Ufomind Volunteer Section

You can help build the Ufomind website! We always need people to add interesting links to our index pages.

Anyone can add links to our pages via the "Add a New Link" option at the bottom of most index pages. To experiment with this system you can play with our practice page.

Our only criteria for new links is that they be both interesting and relevant to the index page you have chosen.

You could pick any index page on our site and do one or both of the following:

- Make sure the existing links still work and are appropriate to the page. If you encounter a broken link, You can fix it yourself by replacing the old URL with a new one if the site has moved. If you cannot find a replacement use the Feedback option at the bottom of the page to inform us.
- Use a search engine to try to find more documents on that topic elsewhere on the web. (Try the Web Search options found on every index page.)

You can also work in the opposite direction: If you stumble upon another website with a lot of interesting documents, you can link the individual documents or sections to the appropriate Ufomind pages.

Below are some sites you might want to start with. We encountered these while surfing, but we have not had a chance to go through them for useful links. (When you have gone through one of these sites and have linked everything interesting, please email the webmaster so we can remove that site from the list.)

We encourage suggestions for new topic and people pages on Ufomind. We can add them quickly if they make sense to us.

We also encourage you to build your own website on any specialized area where you think our website is lacking, and link it to ours. Our site is like a library card catalog: we still need interesting work to connect to, and we think that every net citizens needs their own website to cover their specific interests. There are no lack of general-interest UFO and paranormal websites, but too few sites focus on specific cases and sub-topics. We encourage you to become a specialist in a certain area that interests you and build a website on that topic.

You should also be aware that we get 100s of email messages a day, and our queue of messages often becomes backed up. Please keep your requests simple and brief, and whenever possible, use the tools we provide to make changes yourself. (If you ask the webmaster to add or change a link, it could take a while, but if you do it yourself, it happens right away.)

To help support us financially, please patronize our on-line bookstore which provides the sole financial support for this website.
