Explanation of Ratings

Credibility = Very High: In general, this category is a rating of the author's intellectual discipline and the strength of his argument (which are very high), not the veracity of his claims (which could be false in spite of the strong argument).

This massive encyclopedia of afterlife claims is well worth the low price. Over 250 entries cover all kinds of beliefs about death, from ancient mythology and religion to modern investigations into death-near experiences. If you are interested in death and the afterlife -- or the history of people's beliefs about it -- this is the first place to start. Included are articles on ancient cultures, prominent philosophers and philosophies, religious movements, research organizations... virtually everything connected with a belief about the afterlife. Each entry includes a list of sources. -- Glenn Campbell
