Microchip Conspiracies

The Claim: The government plans to install identifying microchips in human babies to track them, similar to the ID chips now implanted into pets. In a related conspiracy, the government is already tracking the activities of citizens via an apparent magnetic strip found in U.S. paper currency.

Bio-chip national i.d. cards/money trail

I feel that the National I.D. card, will become a reality. They already have it in Canada. Most states will impliment a national ID. system, because the government will make it so, that they will have to give in. Follow the money trail. When the speed limit went down, states had to comply, because they would loose funding for the highway projects. There have been many other. In nebraska, they are being required to place all the Child Support collection offices into one office, by a certian date, or loose federal funding. What you think? is that what will happen to the national ID system.

is it possible that this is being tested on people this very moment with the abduction theory? And that the government is actually behind it and inplanting people? There have been abduction cases where people have things imbedded into them.
