Regarding "Aurora" - Latest First

Only picture in existence with donuts contrail+craft ?

I have a picture that was taken by a 35mm camera in Northern Montana, by the US/Canadian border on or about July 27, 1997. In the sky is a long donuts-on-a-rope vapor contrail. Ahead of the contrail, after the photo was enlarged, you can clearly see six lights, when you play "connect-the-dots" forms a delta-shaped craft, with one central dorsal fin. Beneath the back of the craft, below the dorsal fin you can see the thermal image of it's exhaust as it branches in two, like an "Y".

Well, you can be sure of one thing...

You don't just scratch the most effective reconnaissance aircraft project in history without something to replace it. Besides the fact that it is so effective, the red tape and costs associated with shutting down a program of that magnitude would be prohibitive, not including the politics within the pentagon and contracts with various companies.

The new kind dimension of earth warplanes

I used to get know of this from various source. But to this time, this type of warplane do exist for a long time. Before we use to get know of it, but what we do achieve in our latest earthbase warplane it is real and do exist in our technology and history. But it always denies by the whoever made the guidelines of secrecy and dark budget without our knowledge.

The Aurora is possible

Hello....i have been stuiding the ramjet and the scramjet engine for a long time now...and i dont see how all these computer generated pics of the Aurora spy plane are possible. For a ramjet to work you need to get to mach 2 or 3 before the ramjet creates thrust...and the scramjet needs mach 7 or 8. All these pics are impossible and could not work...but i think the aurora spyplane is very similar to these pics.
