Glen...

I'm amazed and delighted that you've given my good friend, Sean, his own page on your Web Site! What a wonderful obsession.

I think it's pretty ballsy of you to say, "Regarding Area 51, Sean blatantly rips off the work of others..." since Sean was there way back in 91, before you ever even set foot in the place and began to make YOUR living off it.

I've known Sean has a good friend for about 2 years now, and I can say without reservation that he is NOT a liar or a fraud.

Is he mistaken, indeed, even DELUDED on some issues? You bet; but HE also has a strong enough ego to admit when he's wrong; I've even told him, to his face, in FRONT of others that I think he's full of shit on some things.

So what? Fact is, this ENTIRE field is the biggest collection of loonies, fanatics, and people CERTAIN that THEY and ONLY THEY have a lock on the truth. Sean DOES have access to plenty of raw information; the challenge is to ferret out the distortions and try to find what's real.

For all I(or you, for that matter) know, it's the NUTTIER STUFF that's actually true; and the stuff I think is for real is the falsehood.

Will you have the courage to print this in your newsletter?

Thank you, sir. I'm enjoying the "Jarod" stuff. Did you catch the "alien autopsy" stuff on the tube the other night? Looked bogus to me; the look of the piece suggested TWO cameras, cutting from one to the other.....and it sure looked better than a hand held camera should.

As I said, I think Sean is sometimes deluded and full of shit, BUT I've NEVER known the guy to deliberately mislead or be dishonest. That just ISN'T him.
