New Ufomind Mailing Lists and Features

Subject: New Ufomind Mailing Lists and Features

[Re-posted from the Area 51 Mailing List]

NEW INDEX LINK FEATURE

Readers of the Area 51 Mailing List may have noticed a couple of new lines at the bottom of recent messages. One is a bar composed of dashes: "-----", and the second is a line that begins: "Ufomind Index:". (In the samples below, I have deliberately inserted a ";" in the lines to prevent them from being processed in the web version.)

Ufomind Index: <http://www.ufomind.com/ufo/topic/sightings/>

When the message is stored on the web server, the line of dashes is converted into a bar (<HR> in HTML). This will happen to any dashed line as long as it is EXACTLY 10 characters long and there is nothing else on the line. Its purpose is merely esthetic.

The "Ufomind Index:" line is converted into a "reciprocal link." The URL given must specify an index page on the Ufomind server. (No other servers are allowed.) In the web version, the URL will be replaced by the title of that index page and a hot-link to it. At the same time, a link back to the message is automatically added to the index page.

This provides an indexing mechanism for mailing list messages. For example, all messages regarding Philip Corso would be added to his page and perhaps to his book. E.g.:

Ufomind Index: <http://www.ufomind.com/ufo/people/c/corso/>
Ufomind Index: <http://www.ufomind.com/catalog/c/corso/>

More than one "Ufomind Index:" line is allowed. These lines should appear as the last lines of a document (or as close to the bottom as possible).

I will add "Ufomind Index:" line to any messages where it seems appropriate. To save me the effort, message authors may do so also, but the moderator reserves the right to change this information.

NEW UFOMIND MAILING LIST

Taking advantage of the new link system described above, a new "Ufomind Mailing List" has been created to add miscellaneous documents to our server.

Unlike the Area 51 Mailing List, which is limited to Area 51 and peripheral topics, the new mailing list will cover ANY text document that the webmaster deems interesting and worth preserving on the server.

Although this mailing list is primarily a technical tool, we also make it available to others as a public service. Some people, especially those without reliable web access, may prefer to receive new documents by email.

Subscription procedures are the same as for the Area 51 mailing list. You have your choice of a single-copy and digest version.

For the archives, subscription information and statement of purpose, see <http://www.ufomind.com/misc/>

NEW WEB ARCHIVE FOR UFOMIND TECHNIQUES

The "Ufomind Contributors" mailing list described in an earlier message has been renamed to "Ufomind Techniques." It is a small, low volume list intended for people who commonly add links to our index pages.

It now has a new web archive at <http://www.ufomind.com/org/technique/>

PHILOSOPHY AND GAME PLAN

Mailing lists are one of the principal ways we build "content" on our website, so we are devoting a lot of attention to them. We now have three "native" mailing lists on the Ufomind server, all moderated by Glenn Campbell:

- The Area 51 Mailing List at <http://www.ufomind.com/area51/list/>
- The Ufomind Mailing List at <http://www.ufomind.com/misc/>
- The Ufomind Techniques Mailing List at <http://www.ufomind.com/org/technique/>

In addition, we provide an archive for the UFO UpDates Mailing List (moderated by Errol Bruce-Knapp) at <http://www.ufomind.com/ufo/updates/>

All of these mailing lists are expected to be permanently archived on our server. If you link to any individual message, you can have reasonable confidence that the address will never change.

In addition, we have been archiving the IUFO mailing list on an experimental basis at <http://www.ufomind.com/ufo/iufo/>. The trouble with this and many other lists is its low selectivity and high volume, which we cannot preserve indefinitely. (Thus addresses of messages are not guaranteed.) The future of our list archive for IUFO is in limbo. What we may do is simply provide a "rotating" archive of the most recent messages, without trying to preserve them indefinitely.

Glenn
