> tell -- and through OMNI's "Project Open Book" we searched far and wide for examples -- nobody has ever been arrested or charged -- much less convicted and sentenced -- for actually doing so.

NASA's chief "cover story" spokesperson, Mr. Oberg's above misleading statement should get the CSICOP award for dishonest reporting. (CSICOP should know.)

Since, as Mr. Oberg admits, numerous governmental witnesses to UFO matters are intimidated by threats of arrest and sentencing if they went against their National Security oaths and revealed what they know about UFOs, and therefore have refrained from testifying publicly, then OBVIOUSLY Oberg cannot find examples of arrest and sentencing for testifying.

To argue that the absence of arrests "proves" that these government witnesses do not have any genuine basis for fear of arrest is absurd! All Mr. Oberg has to do, if he were really interested in the truth, is read the penalties section of the National Security Act about draconian fines and imprisonment. Such severe penalties would give anyone pause.
