

Aliens On Earth.com

Resources for those who are stranded here

Our Bookstore is OPEN

Over 5000 new & used titles, competitively priced!

Topics: UFOs - Paranormal - Area 51 - Ghosts - Fortean - Conspiracy - History - Biography - Psychology - Religion - Crime - Health - Geography - Maps - Science - Money - Language - Recreation - Technology - Fiction - Other - New

Search... for keyword(s)

in Page Titles

Location: Mothership -> People -> B -> Boylan -> Dispatch -> SKC.1

NOTICE: The page below has been permanently FROZEN as of January 2000. Due to resource limitations, this section of our website is no longer maintained, so some links may not work and some information may be out of date. We have retained this page for archive reference only, and we cannot vouch for its accuracy. Broken links will not be repaired, and minor errors will not be corrected. You are responsible for independently verifying any information you may find here. More Info

Please disregard any requests for new information. Except in cases of significant error, no changes will be made to this page.

Dispatches from Richard Boylan

SKC.1

From: rich.boylan@24stex.com
Date: Tue, 16 Jun 98 21:50:33 -0800
Subject: SKC.1

REPORT ON THE STAR KNOWLEDGE GATHERING-LAS CRUCES
New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, New Mexico, MAY 8-10, 1998
by Richard Boylan, Ph.D.

As with the previous Star Knowledge Conferences at the Yankton Sioux Reservation in South Dakota, both Conferences in the Rockies at Estes Park, Colorado, and the Conferences at San Diego and at Santa Fe, the Star Knowledge Conference at Las Cruces was convened by Standing Elk, Yankton Dakota spiritual advisor.

Each Conference has been a gathering of tribal peoples and others to share and learn more about the past, current, and upcoming contacts with the Star Nations, and participate in Native American prayer, ceremony and healings. These Conferences are also occasions to deepen the skills essential for living in the dawning "Fifth World", as Earth becomes a cosmic society, and learns to live the Native American truth, Mitakuye Oyasin: "All Are My Relations".

A number of Native American elders, along with some non-Native experts, spoke on the Star Visitors' contacts, and corresponding human cultural, metaphysical and spiritual resonances. I was not able to attend a number of the speaker presentations, since I was also a speaker, and used some of the Conference time to confer with various other speakers. Nor is there space to do justice to every presentation. Thus, this report will cover a select few presentations deemed highly significant, and which have not been previously reported on.

Tascara, a Mayan teacher in his early twenties, turned away from street gang life in Los Angeles to reclaim his Mayan ancestral wisdom through study, astral travel, and from "the different dimension levels which talk to (him)." He described the Mayans as "technicians of power and light", and as "engineers of the Thirteen Dimensions". He shared information contained in the 20 Mayan tablets of the law of time and cycles, such as the 16-year Telektonon Cube of the Law and the Cycle of the Mayan Messengership. Commenting on the upcoming end of the Great Mayan Cycle in 2012, Tascara said, "Batal is a two-dimensional being who comes every 26,000 years, wipes everything out, and reestablishes everything."

Tascara also said, "we are born into a family, because we have affirmed that we can handle that soul group. We are ambassadors of the Light. The purity of our crystal temples is becoming a reality."

Switching gears, the Mayan teacher talked about Black Ops (secret Special Forces units). Tascara noted that Black Ops were involved in the L.A. Riots, and recently in the Bosnia-Herzegovina conflict, but that the two-day bilateral truce in Bosnia was due to angelic intervention. He noted with some compassion that "the Black Ops are caught in a routine," and that "we have to help them with their transition by loving them to death," the death of their old ways.

Tascara made the startling statement, "we all got a new immune system six months ago. Our immune system is to balance our three-dimensional self with the higher dimensional selves." He stated that people now have more than two DNA strands. "Some have six, some eight, up to twelve."

Tascara closed by observing, "To act as if you are the god/goddess is the highest joy, the highest fulfilment."

Blackfoot medicine man Rod Skenandore's name ought to be a household word. Rod is a founder of the American Indian Movement and helped get the 1978 Freedom of [Native American] Religion Act passed. He is honored by his people for being a protector of the oral traditions and ceremonies of the Star Visitor, White Buffalo Calf Woman, who gave the Plains Indians their true history, ceremonies and spiritual culture, and healing practices. As Medicine Man he has helped bring back the sacred Sun Dance as an annual observance by many tribes. But it is this Red hero's humility which is his most striking attribute. He freely acknowledges having spent part of his earlier life doing things of which he is not proud. But after getting back on the Red Road and recovering his spiritual heritage, Rod made up for lost time.

