Just a quick not to let you know that while I was channel surfing last Saturday morning I came upon a cartoon adventure program called Action Man. This is your basic mindless super hero good guys vs the very very bad guys. Most of it has to do with flying around in spaceships, ray guns, etc.

In one segment near Action Man's base on earth there was a scene where in the background was a large sign that said "Welcome to Area 51." There were other words on the sign as well but I could read them because the shot was about one second in length.

I am sorry, but I don;t know what network this was on. Check local listings.
