Dispatches from Richard Boylan

Scalar Biowar

From: rich.boylan@24stex.com

Subject: Scalar Biowar

I ran across an interesting interview wiith retired Army Lt. Colonel Thomas Bearden, who worked in nuclear, aerospace and other engineering in sensitive projects. Apropos the current epidemic of health misfortune among ufologists, the following passage.

"Working in scalar energy "can do a lot of good as well as a lot of bad," says Tom Bearden. "Let's talk about some good and bad things you can do in terms of human beings. First of all, a Russian scientist named Kosnochev, who headed up a research institute in Siberia in those days, did some enormously important work.... As far as everybody else is concerned [he demonstrated] openly just normal electromagnetics -- but it wasn't. It was special stuff. He demonstrated that ANY KIND OF CELLULAR DISEASE WHATSOEVER, WITHOUT LIMITATION, CAN BE CAPTURED AND TRANSMITTED INTO OTHER CELLS _AT A DISTANCE_ USING THIS SPECIAL KIND OF ELECTROMAGNETICS."

"They did about 18,000 experiments, and research institutes can prove this. And so, of course, the KGB and so forth started weaponizing that effect very highly. You know for years [they used] the so-called microwave radiation on the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, where they induced all kinds of health changes. This was a limited test deliberately kept very small, although they did kill three ambassadors."

Lt. Col. Bearden goes on to say: "It's the ultimate biological warfare, of course. I'll say this flatly, and then I won't answer any further questions about it: the Gulf War Syndrome was induced.... It was induced with this stuff. All the rest ... was contributing factors that everybody's talking about. Yeah, you had a little bit of nerve gas released, yeah, you had some chemicals, yeah, you had this, but not everybody got those exposures.... It was a test."
