I was on my way from Flagstaff to Laughlin Thursday when I saw the light formation reported on the radio the other night. I'm a pilot and was in the u.s. air force 4 years. Being in the mountains on highway 40, the night was clear and still. As the formation came towards me I stopped my car and got out with my binocs to check out what this was. As it came towards me, I saw 5 aircraft with there running lights (red and green) and the landing lights (white) on. They were also flying fairly slow and in the delta formation. As they went over me I could see stars going between the aircraft so it could not have been one large ship. The flying was like that of the Blue Angels or the thunderbirds demo team. Also as they went buy their jets were not very loud because of the low throttle setting for flying slow but I did hear the jets as they went away towards the south.

I talked to Linda Howe a little earlier today on the phone and she told me what other people saw. Some sound a little different. With smog and haze and lights of a city or the direction of the aircraft when you see them could make all the difference in the world. I do know aircraft and they were jets but in the dark it's hard to see dark figures. I go to a lot of air shows and next one I will check out their running lights and see if any match. These where very bright and large.

Editor's Note: I have seen the video of the orange lights and although I am no expert and wasn't there they looked like atmospheric reflections (mirages) of sodium vapor street lamps.

AIR FORCE IN DENIAL

I sent e-mail to the Air Force and they also told me that they didn't know what I was talking about regarding the Arizona sightings! I replied to them be saying what I'm talking about isn't from this earth and if you don't like it, too bad!

They are either in denial that something can penetrate their airspace or they are just ordered to say they don't know. I think it is a combination of these two things.
