Dispatches from Richard Boylan

5th World Transit-3

From: rich.boylan@24stex.com
 Date: Tue, 05 May 98 02:55:00 -0800
 Subject: 5th World Transit-3

Q18: Does the emergence soon into the open of extraterrestrial science and technology mean that human society can restructure to live in ecological harmony with the Earth while still having a high culture?

My answer: Yes. With Free Energy, and the inspiration of the extraterrestrials' nonpolluting technologies, there is no reason why Earth cannot advance to a more sophisticated and pollution-free society.

j) Global Economics:

Q19: A significant number among the ultrawealthy elite fear that open contact with extraterrestrial cultures will lead to collapse of traditional financial systems, the devaluation of many traditional stores of value (oil, uranium, coal, utility stocks, etc.), and even the loss of the psychological drive to accumulate ever-increasing wealth. Is that likely? Is that bad? What is your considered view?

My answer: The plutocratic oligarchy, who control the Earth through such structures as the Trilateral Commission, the Council on Foreign Relations and the Bilderberg Society, have good reason to fear that their unjust and obscene concentration of the world's wealth into the hands of the few is about to come to an end. The extraterrestrials' emphasis on mental and spiritual development, rather than on technology and materialism, and their ethic of service to others, will seriously challenge the current so-called world order, which is based on a few living lavishly and arrogantly, while the majority of the Earth lack adequate food, health services and economic security. Faced with the choice, most on Earth will opt to end the concentration of Earth's resources in the hands of the privileged oligarchy. Such an economic and social revolution is long overdue. If the ETs' visit is an inspiration, so be it.

Q20: If open contact with the highly-communitarian extraterrestrial societies leads to economic reorganization of human society, which direction do you think such reorganization will go? Should go?

My answer: As we begin to experience, and then incorporate, social telepathic communication with the extraterrestrials among us, and then with each other, we will refashion our societies into more open, trusting, familiar networks. Deceit and evil intentions will have nowhere to hide, and will soon disappear, in a community where everyone can know what the others around them are thinking. Familiarity breeds stronger bonds, and is a more socially-leveling influence.

k) Military/Security:

Q21: The extraterrestrial presence means the theoretical availability of advanced ET allies with technology to interdict and stop any general military attack between countries on Earth. Should the peoples of Earth therefore dismantle their standing armies, except for a small, National Guard-level force to quell potential civil unrest?

My answer: Yes. We need to evolve now past the primitive stage of having large standing armies ready to attack on another. In the face of extraterrestrial contact, we need to give up our petty wars as ridiculous, and declare universal peace all over the Earth. Most wars are economic or territorial. ET technology will provide a basis for a world without want. As Earth is soon permitted to become a space-faring society, the urge to expand and explore the universe will be all the challenge any adventurer could want. A modest-sized internal policing force should therefore be sufficient for any country.

Q22: The extraterrestrials' Intergalactic Federation has communicated to us through experiencers the message that we humans need to give up our nuclear and Star Wars weapons if we wish to be permitted to become a space-faring society. Should we comply with that condition?

My answer: This is a no-brainer. Extraterrestrial contact has made our wars and preparations for war seem as petty as they are. The extraterrestrials are advanced enough to neutralize our nuclear and Star Wars weapons when they choose. Since these weapons are of no rational use on Earth or in space, let's junk them, and turn our scientists towards building clean energy technology to depollute the Earth and provide the necessities of a good life for all.

l) Probable Near-Future:

Q23: Given the psychic/remote viewer/extraterrestrial-predicted upcoming global environmental, social and economic crises and geophysical cataclysms, what should world leaders do to prepare their peoples for these circumstances?

My answer: The authorities need to steer a middle course which avoids leaving us sticking our heads in the sand and creating massive panic. Such a middle course involves the honest sharing of warning information about upcoming crises and cataclysms as it becomes known. Information is power. Rather than worrying about the effect of warnings on the stock market, leaders should focus on their duty to provide timely information, and to have public agencies and services prepared for all foreseeable circumstances. There should be public education campaigns about how to conduct oneself in earthquakes, tsunamis, hurricanes, stock market crashes, urban riots, etc.

Q24: What kind of Post-ET Contact human society do you want to see constructed?

A society which is a collection of real communities built on trust, mutual caring, an ethic of service to others, and shared values; a society which is grown up enough to welcome odd-looking visitors from far away and spend time getting to know them; a society which values the things of mind, heart and spirit more than bank accounts and country club membership; a society which has learned to live as much in harmony with the Earth as our Native American ancestors did, who have left not a single negative environmental impact; a society which is ready to reach out to the stars and expand our definition of what is home.
