Sherman criticism from Bill Stockstill

After interviewing Mr. Sherman and having read his book there seem to be at least 2 undeniable facts. #1 is that he has not produced 1 official government document that pertains to his military duty. Even Bob Lazar has produced check stubs. If he can come out with this story, he can surely produce documentation of his military career. #2 is that no one has done a thorough background investigation (that I am aware of at least) that interviews his close friends, family, etc to see what kind of person he is. All we have is a fantastical story from a person that has not proven he was an ELINT officer and that we do not know anything about character wise.

Besides these 2 points, I have problems with some of his actions. First off if a stranger told me that my mother was abducted, I would have confronted her with it and would have tried to investigate that. Next, he states that he wants to have others involved to come forth and confirm his story. But what has he done to find others besides selling his book and doing interviews? Has he placed ads in military journals and newspapers? Has he staked out NSA and tried to confront likely new recruits that were being transported in the special van? Has he tried to persuade the others that he knew were involved in the program? Lack of action such as this could be seen as confirming that his story is bogus: why waste time searching for something that doesn't exist?

Another thing is why just come out and write a book on this? Why not hire an investigator to try and get some evidence...anything that he could get from the location of the training center to names of new recruits? Medical tests on himself to prove the tampering by aliens? After obtaining evidence he could have gone to the news media to present his case.

Its a good story, but without a shred of evidence or without any knowledge of Mr. Sherman's character, I would have to say that I am not a believer.

Produce some documents relating to his military service, investigate his background and find that he is a credible person. Investigate whether his mother was abducted. Do some medical tests on him to check for abnormalities. Identify and interview his PPD contacts. Find some proof that he is actively trying to contact PPD personnel to come forward with their stories. These are things that need to be done before believing his story.

Sincerely,

Bill Stockstill
