Our Review

Opinion of the webmaster, subject to debate

Credibility	Research Value	Cultural Interest	Visual Information	Style	Silliness	Wow Factor	Bargain
5	5	5	0	2	2	4	4
Very High	Very High	Very High	None	Awkward	Low	Surprising	High

Explanation of Ratings

Credibility = Very High: In general, this category is a rating of the author's intellectual discipline and the strength of his argument (which are very high), not the veracity of his claims (which could be false in spite of the strong argument).

Style = Awkward: Typewritten report.

A report on the wave of "Phantom Airship" sightings in England in 1912 and 1913, including a catalog of several hundred sightings as reported in local newspapers. The text puts the sightings into historical perspective and attempts to analyse their statistical makeup. This short report represents a significant research effort. Includes a general map of airship sightings during the wave.

Reservations

Although the sightings catalog is lengthy, sources are not given for individual sightings. This prevents us from looking up the original newspaper articles.

Information from the Publisher

Always supportive

From the Book Cover

The purpose of this project was to collect as much of the available data about one airship scare as possible (our main source was newspaper files). We then put the sighting reports into chronological order. Having assembled this vast mass of information into a useable form we hope that it will help us understand the dynamics of an individual scare and that this data might be compared to other airship (or modern-day UFO) scares to see if they have similar characteristics or not.