Skenandore spoke about being up on a craft of the Star Nations. What the White Man calls extraterrestrial encounters are nothing new to Native people. However, Indian people consider such contacts to be sacred events, since the Star People are such spiritual entities. And Skenandore, the proud fighter for Indian justice, has been tempered by his spiritual contacts. He spoke of his defining vision: "A warrior has become a hunter, looking for flowers."

DaEl Walker/Buffalo Hawk is a part-Cherokee elder in the Spirit Horse Medicine Society. He is expert in the traditional Native American use of crystals for healing. He brought with him to display an ancient crystal skull he has dubbed Rainbow, which produces different pictures and light patterns depending on which color (frequency) of light is shone through it. A number of other Native elders were quite interested in the crystal skull, and felt that it held power.

David Shoemaker is a man of several talents: gemologist, birding guide and photographer. But the extraordinary thing that caused this Red Rock, New Mexico man to be invited to address the Star Knowledge Conference is his having in his possession what he says is material from a crashed star craft (UFO). Furthermore, this New Mexico gemologist produces pages of laboratory analysis of the exotic fragments, which indicate that some of the material is of artificial origin, and that the material is not found in the Earth's crust.

Shoemaker received the material from a man in the Midwest. This Midwesterner was told as a child by his parents of a glowing object which came in horizontally at 20 mph, then fell 30 feet to the ground, in early July, 1947, about the same time as other objects crashed near Roswell and the Plains of San Agustin (west of Socorro, NM). Because the man's parents had heard about all the ridicule some citizens of Roswell had gotten, they decided not to report this object, but to bury it. After three days, when it was no longer too hot to approach, they covered the area with dirt.

Fifty years later, the son, now a mature man, decided to search for "Dad's flying saucer", and found the buried pieces.

Shoemaker feels that the debris he has from the Midwest, and that from the crash sites at Roswell and at the Plains of San Agustin, are all part of the same extraterrestrial craft, which broke up at the edge of the atmosphere and was subjected to extremely high friction temperature in its descent.

Among the test reports which Shoemaker displayed were analyses from the Colorado School of Mines, the University of New Mexico Institute of Meteoritics, and from Environmental Chemistry Services, Inc. The Ph.D. scientist at the Colorado School of Mines who analyzed the material used X-ray diffraction, isotropic and chemical studies in his analysis.

The material Shoemaker displays is of two types. One is dark-green (chrome-rich), opaque Cristobalite, with the crystals twinned and in fan-shaped groups, not like the Cristobalite found on Earth. Apparently this Cristobalite was formed from Tridymite heated above 1470 degrees Centigrade. Cristobalite and Tridymite are also found in lunar samples and some meteorites. Shoemaker says the University of New Mexico Institute of Meteoritics reports it is not a meteorite.

The other material is very dark gray previously-unknown mineral, which the Colorado School of Mines report called a pyroxene with a composition between hedenbergite and johannsenite. Some of its surface is deeply pitted, looking as if subjected to enormous heat and melting, and contains small perfect spheres of pure iron, consistent with having melted in microgravity.

I asked Shoemaker if he was afraid that UFO Cover-Up enforcers might steal his UFO fragments. A deeply-spiritual man, and a self-described wizard, Shoemaker replied with a twinkle in his eye that Spirit would protect him from such interlopers.

(Continued)

Next Message | Previous Message | List Surrounding Messages

This archive of mailing list messages is provided as a free public courtesy. It is maintained automatically. The webmaster has no control over content, does not review these messages and accepts no liability for the accuracy of information contained herein. Responsibility for this material rests solely with the author and mailing list moderator (if any).

Note: This is a temporary archive only; this message will be deleted eventually. See main page for more info.

Mailing lists archived on this server

*
***
*****
*****
*****

This site is supported by the Research Center Bookstore.
Please visit our catalog if you appreciate our free web services.

Created: Wed Jun 17 00:50:48 EDT 1998