Grandmother Windrider is an Aztec-Mayan clairvoyant, prophet and healer. She began her remarks by calling Dolphin consciousness into the conference hall. Grandmother talked about getting ready for a spiritual battle. She had just returned from Palenque, the ancient temple ruin complex of the Lacandon Forest Maya, in Chiapas State, Mexico. She described Chiapas as a "war zone". She said, "The bridging of the Rainbow People [all races] happened in Chiapas." Grandmother added, "The star-seeded children have come here, have chosen to come here. We need to pay attention." (The Lacandon Maya have a culture of ongoing contact with the Star Nations.)

She talked about having used Peruvian whistles and pipes. (The whistles, which she calls The Voyagers, are double-chambered vessels, which when blown into emit an eerie, ultra-high complex sound. A series of these vessels blown into simultaneously creates an immediate consciousness-altering, mind-transporting effect, as the author can personally attest.) "People blew these whistles; changes happened in individuals. The Voyagers will take you where you need to be. You are here to help others go through the Millennium Passage."

Grandmother told of visiting the Arkansas Cherokee Medicine Society women, and doing ceremony in their lodge. "The Grandmothers (spirits) of the Four Directions came to me, told me to speak, that they would be with me always." As the Grandmothers came in, the lodge flew up over several other lodges, and then finally returned to its original site. Persons outside said that during the flight of the Medicine Society Women's Lodge, they saw the stars in the sky above form a Horn of Plenty, with the opening of the Horn pointed towards the Women's Lodge. Then stars cascaded out of the starry Horn of Plenty towards the campground. "Everyone there received a healing."

Grandmother Windrider declared, "Your bodies are going through a good mutation to prepare you for the Millennium." In the upcoming Earth Changes, some who are not ready to make the transition to the Fifth World will reincarnate elsewhere, on a planet at the more primitive evolutionary stage that Earth has been in. Some will reincarnate to clean up the debris here, and make the transition to the higher-consciousness world-society into which Earth is transitioning. Some will be taken off by the Star Nations to voluntarily live with them.

She described a Dream-vision her son had. One day he would be strapping babies to his back and his bike, and pedalling out of California. She challenged others to be ready to receive these refuge children. She prophesied chaos and volcanoes going off in California. She also noted, "Changes are coming, with a planetoid coming close by. There will be reactions in plants and people. Raise your consciousness to miss the wave, when it comes through." (Apparently, the wave will be electromagnetic, and affect adversely the minds and/or bodies of those who are not operating in higher consciousness.) "The aging of your body will slow down as the planet [Earth] slows down. Your appetite and food taste will change. Learn outdoor survival skills."

Paul Ortega, Mescalero Apache medicine man, devoted the entire time of his remarks to the theme that we have to return to living in a community of love. Love is healing. Love is part of right order. We will not harm Mother Earth if we operate from motivation of love.

Nestor Night Owl, Blackfoot-Delaware prophet, story-teller and healer, practices Native American spirituality, while maintaining a lively awareness of the Nature spirituality many Euro-Americans are now following. Thus he seamlessly bridges the two perspectives when addressing an non-Native audience. Central themes of his message were that we are not "victims", and that victim-consciousness will get us into trouble, mix us up, and make us sick. Night Owl pointed out that fear and love cannot exist simultaneously; therefore, we should choose love.

Pathfinder, a young Cherokee/Apache man, and Silver Star, his Cherokee female consort, have dedicated their lives to helping foster the spiritual growth of Turtle Island, the Native designation of North America. Together with Lakota-Dakota elder Standing Elk, they have used help from the Grandfathers (Star Beings) to decipher some symbols found on a crashed UFO. As these Native teachers stated, these symbols turned out to be universal/spiritual laws. These Laws were first introduced to the public by Standing Elk at the first Star Knowledge Conference. They have compiled the deciphered laws in a book (in English) now available from Standing Elk: "Maka Wicahpi Wicohan: Universal and Spiritual Laws of Creation". Since it incorporates spiritual principles of understanding and behavior acknowledged across the galaxy, it can truly be considered the Star Law Manual of the Galactic Federation. These Laws incorporate such issues as free will, spiritual freedom, change, spiritual growth, movement, balance, spiritual strength, truth, choice, karma, equality, etc. I have dubbed these Laws the Ten Commandments of the Fifth World into which we are transitioning. Mastering the explanations of these Laws will change the way we perceive what we call earthly, starry and heavenly realities.

Miniconjou Sioux spiritual advisor Wableza shared some prophetic visions from Sitting Bull and other Native American leaders. He said that the Mending of the Sacred Hoop (of all creation) is coming soon. But first there will be famine and plagues affecting the whole of Earth's peoples.

Jane Egan is a mild-mannered older woman from Kentucky who told of her experience of being plucked up into a Pleiadean mother ship. There they called her Katreiya, and showed her many things. She learned that humankind had been seeded from the stars. She got to watch a joint crew of Pleiadean and Zeta Reticuli Grey medical officers work on restoring various humans injured in tragedies, such as the Mexico City Earthquake and the Gulf War. She was allowed to attend major conferences, involving ambassadors from various star civilizations, debating policy on upcoming developments regarding the Earth. She also saw notable and average humans on board. In one electrifying meeting, representatives of one star civilization, (in the minority, thank God,) argue to give up on Earthlings and let us blow ourselves to bits. The vast majority of ambassadors successfully argued for continuing the policy of encouraging humans to clean up our ways, and the policy of graduated disclosure of the presence and desire for open contact.

Lakota/Dakota spiritual advisor Standing Elk, a humble man but a classic Indian jokester, said relatively little during the Conference. A man of multiple talents, he operated a videocamera and recorded all the talks. He designated Pathfinder and Silver Star to present the teachings on the Star Nations Laws he had received. He conducted ceremonies during the conference, and afterwards.

During a powerful blessing ceremony in El Paso after the Conference, designed to anchor love in the world, Star Nation spirits were seen by numerous Native Elders as well as this writer during the ceremony and exiting at its conclusion. This writer saw them appearing as glowing violet geometric-shaped forms, perhaps half a foot wide, floating across the totally-dark room at about chest height. Their presence gave the fullest possible meaning to the traditional Native American saying, Mitakuye Oyasin, "All are my relations".
