from me. --GC....]

With regards to documentation on large capacitors (20 Farads or greater), it is hard to find. My research in this field was limited to the use of large capacitors in rapid charging of electric vehicles.

What I can say for sure, is that large capacitors of this magnitude are produced in Russia; that's what the stamp says on the capacitors I've used. They are the foremost experts on capacitor technology. What triggered my theory was the description of the capacitors in the simulator, and my knowledge of electromagnetic physics. I'll look through my documents to see if I can find a reference for you on large capacitors.

UFO TRACKED ON RADAR

Subject: UFO TRACKING
From: ASEGAI@aol.com

My brother is an Air Traffic Controller at O'Hare airport in Chgo. Several years ago he was in Fort Wayne, Ind. He informed me that he tracked a ufo on his radar screen. Now I'm a believer on this subject although I was somewhat disbelieving of this info. I asked him how he knew it was a ufo and not a plane, heli-copter or whatever. His reply..... There is nothing known to man that can move that fast and perform the moves it did in that amount of time. My bro has no reason to bs me and he has several awards for outstanding work in his field. He has also had the pleasure of working for NASA on different projects

BOOMS & LIGHTS IN PHOENIX

From: [withheld by request]
Date: Fri, 27 Jun 1997 9:50:00
Subject: Yet another mystery sonic boom
To: campbell@ufomind.com

Last night, Thursday June 26th, at 9:40PM our house in north Scottsdale was shaken (yet again) by a very strong sonic boom. Note that this is the second time we've had a boom at 9:40PM (I sent you a note previously about another boom on Tuesday, June 17th, at 9:40PM .)

Seems like our friends in the government have been pretty busy in our area lately. I wonder if they're simply flying more aircraft, need to fly a particular flight path that takes them over our area, or what. (Can't help speculating that there's a connection to the the "Phoenix lights" belonged to them as well, since the lights disappeared near Tucson, which is right by Davis-Monthan AFB. Maybe these guys have a wing-shaped blimp?)

An amusing newscast on the Phoenix lights incident recently had a "breakthrough explanation" of them that I think you'll appreciate. The showed footage of a stationary string of lights -- which were flares dropped over the bombing range south of Phoenix -- with the newscasters claiming, "there we have it, now we know what they were." What was amusing was that during the unscripted chit-chat (the close-captioning of the newscast shows the script, so you can tell when they're reading or not) was that one newsie points out that the Phoenix lights moved from Prescott to Tucson, and the flares didn't move and burned out in 5 minutes. Newsie #2 points out that they had exclusive footage of the flares due to a mysterious caller who told them where and when to look for them. (HMMMM. Who would know where and when the Air Force would drop flares over their test range???)

ROSWELL ON AUSTRALIAN TV, JULY 4

Date: Wed, 25 Jun 1997 18:54:46 -0400 (EDT)
Subject: Roswell 50 Years Later - In Australia
From: Dennis Lapcewich <Dennis.Lapcewich@UniSA.edu.au>

On the Fourth of July (how appropriate!), the Channel Ten network in Australia will broadcast a world premiere (their words, not mine) television program devoted to Roswell's 50th anniversary of the alleged UFO crash. Channel Ten is the unofficial UFO network in the Land Down Under. They have the stories on the nightly news about ufo sightings, Area 51, etc., the other two commercial networks just don't carry.

Whether this program truly is a world premiere, or just a rebadged US program with added Aussie content, remains to be seen.

Question for this list (not related to the above): Any thought Area 51 may be part of the Tesla-style scalar weapons testing allegedly occurring in Australia? For the uninitiated, this is what as known as HAARP apparently taking place in Alaska.

I have been told by a friend who works for a large, national company that delivers food and other supplies to Groom Lake, Nellis AFB and the entire complex, the following:

There are Three (3) checkpoints that must be entered before you can enter Area 51, The first is American Military, the Second is RUSSIAN MILITARY, and the third is Russian & American Security forces. Have you heard this? If this is true, then obviously something fishy is going on.

The government insists that there was no U.F.O. in Roswell and that there is nothing in Area 51. If this is true, why can we not get anywhere near Area 51?

Why hasn't a few thousand interested people just gotten together and walked in en masse? I just can't imagine that the U.S. government would open fire on thousands of American citizens. Hundreds maybe. I'm sure there are thousands who would walk in if they were accompanied by that many others. Besides, the government is supposed to answer to "us" isn't it?!!!
