Explanation of Ratings

This is one of my favorite films. It blew me away as a kid, and I am still trying to figure out what it means. Why did HAL go crazy? Why really happened to Keir Dullea at the end. At lot of recent movies have better special effects, but none can convey the same existential loneliness.

This tape is sold both in a "letterbox" edition, showing the full width of the movie screen, and standard TV edition. -- Glenn Campbell

From the Book Cover

2001 s a spectacular movie that grows more wondrous with each viewing. Awesome in scope, Stanley Kubrick's masterpiece explores the mysteries of space... and of human destiny.

"A uniquely poetic piece of science fiction," 2001 is "hynotically entertaining; technically and imaginatively it is staggering" (The New Yorker). Kubrick's special effects border on the miraculous -- a quantum leap in quality over any sci-fi film ever made" (Newsweek).

As producer, director and co-writer of the screenplay (with Arthur C. Clark), Kubrick brought complex ideas to the screen with astounding immediacy through dazzling special effects that won a much-deserved Academy Award. Moving from the prehistoric birth of intelligence to the emergence of man as pure thought, 2001 is a remarkable achievement.

Director of photography Geoffrey Unsworth brings you a respendent universe, while the stately music of Strauss makes the galaxies sing. The entire film is a stunning, sensual marvel -- a cinematic experience like no other before or since.
