A Latino/conspiracy angle on Roswell claims

A curious Hispanic angle on the Roswell claims can be found on the "Latino Link" website at...

From the "XX Files": The "Real" Truth about "Aliens" in the U.S.A.

By Roberto Rodriguez & Patrisia Gonzales

They lied to us about Roswell. Of course. They also lied to us about the Mexican-American War and Columbus. So what haven't they lied to us about?...

Curiously, in all the current media mania over the 50th anniversary of the "Roswell Incident," the name of Lincoln LaPaz, an expert in meteoritics and a key figure in the government investigation, appears nowhere...

According to heavily censored government documents given to us by a former intelligence agent, code-named "XX" (or "Dos Equis"), whom we met at one of the bars that LaPaz visited, scores of ranch hands in the area also stumbled onto the bodies of three or four aliens. The laborers left hastily to other parts of the country, afraid that the government would make them "disappear" because of what they had seen.

The article goes on to explain how LaPaz interviewed Hispanic migrant workers about this Roswell crash, and thus was able to learn the craft's trajectory.

Information for this article supposedly comes from a anonymous intelligent agent.

"Dos Equis" confided in us that the so-called presidential "scandals" of the past few decades have in fact been manufactured by forces more powerful than the presidency. When presidents have been close to revealing the truth about aliens, they have been removed or thoroughly discredited. Our source claims that the answers to all these mysteries lie in two places: Texas and Mexico.

This article seems heavily conspiracy oriented, but with an interesting twist: An aledged program to deport migrant workers to suppress their Roswell testimony.
