Our Review

Opinion of the webmaster, subject to debate

Randle examines alleged cases of UFO crashes and presumed government retrievals around the world, dismissing many of them as hoaxes or "Insufficient Data", but leaving the door open to a few. Included sites are the Roswell, the Plains of San Agustin, Ubatuba, Brazil, Las Vegas, Kecksburg, and many others. (These aliens must be the worst drivers in the galaxy, and the government crash retrieval teams must be incredibly efficient. ) Of particular interest is the Appendix, which contains a database of alleged UFO crashes from 1862 to 1989 and a classification system for their validity; a list of witnesses; a 14-page bibliography; and 30 pages of footnotes. Even if none of these crashes actually took place, the references alone are worth the price. -- tm/gc
