What government agency are you working for. It seems to me that the soul purpose of your web site is to discredit the existence of highly advanced alien technology beening used or onced used at the site. I researched the sight years before it became publicly known. I have proof of highly advanced technology being used these. I used remote controlled low flying aeroplanes to fly over around the sight many times. I onced used a high powered remote jet plane to fly close to one of there active test planes at night. I got film that would make a believer of anyone. I am a technologist in various fields. One of my fields is researching and developing antigravity & antigravity applications. My efforts have had many turns, many failures, few steps forward. Just recently the University of Tampere has stumbled on an antigravity device. It purposes a low antigravity force field but there is potential in there discovery. My point is, Area 51 have crafts that purpose antigravity force fields making them virtual weightless. I have seen these things floating for hours on end without using any landing devices. They have been using this technology for decades. My conclusion is that they are using stolen alien technology or hiding the greatest scientific human discovery for decades. I also know this, my sources say that due to the recent popularity of the area that certain departments and projects have been moving secretly to another location. My sources say that it is most likely alien technology. Why are they moving, maybe they are hiding from the aliens and not from the public. If you had something of mine, I'd want it back.
