Hi all,

Last night (3/2/97) the Learning Channel had on two interesting shows. The first was 'Future Fantastic' hosted by Gillian Anderson which was about aliens, etc. and had a portion on our favorite area featuring none other than our very own Glenn Campbell. One compelling quote (OK--paraphrase) was that Glenn said that since he moved out to NV he became convinced that the USG could keep secrets as monumentous as alien contact (or as prosaic as stealth technology) with all the hidden valleys and nooks and crannies in the landscape...pardon me if I mis-paraphrase. They even had a slim Bob Lazar strutting across the desert landscape toward the camera as an intro to his segment. Then they went into the usual speil about how the aliens could traverse the vast interstellar distances...blah, blah, blah...they did have some cool video of the base from a distance.

The second show had a segment on a new documentary film called, "Trinty and Beyond" or something similar. Apparently, the director spend three years restoring military films of nuclear detonations. The results are phenomenal--I can't wait 'til it comes to a theatre near me.

PS Today I received my posters of the Area51 Research Center's new satellite photo. And I must say it is really, REALLY cool! Everyone on this list should have one and at the price ($5), it is a steal. Check it out at: <http://www.ufomind.com/catalog/s/sat/>
