Publisher's Synopsis

In 1976, NASA sent four Viking spacecraft to Mars to photograph the planet and test for the presence of life. One of the orbiters photographed a mile-long mesa that uncannily resembled a human face. Hoagland takes readers step by step through the NASA images and evidence that a former civilization may have lived on Mars.

A completely revised and updated editions featuring computer-colored images of the Cydonia structures on Mars, a discussions of the loss of NASA's Mars Observer spacecraft and its implications, and recommendations for the 1996 Mars mission. Includes a description of the anomalous structures discovered by Hoagland's team in NASA's moon photographs. With state-of-the-art imaging and scientific analysis, Hoagland presents striking evidence for a hypothesis that our solar system has been home to ancient extraterrestrial civilizations.
