

> be an agent of an intelligence or law enforcement agency "probing"
> for classified or proprietary material from list members (material > they have been entrusted with).
> so why us not in the know about, say, Aurora can discuss it openly, a > Lockheed or USAF employee who has access to that classified and/or > confidential material should not.
>
> And if your local, state, or federal (gov't) law is significantly > different from the above US Code, adhere to the rules in your part of > the world, of course :)
>
> Dan

Since the list server is located in US, I believe US Federal Law applies to posts from all members of the list, regardless of where they reside.

Naturally, there are very severe penalties for breaching an NDA (non disclosure agreement) for both military and civilian personnel working on sensitive projects. Individuals from other countries revealing US government secrets may be subject to extradition to the US for trial and upon conviction to incarceration. In addition to this, they may be prosecuted by authorities in their own country, especially if that country is bound by treaty with the US. To top it all off, the US government reserves the right to carry out clandestine operations anywhere in the world should US national security or US interests be threatened or compromised.

Information in the public domain only please.

Sam

Next Message | Previous Message | List Surrounding Messages

This archive of mailing list messages is provided as a free public courtesy. It is maintained automatically. The webmaster has no control over content, does not review these messages and accepts no liability for the accuracy of information contained herein. Responsibility for this material rests solely with the author and mailing list moderator (if any).

Note: This is a temporary archive only; this message will be deleted eventually. See main page for more info.

Mailing lists archived on this server

*
***
*****
*****
*****

This site is supported by the Research Center Bookstore.
Please visit our catalog if you appreciate our free web services.

Created: Sat Jun 19 10:07:37 EDT 1999